Tanker Blast Rocks Calif. Harbor, Two Known Dead

10 Missing, 30 Hurt In Mystery Explosion; Damage Is Set at 10 Million Dollars

Wilmington, Calif., June 22 (AP).—The tanker Markay, which had just taken aboard 2,940,000 gallons of gasoline, blew up at a loading dock today, rocking the harbor with a triple explosion and spreading fire to several shore installations.

Two men were known dead, 10 were missing and 30 were injured, 12 sufficiently to be hospitalized. Property damage was estimated at more than ten million dollars. Most of the ship's company was ashore at the time of the early morning explosion.

The fire was controlled six hours later. Cause of the explosion was undetermined but crew members charged the operating company with negligence. A company representative declared on the contrary that "all ordinary safety precautions and many more" were observed. Crewmen charged the stack had caught fire twice recently, but nothing was done to eliminate "these hazardous conditions."

William Anderson, division superintendent for the Keystone Shipping Co., operators of the Markay, said he would have no comment until after a thorough investigation.

Two Bodies in Channel

One of the signers of the crewmen's statement was Donald D. Grams, 20, of Augusta, Wis., who said he was asleep, awoke dazed, but managed to clamber down a hawser to safety.

"The whole main deck was in flames," he said. "I could see men fighting their way to the rails through the blaze. Two of them jumped off the fantail . . . they apparently decided they couldn't make it, and turned back toward the blazing oil which surrounded the vessel. I never saw them after that . . ."

Police Lieut. George Robertson said two unidentified victims had been found floating in San Pedro Channel, through which the flames coursed to set afire two passenger terminals.

Cause Still a Mystery

The Keystone Lines tanker Markey, an 11,083-ton, T-2 type, blew up at Shell Oil Co. loading dock. Hours later she was a tangled wreck, buckled and resting on the bottom in mid-channel. The fierce heat kept fireboats at a distance.

The first blast, at 2:05 a. m. (PST) was followed moments later by another. A third, apparently from a below-decks compartment, shook the vessel shortly after 7 a. m.

The cause was a complete mystery as fire officials, after a six-hour battle, announced the flames were under control. Their raging heat blistered paint on several huge tanks on Shell Oil's tank farm on 30-acre Mormon Island, near

Worsham Loses To Ghezzi in PGA; Nats, Browns Split

The golfing pride of Washington, Lew Worsham, recent National Open winner, bowed out of the PGA tournament yesterday at Detroit, losing a 3 and 2 decision to Vic Ghezzi, Kansas City, Kans.

Worsham, after leading by two holes after the morning 18, fell back steadily and was closed out when the quarterfinalists halved the thirty-fourth hole. Ghezzi, the 1941 PGA champion, thus earned a semifinal meeting with Chich Harbert, who downed Leland Gibson, 2 up, yesterday. Other survivors were Jim Ferrier and Art Bell.

In Washington the Nats brought their winning streak to four games by meating the St. Louis Browns, 3-2, in the first game of a doubleheader, but it was the Browns' turn in the nightcap. They ended an eight-game losing streak with a 9-6 victory.

U. N. Puts European Aid Up to Big Four; Pravda Says Russians Want World Amity

London, June 22 (AP).—Russia's desire to cooperate peacefully with other nations "regardless of the difference in economic systems" was voiced today in a Pravad editorial on the eve of a Soviet decision on participation in the Marshall plan for economic aid to Europe.

A Moscow dispatch said the British Embassy was "standing by" for the Soviet answer to a joint French-British invitation to take part in three-power talks on implementing the American plan for rebuilding the war-shattered European economy.

The French and British asked a reply by tomorrow.

The Pravda editorial, broadcast by the Moscow radio on the sixth anniversary of the German invasion of Russia, made no direct mention of the Marshall plan. It said Russia wanted to cooperate "peacefully and in a businesslike manner, regardless of the difference in economic systems, with all countries which are equally sincere in their desire to cooperate."

Meanwhile, William L. Clayton, United States Undersecretary of State for economic affairs, arrived here from Washington to consult with British and American officials. An American Embassy spokesman said Clayton would discuss with British officials "certain aspects" of the British loan and would stop in Paris en route to Geneva to talk with the French about wheat. The French want American wheat to bolster their short supplies.

Clayton will attend the International Trade Conference in Geneva.

The Pravda editorial added that on the sixth anniversary of the invasion, "the Soviet Union vigilantly watches the machinations and provocations of the warmongers, remaining calmly confident in its own strength and in that of the people's craving for a stable and democratic peace."

In Berlin, Taegliche Rundschau, official organ of the Soviet military administration for Germany, hit out again at President Truman's program of giving aid to Russians' Jazz Ace Twits U. S.

By Walter Cronkite

Moscow, June 22 (U.P.).—Leonid Utyesov, director of the State Jazz Band of the Russian federated republic, who was criticized last fall for ideological impurities, now has swung his show back in the proper political groove and is laying them in the aisles nightly with his barbed humor against the Anglo-Americans.

Utyesov, in 2½ hours of songs, dances and jokes, has brought Soviet humor to a new peak with such ideological tidbits as these:

Comedian: "Have you ever noticed the relationship between various parts of the body? For instance, you get your feet wet and you have a cold in the nose. (Laughter). And when a foreign diplomat shoves his nose in someone else's garden, he must use his legs to run away. (More laughter).

"Then take voices. There are good voices and bad hearers, and then there are bad voices and good ears.

"Take the Voice of America. It is a good voice with a bad reception. The Voice of America is original. I'll show you how it works."

Takes Announcer Role

Utyesov then takes the role of announcer for the Voice of America. Speaking in a slight accent, his skit, interrupted frequently by delighted giggles from the Soviet audience, goes like this:

"Our microphone is now in the house of an ordinary American of Russian extraction."

(Utyesov and his partner tramp hard, marking time, for sound effects.)

Utyesov: "You can imagine the large size of the flat of this American if we have to walk so far to the center of one of his rooms.

(To American): 'May I place my microphone in one of your rooms?'"

American: "Sure, all my eight rooms are at your disposal."

Utyesov: "Where are you working?"

American: "At present I'm not working anywhere — I'm unemployed."

Utyesov: "But how do you live? Have you any money?"

American: "Every unemployed man in the United States has at least a few dollars."

Utyesov: "Ring your dollars. Show you have them."

(The American searches his pockets fruitlessly.)

(He makes a clanking sound.)

Utyesov: "This is easy. Every unemployed man can ring a few dollars when he wants to."

'Underestimated'

Jackson Cites Soviet Appeal To Europeans

Canton, N. Y., June 22 (U.P.).—Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson today said the United States is underestimating the appeal of Russia's political beliefs and as a result is making "a miserable failure" of selling democracy in Europe.

Jackson

Calling for an informed public opinion on foreign policy, he said that "prejudice and parochialism can put us behind an iron curtain as dangerous to our security as censorship barriers to understanding can be to other nations."

He said there is enough similarity between the relations of Russia with the world now and those of Germany at the time of the Austrian Anschluss "to make one feel uneasy lest, in time, they be similarly climaxed by world catastrophe." He spoke at commencement exercises at St. Lawrence University.

"It would be a mistake to underestimate the hospitality of the peoples of many countries toward the totalitarian system," he said.

Jackson cited propaganda as one of the most effective weapons of totalitarian governments such as that of Russia. Propaganda, he continued, is used to emphasize all the weaknesses of democracies, while at the same time playing up to the tastes and instincts of the people to which it is addressed.

Jim Tulley, 56, Hobo Author, Dies In Los Angeles

Los Angeles, June 22 (AP).—Jim Tully, 56, hobo author of "Shanty Irish" and "Beggars of Life" who was a prizefighter, circus roustabout and tree surgeon before he turned to writing, died today of heart trouble.

Born near St. Marys, Ohio, Tully spent his early years at St. Joseph's Orphanage in Cincinnati. Three times he tramped across the country, writing about his own experiences and the life of men "on the bum."

His first attempts at verse appeared in the Cleveland Plain Dealer in 1911. His first book, "Emmett Lawler" was published in 1922. Two years later he wrote "Beggars of Life" and in 1926 "Jarnegan." Tully also was a scenario writer for silent films.

Survivors include his widow, Myrtle; one son, Thomas Alton Tully, and a daughter, Mrs. Anna Trilby.

Pole Says Jews Help Develop Annexed Area

New York, June 22 (AP).—The majority of Poland's 120,000 surviving Jews have actively participated in the postwar development of the former German territories of Silesia and Pomerania, Dr. Oscar Lange, permanent Polish delegate to the United Nations, said here today.

Dr. Lange condemned proposals by "some people" that these territories be returned to Germany. He addressed 900 persons at the eighth annual officers' luncheon of the council of organizations of the United Jewish Appeal of Greater New York at Webster Hall.

Can Aid Plan Injure U. S., Asks Truman

Orders 3 Groups To Gauge 'Impact' On Economy After Hoover's Warning

By Charles E. Davis, Jr.
Post Reporter

A searching examination of the effect of present and future aid to foreign countries on our national economy was ordered yesterday by President Truman.

Mr. Truman named three committees to study the "impact" of such aid on our domestic economy.

Two of the studies will be made within the Government. The third will be undertaken by a nonpartisan committee of citizens representing American business, finance, labor, agriculture and educational and research institutions.

Follows Hoover Warning

The President's decision to have the studies made follows recent warnings that this country is overextending itself in its foreign aid program.

On June 15, former President Herbert Hoover declared the United States is "over-exporting" its resources. He said the present rate of gifts and loans to foreign countries could not continue "without further evil consequences to our stability."

Earlier, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.), president of the Senate, had urged that our foreign aid program be based on a "total balance sheet" of American ability to provide goods and services for world rehabilitation.

As Senator Proposed

Vandenberg, who is also chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, proposed such an assessment as the President has now ordered. He suggested a bi-partisan council to advise the Administration on the economic crisis abroad and make recommendations on:

1. The limits within which this country may "safely and wisely" plan its economic help.
2. The basis upon which the help should be given, "including reciprocal considerations."
3. The total needs in Asia as well as Europe.

Proposal Not Mentioned

The Vandenberg proposal, an outgrowth of Secretary of State Marshall's idea for a general European plan of rehabilitation, was not mentioned in the White House statement.

However, the Michigan Senator was among those called to a special meeting in the President's study yesterday afternoon before the announcement was released by Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross at a hastily-celled news conference.

Ross, asked whether the Truman plan is in answer to criticism by Hoover, said:

"The statement speaks for itself."

Krug Heads Committee

This will be the makeup and the assignments of the three committees appointed by the President:

Chairman of one of the Government committees will be Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug. The group will study the present state of this country's financial, industrial and natural resources.

The second Government committee is headed by Dr. Edwin C. Nourse, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, and will study the effect of the foreign aid program on the national economy.

The non-partisan committee, composed of 19 public figures will operate under the chairmanship of Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman.

This committee will recommend

1945 Hapsburg 'Plot' Revealed

Budapest, June 22 (AP).—The Communist-controlled government, enlarging on its theme of saving Hungary from a plot, told the people today of an alleged 1945 plan to restore the Hapsburgs with British connivance. It also related that Ferenc Nagy had ordered unauthorized "armed formations" set up while he was premier.

The government quoted an imprisoned major general in Hungary's wartime army as saying that British secret service officers had participated in negotiations to restore the Hapsburgs as rulers of Austria and Hungary. A 150-page white paper, compiled by the Communists with the assistance in part of Russian occupation forces, said the negotiations took place in September, 1945, seven months after the Red Army captured Budapest.

Other portions of the white paper, obtained by reporters last night prior to its official release today, said Nagy had "tried to make Hungary the southeastern European economic and political base of the United States." Nagy, now in Washington, was forced out of office by the Communist-inspired coup last month.

Two depositions—attributed to Bela Kovacs, former secretary general of Nagy's Smallholders Party and Paul Jaczko, Smallholders deputy—said an armed group was ordered by Nagy to be formed "for the struggle of power in Hungary."

Requests Rejected

The United States and British governments early this month asked for copies of Kovacs' alleged "confession," cited by the Communists as one of the main reasons for the coup, but the requests were rejected.

Maj. Gen. Zoltan Szugyi, commander of the Szest Laszlo Division, which surrendered to the British May 12, 1945, was quoted as saying he "started negotiations

Daily Mail Writer Refuses Czech Request to Leave

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 22 (U.P.).—The ministry of information has verbally asked F. V. Van der Bijl, correspondent for the London Daily Mail, to turn in his correspondent's pass and other credentials, usually reliable informants said today.

The Communist newspaper Rude Pravo demanded June 15 that Van der Bijl be expelled from the country because of a prediction he made that there would be a Communist Group in Slovakia.

Van der Bijl was understood to have replied to the ministry's request that he would not surrender his credentials unless asked in writing to do so, along with the reasons for the action.

World Clipper Reaches Manila

Manila (Monday), June 23—The Pan-American round-the-world clipper with a party of American publishers and editors landed at Nichols Field at 12:20 a. m. today from Bangkok.

A nonstop round of sightseeing and entertainment was laid out by American and Philippines government officials for the visitors, culminating with a state banquet and ball at Malacanan presidential palace. The party is due to proceed to Shanghai Wednesday.

3 Die in Montana Blizzard on First Day of Summer

Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., June 22 (AP).—Snow plows today inched toward Beartooth Pass on the Montana-Wyoming border in the wake of blizzards which killed at least three persons, injured others and marooned many automobiles.

Entombed in a truck on the 11,000-foot pass northeast of Yellowstone Park were the bodies of three Park Road Camp employes found in a truck covered by 15 feet of snow during a 24-hour blizzard of 60-mile-an-hour wind. Snow partly blocked 40 miles of mountain highway between Cooke and Red Lodge, Mont., near the northeast corner of the park.

They died after their truck stalled while seeking help for standed tourists Friday night.

Three or four unidentified tourists were treated in park hospitals—one man for frostbite, another for a heart attack and a woman for hysteria. None required hospital admittance.

About 43 persons were taken from snowbound cars.

A patrol of former Army ski troopers, working with the snowplows, rescued 17 persons, nine of them children, from a trailer house where they had taken refuge nearly 40 hours from their stranded autos.

10 Die When Flash Flood Hits Town in Nebraska; 10 Missing

Cambridge, Nebr., June 22 (AP).—A dawn flash flood left an estimated ten lives lost and 10 missing here today as torrential rains and tornadoes swept central and southwest Nebraska.

In addition to lives lost when Medicine Creek caught people in bed here at 5 a. m. (CST), two persons drowned 60 miles northeast of here when their car plunged into a creek after hitting a highway washout. Tornadoes near Loomis and Gothenburg, Nebr., injured at least nine.

Holes were chopped in roofs of inundated homes here to free flood survivors, most of whom were taken to the high school auditorium where food and clothing were waiting.

About three fourths of this town of about 1000 population was under water, in some places eight to 10 feet deep, according to L. J. Bible of McCook, who flew over the area.

Project Engineer H. E. Robinson of the United States Reclamation Bureau said damage would run

Senate GOP Moves Beforehand to Test Labor Bill in Action

Third Time

Wisconsin GOP Delegates Back Dewey for Presidency

Madison, Wis., June 22 (U.P.).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, twice before the choice of Wisconsin Republicans as a presidential candidate, won the most first-choice-for-1948 votes in a field of 12 voted on by delegates to this year's State convention, a ballot count disclosed today.

The vote was taken 10 months before the primary at which voters preferences will be expressed. Dewey-for-President Club leaders in Wisconsin had asked that their followers boycott it on grounds that an organized campaign for former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, only avowed candidate thus far, already was underway in the State.

But for whatever it was worth, it showed that among the delegates who registered their choices, Dewey had 321 votes, 35 more than Stassen. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, regarded by Wisconsin as a "native son", was in third place with 157, far ahead of such notables as U. S. Senators Robert Taft of Ohio, John Bricker of Ohio, and Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan.

Also noteworthy was the fact that of the 321 who listed Dewey as their first choice, 91 listed Stassen as their second; and of the 286 who gave Stassen first place, 25 picked Dewey in second, giving rise to early speculation on the possible popularity of a Dewey-Stassen ticket in Wisconsin.

(In Washington, Senator Joseph H. McCarthy, Wisconsin campaign manager for Stassen, hailed the vote as reflecting a "tremendous gain" for Stassen.

(McCarthy said he was "encouraged" despite the fact that Stassen trailed Dewey by 35 votes.

("The fact that Dewey and Stassen ran neck and neck is extremely encouraging and shows a tremendous gain in Stassen's strength within the party," he said. "This is doubly true in view of the fact that the Stassen campaign in Wisconsin has not really started yet.

("I frankly did not expect Stassen to show so much strength at this early date. . . . I am now more confident than ever that we can carry Wisconsin for Stassen in 1948.")

Dewey was the choice of Wisconsin delegates at the Republican National Convention in 1940 and in 1944. In the latter year, Wisconsin had 24 delegates at the con-

Housing Probe To Delve Into 'Racketeering'

Gwinn, Head of House Inquiry, Sees Trend Toward 'Collectivism'

By The Associated Press

An investigation of "racketeering and monopoly" in the housing and construction industry was ordered yesterday by the House Labor Committee.

Representative Ralph W. Gwinn (R., N. Y.), who was designated by Chairman Hartley (R., N. J.) to make the investigation, told reporters it would delve into "what appears to be a move to bring about collectivism through increased Federal housing programs."

With Gwinn on the subcommittee are Representatives Owens (R., Ill.) and Lucas (D., Tex.).

Hartley said the subcommittee would investigate "material and labor costs and questionable practices relating to the economics of housing and construction generally" and would inquire into "numerous complaints of abuses that are paralyzing the building business."

Gwinn said hearings would be started in Washington, probably in September, and would be held later in New York, Chicago and West Coast cities, which he did not specify.

"The building trades unions," Gwinn declared, "are tying up all housing, including housing in whole cities and in some instances in States, unless private builders agree to terms calling for wages and overtime that they cannot pay if they want to sell their houses."

The practice, he said, has been aimed mainly at moderately-priced houses and apartments.

"The unions," he said, "are beginning to clamor for more Federal housing because the Government is the only one able to pay the exorbitant prices since it can pass the costs along to the taxpayers.

"Unwittingly, these unions are joining forces with the collectivists in a move to get more public housing, the greatest avenue there is to collectivist society. Government housing means political party control of those who occupy the housing, and in other countries it always has led to allocation of space under a one-party system."

Congress Acts To Speed Must Legislation

Long Daily Sessions Ordered to Permit July 26 Adjournment

By The Associated Press

Congressional leaders passed the word yesterday for long daily sessions to get a heavy docket of "must" measures through before the July 26 adjournment goal.

The Senate hopes to pass this week the measure for unifying the armed services in a single Cabinet department and the presidential sucession bill. Neither has been acted on by the House.

The latter would make the Speaker of the House next in line for the Presidency in the event of simultaneous vacancies in the offices of President and Vice President.

House Acted in 1946

The House passed a presidential succession bill last year, when Democrat Sam Rayburn was the Speaker, but the Senate did nothing about it.

The House Expenditures Committee already has held extensive hearings on the armed forces unification bill and can have it ready for floor action shortly after the Senate votes.

The State Department's "Voice of America" bill, which has precipitated a minor filibuster in the House, tops the heavy schedule of bills on the House program this week. Leaders hope to dispose of it today in time to take up a bill authorizing United States participation in the international refugee organization. But the foreign broadcast bill faces an uncertain future in the Senate.

House leaders have set aside tomorrow for legislation extending the life of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for two more years. Otherwise, the RFC must go out of business on June 30.

The latter part of the House week is reserved for bills setting up a permanent promotion system for the Army and the Navy, extending some of the Maritime Commission's wartime shipping authority, and appropriating funds for operation of Congress and the Army Engineer Corps for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Other Measures in Offing

Two other appropriation measures, financing the District of Columbia government and $1,500,000,000 foreign relief and loan program, are in the offing, while half a dozen departmental supply measures are awaiting Senate action. Of the dozen big appropriation bills, not a one has yet cleared Successor's Name?

Retirement of Major Callahan Will Become Official Today

The Commissioners will formally accept the retirement of Maj. Harvey G. Callahan as superintendent of police today and may name his successor.

Callahan, long ill, has requested that he be retired and the Police and Firemen's Retirement Board has recommended that the Commissioners grant his request.

Most prominently mentioned as Callahan's successor has been Detective Chief Robert J. Barrett.

However, Commissioner John Russell Young, a strong supporter of Barrett, denied Saturday that a new police head had already been chosen.

He said it was "possible" a new police chief would be named today.

Reports that Barrett has the inside track for the job have brought protests against his appointment from the District Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Committee for Racial Democracy in the Nation's Capital.

Selection of Ball To Head 'Watchdog' Group Anticipates Overriding of Veto

By The Associated Press

Senate Republicans, certain they will enact the Taft-Hartley labor bill today over President Truman's veto, were reported yesterday to have picked Senator Ball (R., Minn.) to head the act's "watchdog" committee.

The measure provides for a 14-member Senate-House committee to review the whole field of labor-management relations. Senator Taft (R., Ohio) told a reporter he expected it to be organized immediately and to study the operation of the new legislation as well.

"It should be the watchdog committee to determine from the bill's operations whether there are any kinks in the law that ought to be straightened out," he said. "If any failures or obvious injustices develop, we can consider revisions at the next session of Congress in January."

The Senate has agreed to vote on overriding the Presidential veto at 3 p. m. (Eastern Daylight Time) today. This agreement was engineered by Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican whip, yesterday after 28½ hours of a continuous session. A little group of the bill's bitter-end opponents gave up a filibuster.

Claims More Than Enough

The Republican chiefs claim three or four votes more than the required two-thirds majority. And Senator Pepper (D., Fla.), a supporter of the President's position, told newsmen he thought there was only an "outside chance" to sustain the veto. The House had smashed it down Friday, as soon as it was delivered, 331 to 83.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO, yesterday telegraphed Senator Barkley, Democratic floor leader and Robt. E. Hannegan, national chairman, urging that Democrats uphold the President. He said the vote "will be the test whether the Democratic Party can be the instrument for the protection of the interests of the American people against those who would destroy our democracy."

Eben Ayers, assistant White House press secretary, said in response to a query late yesterday that about 1000 telegrams on the labor bill, all contgratulating the President on the veto, had come in since Mr. Truman's message went to Congress Friday. There has been no time for letters to get in, he said.

Ayers estimated correspondence up to the time of the veto at 180,000 letters, 575,000 cards and 30,000 telegrams, about five to one in favor of a veto.

A heavy volume of telegrams also was being received for Senators. Western Union officials had no immediate count on the number.

A favorable vote for the bill in the Senate automatically would put it into effect, bringing the first major revisions in the Wagner Labor Relations Act since its passage early in the Roosevelt Administration.

Included in the measure's provisions are bans on the closed shop, jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts, foremen's bargaining unions and union-controlled health and welfare funds established since January 1, 1946. The measure also carried provisions governing "national paralysis" strikes, suits against unions, union fees and free speech for employers.

Ball certainly has been disposed

Mobs Burn 200 Houses, 5 Killed In Indian Riots

Calcutta, June 22 (AP).—Rioting between Hindus and Moslems flared in Calcutta today and four persons were killed and nine injured in violence that swept over the east, north and central sections of the great Bengal city.

In Lahore, capital of restive Punjab Province, mobs set huge fires that destroyed 200 houses filled with valuable merchandise. One man was stabbed to death. Police fired at one mob, which tried to attack a Sikh temple.

Authorities arrested 76 persons, 34 as the result of a Hindu-Moslem clash here.

Reich Held Living On Starvation Diet

Gen. Clay Reports 45 Million Get Only 1100 Calories Daily

Berlin, June 22 (U.P.).—Gen. Lucius D. Clay reported to the War Department today that 45 million Germans in the combined American-British zones were living on a starvation diet of 1100 calories a day, despite increased food shipments from the United States.

Clay, the American military governor, said in his regular semimonthly report on the occupation that the ration from May 26 to June 22 was based upon a maximum of 1550 calories a day. But, he said, available food stocks permitted the distribution of only some 1100 calories.

Most relief food was sent into the Ruhr, where hunger was most acute. Clay disclosed that United States Army food reserves had to be tapped to meet shortages in the American sector of Berlin. Approximately 3000 metric tons of dehydrated potatoes and 4000 metric tons of fresh potatoes were taken from Army reserves.

Now, Clay said, food was being shipped out of the rich agricultural regions of Bavaria to less fortunate districts of the combined zones. Three hundred and fifteen cars of fresh meat were shipped out of Bavaria in the two weeks ending June 14.

Clay's report showed that the food crisis was by no means over. He indicated, however, that progress was being made, with help from the United States.

The coal output of the Ruhr remained at a reasonably high level, although during the period covered by the report it fell 17,000 metric tons a day below the postwar high of 233,000 tons. He said the unrest brought on by the food crisis caused the coal output of the Ruhr to drop to 208,000 metric tons on June 2.

Clay has repeatedly stressed the importance of coal as the key to Germany's economic problems.

In Palestine

U. N. Board Sees Danger In Hangings

Jerusalem, June 22 (AP).—The United Nations Commission on Palestine expressed official "concern" today as to possible "unfavorable repercussions" if the British carry out death sentences imposed recently on three convicted Jewish terrorists.

The commission's action, contained in a resolution, was taken at a secret meeting this afternoon.

Emil Sandstroem of Sweden, commission chairman, said the 11-nation body could not intervene directly in the case because the matter was beyond its jurisdiction, but added that a copy of the resolution would be sent to the U. N. general secretary for relay to Britain.

Accompanying the resolution will be an appeal which the mothers of the three young condemned men, all members of the underground organization Irgun Zvai Leumi, sent to the commission, he said.

While the commission was meeting, five persons described by police as Jewish terrorists attempted unsuccessfully to kidnap a high-ranking British police officer from a nearby bookstore.

An official announcement said of the attackers clubbed the policeman on the head with a pistol butt while a woman clapped a chloroform-soaked rag over his face. The attackers fled when a passing army officer hailed a police car and rushed to the rescue.

The policeman was identified as C. J. C. Pound, assistant superintendent of criminal investigation in the frontier department.

The resolution passed by the U. N. commission dealt only with an appeal by the mothers of the condemned men, and made no mention of a similar appeal by Irgun.

Bloodshed Feared

Some members of the commission were said to have expressed fear that the executions would precipitate a blood bath in the Holy Land.

The three condemned men—Meir Nakar, Absalom Habib and Jacob Weiss—were convicted of participating in an attack last month against Acre Prison, which resulted in the escape of some 250 convicts.

It was disclosed that a band of some 40 war-toughened British army officers—parachutists, commandos and underground liaison men—had been striking back secretly at the underground in defiance of army regulations.

The existence of the secret organization came to light with the announcement of the escape here last Thursday of Maj. Roy Alexander Farran, Briton arrested in connection with the disappearance of a 16-year-old Jew.

Farran, holder of 26 military decorations for gallantry, was arrested in Syria at the request of the British. Brought to Damascus, he spent a week night clubbing with agents of the Palestine government's criminal investigation division while extradition technicalities were being worked out. He was returned under guard to Jerusalem, where he escaped through the window of a crowded mess hall at Allenby barracks.

One army brigadier acknowledged he had headed one of the "antiterror operational columns" and said that "since the Farran business I've been sacked."

Passing of Liberty Feared by Adm. Byrd

Boston, June 22 (INS).—Adm. Richard E. Byrd told 450 Northeastern University graduates today that "your elders are leaving you in a tough world.

"This world," he said, "is such a mixed up place that liberty may pass from the face of the earth before any of you are as old as I am."

The Antarctic explorer spoke at the annual commencement exercises in Symphony Hall.

Messman Stabs Seamen

Manila, June 22 (AP).—Norwegian Consul Even Hurum reported today that two seamen were wounded seriously by a knife-brandishing Filipino messman who then leaped overboard from a Norwegian ship en route to Manila from New York. The consul said the incident occurred June 17 as the motorship Lidvard was passing through San Bernardino Strait between Luzon and Samar.

to Mr. Truman how much of the national resources can be channeled into foreign aid without injuring or wrecking the national economy.

Asked to serve on the nonpartisan committee are:

Hiland Batcheller, president of the Allegheny-Ludlum Steel Corp.

W. Randolph Burgess, vice chairman of the National City Bank of New York.

Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker Corp.

Robert Koenig, president of the Ayrshire Collieries Co.

Granville Conway, president of the Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., Inc.

Melville F. Coolbaugh, former president of the Colorado School of Mines.

Chester C. Davis, president of the Federal Reserve Bank, St. Louis.

R. R. Deupree, president of the Proctor & Gamble Co.

Edward S. Mason, dean of the School of Public Administration, Harvard University.

Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institution.

William I. Myers, dean of the College of Agriculture, Cornell University.

Robert Gordon Sproul, president of the University of California.

Owen D. Young, honorary chairman of the board of directors, General Electric Co.

In a statement announcing creation of the three committees, Mr. Truman said:

"The impact upon our domestic economy of the assistance we are now furnishing or may furnish to foreign countries is a matter of grave concern to every American.

"I believe we are generally agreed that the recovery of production abroad is essential, both to a vigorous democracy and to a peace founded on democracy and freedom.

"It is essential also to a world trade in which our businessmen, farmers and workers may benefit from substantial exports and in which their customers may be able to pay for these goods."

But, said the President, "the extent to which we should continue aiding such recovery is less easy to ascertain, and merits most careful study."

The President said he had asked the committees to report the results of their studies to him "within the shortest possible time."

The White House meeting which preceded release of the statement was attended by some members of Mr. Truman's cabinet and top Republican and Democratic leaders of the Senate.

Present were Vandenberg, Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, Secretary of the Interior Krug, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, Senator Tom Connally (D., Tex.), Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson, Undersecretary of Commerce William C. Foster, John R. Steelman, the President's special advisor, and Press Secretary Ross.

Ross said Senate Minority Leader Alben W. Barkley (D., Ky.) had been invited to the meeting but was unable to attend.

Egypt Seeks U. N. Action

Cairo, June 22 (AP).—Premier Mammoud Fahmy Nokrashy Pasma says it is almost certain that the Egyptian case will be raised before the United Nations Security Council next month.

He said last night Egypt would complain about British troop dispositions and the administration of the Sudan, which is under joint British-Egyptian rule.

Greek Relief Made Difficult By Political Controversies

By M. W. Fodor

(Post reporter, authority on the Balkans and Near East, author of "Plot and Counterplot in Central Europe," "South of Hitler" and other works.)

Athens, June 22.—There is still much controversy about the Greek War Relief Association, Inc., here. Royalist papers continuously accuse it, more or less openly, of having been partisan in its distribution. This charge in realty appears to be unfounded. Royalists, however, do not like it if Leftists benefit by these goodwill packages, although many of the senders sympathize with the Republicans rather than with the Royalists.

Under these difficult conditions the Greek War Relief Association is doing a good job. Last month the association in the USA transmitted a statement to the Greek government, stating it realized the necessity for cooperation with the duly constituted government of Greece. But the responsibility of the director of foreign operations (Charles Abernethy of New York) cannot be delegated to a committee of Greek nationals.

The association, however, will observe the same rules as the United States Government in choosing its employes; namely, not to accept anybody who advocates the overthrow of the government by force. As in the past, relief will be distributed among the people without discrimination as to race, creed or political belief.

The Greek War Relief program foresees public health and medical aid to the amount of four million dollars, the chief item of which is $1,300,000 for the construction of a 250-bed general hospital in Tripolis, Peloponnesos. In the program for the year commencing June 1, 1947, and ending May 31, 1948, grants to American and Greek educational and welfare institutions amount to $100,000. This is in addition to a $600,000 Greek war orphans' project, particularly for the devastated areas, with further gifts in kind, food, clothing, etc., to a value of $1,250,000—altogether amounting to a sum of $6,364,000.

the Senate-House conference and been finally passed.

Somewhere into the crowded House docket, leaders hope to push bills continuing export controls on such things as petroleum, providing for immediate redemption of the five-year terminal leave pay bonds issued last year to former servicemen, and retaining for another year the 3-cent rate on first-class mail.

They have virtually abandoned hope for action this year on universal military training and on general increases in postal rates.

Another presidential recommendation, for authority to standardize the arms and military training of the Latin-American republics and Canada with that of the United States, also seems likely to get nowhere this session. But the House Foreign Affairs Committee will open hearings on it today. Secretary of State Marshall and military leaders are to testify.

Wallace Again Makes Threat To Bolt Party

New York, June 22 (U.P.).—Henry A. Wallace said today that he did not want the United States to lose its way of life "by meekly accepting products which are labeled bi-partisan" and which will lead to war.

The former Vice President, in a national network broadcast, said that if the rank and file of the Democratic Government, with the support of independent groups, does not change "our present disastrous course, I shall no longer be a Democrat."

In a statement issued after the broadcast Wallace said:

"I am sure that the vote of Democrats in the United States Senate (on the veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill) will show the American people whether they can count on the Democratic Party as a party of Roosevelt liberalism."

Wants Veto Upheld

He urged in his broadcast speech that pressure be brought on the Senate to uphold the veto.

"I have started by opposition," he said, "to bipartisan policies which are dictated by reactionaries, whether they are foreign policies or antilabor policies.

Wallace, in a summary of his remarks in 28 cities in a seven-week tour, said that if the United States will furnish economic leadership to fight misery "in the same way as she organized to fight fascism, the whole world will enter upon a period of peace and prosperity."

Cites Truman Doctrine

He called for prompt United States repudiation of the speech of British Foreign Minister Bevin last week, asserting that it represented a "return" to the Truman doctrine from the more recent "Marshall doctrine."

"The Marshall doctrine, expounded by the Secretary of State at Harvard University, represented a great advance over the Truman doctrine," He said. "Marshall recognized that the fundamental problem is one of economics, that Europe must share in the effort, and that she must be added as a whole and not country by country."

Pressurized Glass 'Bubble' To Protect Pilot of Future

By the United Press

The pilot of the supersonic pursuit plane of tomorrow will bail out in a pressurized glass capsule that will protect him from heat, lack of oxygen and rarified atmosphere at altitudes above 20 miles, Army Air Force scientists said yesterday.

If he didn't, AAF experts said, he would be decompressed by suddenly leaving the pressurized cabin of his plane, and would be subject to temperatures above 200 degrees, higher than any climate on earth.

If that didn't kill him, the sudden contact with the winds of the slipstream of his rocket plane would, the Air Surgeon General's office reports.

The Army Air Forces, in cooperation with the Navy, the Canadians and the British are working on a capsule-like glass bubble in which the pilot would be enclosed.

The pilot would jettison himself out of a disabled plane inside of this capsule. The capsule would contain an oxygen supply for him to breathe and be pressurized against the outside atmosphere. It may also have to be insulated.

The British are reported to have installed such a capsule in one of their latest pursuit planes. Meantime designers are taking the problem into consideration in the design of planes that will attempt to pass the sonic speed barrier.

The pilot would stay in the bubble until he had drifted far enough into the earth's atmosphere to leave the capsule safely and parachute the rest of the way.

Fliers May Prepare Meal in One Minute

By The Associated Press

The Army is testing for possible use by fliers a new gadget designed to defrost and heat a pre-cooked meal in one minute.

The 100-pound unit is undergoing tests at the Aero-Medical Laboratory at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, and at the Food and Container Institute in Chicago, the Army announced tonight.

Of foremost importance will be the problem of feeding heavy bombers crews likely to be traveling 10,000 miles.

Reds Criticize U. S. Action On Jap Isles

Moscow, June 22 (AP).—The government newspaper, Izvestia, today accused the United States of establishing bases on islands won from the Japanese, without waiting for decisions of the Japanese peace conference.

"Numerous naval aviation bases were built by the Japanese on islands seized by the Americans," Izvestia said. "In many cases, without waiting for the peace conference decisions, they expand and re-equip these bases. The American armed forces are ignoring the interests of the other Allied powers and fully control the main Japanese islands."

(Last April the United Nations Security Council, with Russia concurring, gave the United States sole trusteeship over three strategic Pacific island chains wrested from the Japanese during the war. The United States was given the right to fortify the islands, build naval, military and air bases and station American troops on them. The islands included Saipan, Tinian, Truk, Eniwetok and Kwajalein.

(The United States has conceded in advance of the peace treaty that Russia will keep the Kurile Islands, which extend northward from the Japanese homeland to Russia's Kamchatka Peninsula.)

The Izvestia article declared also that "American military theorists and publicists, reflecting the views of expanionist circles, frankly discuss future operations of the American air forces against an 'unknown foe,' and the shortest routes to industrial centers which go through the Arctic."

Monty to Visit MacArthur

London, June 22 (AP).—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery plans a four-day visit to General MacArthur in Japan in the course of a two-month tour of the Pacific now under way, he announced tonight through the war office.

"General MacArthur has sent me a very warm invitation and as he is the only senior American general I have never met, I am very anxious to see him," the chief of the Imperial General Staff said.

MacArthur Favors Start On Japanese Treaty

By the United Press

Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported last night that the Japanese have revised extensively their laws governing finance, labor, education, religion and government and are ready to begin peace treaty negotiations in the "immediate" future.

The supreme Allied commander said in his monthly report that delay in concluding the treaty would "further cripple the Japanese economy and make more aid from the United States necessary."

Second Antarctic Expedition

Tokyo, June 22 (U.P.).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today ordered a second Antarctic whaling expedition manned by Japanese and controlled by the Allied supreme command.

Jap Surrender Said Delayed By Russians

By the United Press

Emperor Hirohito decided in February, 1945, that Japan must surrender, but Russia, when asked to be the intermediary, "smothered" the maneuver, former Brig. Gen. Bonner Fellers said last night.

Fellers

Fellers, one-time military secretary to Gen. Douglas MacArthur and also chief of the Army's psychological warfare against Japan, said in the July issue of Foreign Service, magazine of the Veterans of Foreign Wars:

". . . I learned that the USSR first smothered Japanese surrender moves throughout the winter and late spring of 1945 by extortionate demands, simply as a fee for acting as intermediary between Japan and the United States.

"In July (of 1945), she again blocked an attempt at capitulation by failing to receive Prince Konoye as an official envoy from Japan's Emperor with authority to surrender and negotiate a peace.

"Beyond doubt, Hirohito's repeated attempts to obtain peace months before the August surrender show clearly that the atomic bomb neither induced his decision to surrender nor did it have an effect on the ultimate outcome of the war."

Russia, he said, "was determined to obtain a dominant position in the Orient . . . and to implement this determination she planned to enter the war at a time most favorable to her."

Fellers said the information was gleaned from personal interviews with Hirohito and various of his staff officers. He now lives in Washington and is consultant to the VFW on public relations.

Stabilization Hearings Open Tomorrow

By The Associated Press

The joint congressional committee on the economic report will open hearings tomorrow on prices and economic stabilization.

Wilson

Chairman Taft (R., Ohio) announced yesterday that the first witnesses in the hearings, to run through mid-July, will be Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corp., and S. Sloan Colt, president of the Bankers Trust Co., New York.

"The committee plans to question leaders in industry, trade, finance, agriculture and labor, both on the present relation of prices, profits and wages, and on the long-run problem of maintaining conditions that are favorable to economic stability and progress generally," Taft said in a statement.

Hearings will be held three days weekly through July 17, except for the first week in July when there will be only one.

Taft said others who have agreed to testify include:

June 25: Paul Hoffman, chairman of the committee for economic development and president of the Studebaker Corp., and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

June 26: Philip Murray, president of the CIO, and Fowler McCormick, chairman of the International Harvester Co.

July 2: Millard D. Brown, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, Philadelphia, and John H. Williams, vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Radios in 5,500,000 Homes, Moscow Says

London, June 22 (AP).—A Moscow broadcast said today that more than 5,500,000 Russians have radios in their homes. The broadcast said the figure was greater than before the war, but gave no comparative figure. Total population of Russia is slightly under 197 million.

The United States had 60 million radio sets in use last year, according to the 1947 World Almanac. The total population is 139,621,431.

Anti-Veto Vote Is Anticipated

to go further in attempting to curb the activities of unions than Taft and some other members of the Senate Labor Committee. He urged the Senate unsuccessfully to adopt an amendment curbing industry-wide bargaining, a provision the House approved, but which was lost in the final compromise version.

The watchdog committee seems likely to have plenty of work. Some supporters, as well as opponents, of the Taft-Hartley bill already plan to seek revisions in it.

Senator Hatch (D., N. Mex.), who plans to vote to override the veto, told a reporter he thought something must be done about the provision that would permit the Government to obtain 80-day injunctions against national emergency strikes.

Mr. Truman said that section was unworkable and would only postpone, not stop, a coal walkout. Hatch said he agreed and thought something else ought to be worked out, but conceded that such action would have to wait until the next session of Congress.

Senator Tydings (D., Md.), another planning to vote to override the veto, similarly voiced doubt whether the "rosy promise" of this section will be realized.

Taft expressed doubt that the provision would affect a possible coal strike. There is a legal question, he said, whether the Government could force miners to continue work for a specified time for a "new employer" with whom they have no contract.

New Coal Wage Contract Talks Held 'Snagged' by Labor Bills

By the United Press

The new coal wage contract talks are "hopelessly snagged" by labor and mine safety legislation in Congress, officials said yesterday, and it was considered almost certain the mines would close for a vacation next Friday without a contract guaranteeing reopening on July 7.

Certain of only five days more full production when the mines reopen today, the Nation will reach the end of the month with the shortest soft coal stockpiles on record in the face of a national coal contract termination, a Federal mines official said.

Officials of the Coal Mines Administration, whose authority expires June 30, said they would make no efforts to get the soft coal operators and President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers (AFL) together until after the Senate acts today on President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley Labor Control bill.

Another round in the dispute between the operators and Lewis will be fought before a Senate public lands subcommittee today. The operators are scheduled to appear again against the recommendation of Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug for a one-year extension of the Federal mine safety code. Krug and the UMW have requested the extension of joint congressional resolution until Congress can act on permanent mine safety legislation.

Meanwhile, the National Coal Association expressed concern lest a new walkout in the soft coal mines lead to their seizure again by the Government. It said that "subsequent events" after the Government turns the seized mines back to the private owners "might precipitate proposals for new legislation to give the Government new authority to seize and operate industries, or segments thereof."

Senate Probe of Steel Prices Opens on West Coast Today

By The Associated Press

The Senate Steel Subcommittee announced yesterday it will shift its investigation into the so-called gray market in steel to the West Coast this week.

Chairman Martin (R., Pa.) said the group, which has been inquiring into steel distribution and sales at two and three times the normal mill price, "decided that an on-the-spot investigation would be mutually helpful and informative."

He said the Small Business Subcommittee has received a number of complaints from West Coast businessmen that they have been unable to buy steel except at exorbitant prices. Hearings will open in Los Angeles today, Martin said.

Senator Cain (R., Wash.) was named chairman of the Western inquiry, but is not expected to make the trip because of press of business, Martin said. George F. Meredith, executive director of the staff, and Raymond Dickey, chief counsel, will conduct the hearings.

Martin cited a telegram from Don W. Vincent, production manager of the Modern Refrigerator Works, Glendale, Calif., as typical of the complaints the group has received. He said Vincent wired:

"Be assured that $200 (a ton) sheet steel on the West Coast would be considered very legitimate from the only sources that can supply any quantity of sheet steel. Out here wasters and rejects sell for $240 a ton, anything passable from $260 to $300. Poor grade galvanized sells for $340 per ton."

The subcommittee already has heard evidence that sheet steel is selling for as high as $260 a ton. Normal mill price is slightly under $80.

with the Austrian royalists in September, 1945."

"On behalf of the British, Major Saunder, head of the British Secret Service, Captain King and another captain whose name I don't remember, were present," the deposition said. "This meeting took place at the time when the two brothers of (Archduke) Otto of Hapsburg visited the Austrian royalists.

"The real reason for the negotiations was the restoration of the Hapsburgs both in Hungary and Austria."

The white paper said that the Hungarian National Liberation Committee ordered Szugyi in October 1944 to try to elude the Russians and to surrender his division to the British.

"Carried Out Task"

"I carried out my task perfectly," the decument quoted the major general as saying.

Szugyi also asserted that the British were "willing to recognize the continuation of Regent Horthy's rights," the white paper said.

Admiral Nicholas Horthy is in exile in Germany. The Communists have charged that centrist members of the Smallholders Party plotted during the last year to restore the Horthy regime.

Jaczko's deposition said that Nagy, Kovacs and former Speaker of the House Bela Varga instructed him in March, 1946, to form an armed military group, which "the Smallholders needed in the struggle for power."

Kovacs was quoted as saying that the group was formed because "it was assumed that it was the intention of the Communist Party to take over power in Hungary through a putsch."

Kovacs' deposition added that he was informed last November by one of his lieutenants, who since has disappeared, that "the British were dissatisfied with the activities of Nagy and that he would have to be hanged."

Tildy Scoffs at Reports

Lake Balaton, Hungary, June 22 (U.P.). — President Voltan Tildy dangled a fishing rod from the pier of his modest Lake Balaton estate today and scoffed at reports that he had tried to resign when Premier Ferenc Nagy quit.

"I will not resign, I never intended to resign, I never attempted to resign," he said. "As for all the rumors abroad, they leave me untroubled."

It was the first newspaper interview that the 56-year-old President has given since the Hungarian cabinet crisis.

He refused to discuss any phase of the alleged conspiracy in which Premier Ferenc Nagy went out. He said that was a "matter for the government and the courts."

Tildy insisted that he had extremely limited powers and actually was no more than a figurehead.

Mrs. Tildy, a gray-haired woman; their son, Zoltan, , ,jrwho is chief of the National Forestry Administration; their son-in-law, Viktor Czornoki, Small Holder member of Parliament and former counsellor of the legation in Washington; two children and two grandchildren also were there.

Tildy spoke in Hungarian with delays for translation, but it was obvious that he understood all English that was spoken. Nearly all members of his family speak excellent English.

"Absurd", Nagy Says

By The Associated Press

Ferenc Nagy, former Premier of Hungary, yesterday termed charges made against him by the communists "absured" and said they threw him out of office apparently for "conspiring to establish friendly relations with the United States."

He also scouted talk of establishing a Hungarian "government-in-exile" in the United States, at least for the present.

Nagy denied the accusations of a "white paper" that charges that he "tried to make Hungary the southeastern European economic and political base of the United States."

Nagy gave his reply to an interviewer through Aladar Szegedy-Maszak, former Hungarian Minister to the United States.

"At last we know what the 'conspiracy' was for which I am exiled," Nagy said.

One specific charge that Nagy called "absurd" was that American officials encouraged his opposition to the Communists by promising loans to Hungary.

"I wanted to establish a western-type democracy with American help," Nagy said, "because the United States had been the only country to offer us substantial assistance after the war."

Bodies of 63 Unknown Dead Buried in Texas City Cemetery

Texas City, Tex., June 22 (AP).—Sixty-six days after its disaster of chain-like explosion and fire, Texas City today committed its 63 unknown dead to "God's gracious mercy and protection."

At a one-acre Memorial Cemetery on the sun-swept Texas Coastal Plains, five ministers conducted a 20-minute all-faith burial service for the charred and broken bodies of the unidentified among the 468 known victims of the Nation's greatest postwar disaster of April 16-17.

In the background, four miles to the south, stood the skeleton remains of the city's industrial plants, now only a constant reminder of the catastrophe that touched, directly or indirectly, practically every home in this little city of 15,000.

The quiet-spoken crowd of 2200 stood patiently around the small cemetery, cut from the roadside edge of a pasture on the northern outskirts of town, as delay in placing the 63 identical caskets over the trench-like graves held up the services for two hours.

The services were read in Hebrew, Latin and English from a small rostrum at the center of the cemetery. Directly in front of the speakers was a large wreath of white roses, containing a Red Cross. To each side and behind the stand were other floral tributes bearing such simple markings as "Mother and Dad," "Carpenters' Local" and "Medrano Family."

U. N. Hopeful Of Big 4 Helps

Hungary, Greece, Italy, Poland and Yugoslavia. Their estimated relief needs of 583 million dollars for 1947 are far from being met by commitments thus far from the wealthier U. N. member states.

Figures gathered last week by the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization indicate these countries will be critically short of food until the late summer harvest.

One World "Dead Duck"

In Washington Senator Capper (R., Kans.) declared it is "extremely doubtful" whether Russia will "allow the United Nations organization to function."

The ranking majority member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a statement said the "one world government thesis propounded" by the late President Roosevelt and the late Wendell Willkie "is a dead duck."

"The only one world government that Communist Russia would consider is a Russian Communist one world government," he asserted.

Paraguayans Say Uruguay Aided Rebels

Asuncion, Paraguay, June 22 (U.P.). The Foreign Office disclosed today that Paraguay has protested formally to Uruguay and accused it of violating the international law of neutrality by allegedly aiding paraguyan rebels in two gunboats anchored off the Uruguayan coast.

The two Paraguayan warships involved are the Humaita and Paraguay, which sailed from Buenos Aires, Argentina, toward Paraguay early last month after a mutiny in which commanders loyal to Paraguayan President Higinio Morinigo were overthrown. The rebels said they intended to fight on the side of Paraguayan army groups which rose against Morinigo in northern Paraguay March 7, but they lacked provisions to make the long journey upriver to the rebel army garrison at Concepcion, Paraguay.

Reds Desire To Cooperate

Greece and Turkey.

The newspaper asserted it was "regrettable" that the peacetime cooperation of the East-West coalition was endangered by "reactionary elements in the Western nations who are reviving the old Goebbels cries of 'Communist perils and Soviet expansion.'"

Russian Acceptance Probable

Moscow disclosed that Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, in the invitation they sent Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to confer, emphasized that the presentation by European nations of a specific plan to take advantage of the Marshall offer was "very urgent." It was denied, however, that reports that a reply was requested by tomorrow were correct.

Speculation that Russia might agree finally to take part in the Marshall plan was based partly on:

1. The fact that Russia badly needs economic assistance to speed her own recovery.

2. Reports in diplomatic circles here that the governments of Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, key Russian satellites, are urging the Moscow government to accept the Marshall plan.

Czechs Study Marshall Plan

Sofia, Bulgaria, June 22 (U.P.).—Vladimir Clementis, Czechoslovak deputy foreign minister, said today that his government was studying Secretary of State George C. Marshall's plan for European recovery but had reached no decision.

Clementis was about to leave for Prague after signing last week a Bulgaria-Czechoslovakia cultural treaty. He said there had been no discussion of a possible political agreement.

Parley Seeks Socialism for All of Europe

Paris, June 22.—Socialist delegates from 15 European countries urged today that the Marshall plan for American economic aid to Europe become the first step in the establishment of a Socialist federation of European states.

The 150 delegates wound up a two-day conference sponsored by the Committee for the United Socialist States of Europe with a resolution to inquire of the American Secretary of State whether a common economic program involving widespread Socialist measures would be acceptable to the United States.

French Socialist leaders attending the conference explained they feared that if the Marshall plan is applied only to western European countries it will drive a deeper wedge between Soviets and the Americans. They also doubted that American aid will ever be sent to Russia even if the Soviets decide to participate in the preliminary discussions with France and Great Britain.

"We feel that only a united Socialist Europe independent of both Soviet or American ties is the best vehicle for carrying out the Marshall plan as a nonpolitical measure," declared Dr. Jacques Robin of the French delegation.

The conference also adopted a resolution calling for an economically united Germany as an indispensable part of any European federation.

Nations represented were Britain, France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Germany, Greece, Holland, Hungary, Italy, Norway, Poland, Republican Spain, Switzerland and Yugoslavia.

Another conference will be sponsored by the committee within a few weeks, it was stated, to discuss colonial problems of various European countries.

Jap Minister Resigns

Tokyo, June 22 (AP).—Finance Minister Shotaro Yano, who suffered a mild paralytic stroke recently, has recided to resign from Japan's coalition cabinet, Foreign Minister Hitoshi Ashoshi said today.

the turning basin in the busy channel.

Water spouts atop the tanks—20 of which on the Shell property alone contained 325,000 barrels of fuel—apparently saved an explosion which would have wreaked tremendous devastation throughout the entire Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor area.

Hightening the mystery, however, was a notice posted on a tug which barely escaped the blast. Signed by W. H. Orwig, who was otherwise unidentified, the order on the United Towing Co. tug read:

"No smoking will be permitted while the SS Markey is loading at Shell dock—on any of our barges or tugs."

The tug's skipper, Capt. Larry Fawcett, was quoted by Edsel Newton, ship news reporter for the Long Beach Press-Telegram, as saying that such a notice was "unusual."

Newton, who has covered the waterfront for years, estimated the total property damages at between 10 million and 12 million dollars.

Wholly or partially destroyed were the passenger and freight terminals of the American President Lines and the Matson Lines. A Matson freighted, the Mumalei, escaped from her slip only to be trapped in midchannel by flames which crept across the water, and for a time appeared doomed. Fire boats, aided by Navy vessels, finally saved her. Considerable damage also was reported to the Texas Co.'s loading dock, adjacent to Shell's, which was a blackened pier.

Federal School Aid Urged By Mrs. Meyer

A vigorous "yes" was given yesterday to the question "Is Federal Aid to Education Necessary?" by Mrs. Eugene Meyer on a coast-to-coast broadcast of "Peoples' Platform" over CBS.

Mrs. Meyer, who has written extensively on social problems for The Post, painted a detailed picture of need for Federal assistance to States. Among the evidence cited was a statement in the 1940 census that 10 million persons had so little schooling "they were unfit for the ordinary demands of life."

Representative Ralph W. Gwinn (R., N. Y.), who opposed the program now being considered by the Senate, declared that school officials in the "poorer States" did not want Federal aid and that Government control of education in the State schools would inevitably follow granting of aid.

Mrs. Meyer, who has made many studies of social and educational facilities of the Nation, said that during the war she had encountered "thousands and thousands" of illiterate and untrained American citizens in neglected rural areas and impovished towns and communities.

To them, "the Nation has an inescapable responsibility," she said, not only for "human reasons," but also because this segment of the population constituted an "economic burden" and would be "easy prey for any demagogue of the right or left."

The New York Congressman admitted he favored granting aid to "poor States" but only if they showed complete inability to finance adequate education. However, he declared, many States had adequate treasury surpluses to permit improvement of education.

Indicating support for the Taft bill providing for an appropriation of 300 million dollars to put a "modest floor" under education, Mrs. Meyer said that Federal aid for education began 150 yeare ago by authorizing land grants for schools and aid for vocational and local schools.

Spellman Says Nations Gird To 'Annihilate'

Ottawa, June 22 (U.P.).—Francis Cardinal Spellman told throngs gathered at the pontifical mass of the Marian Congress today that it was folly "to deceive ourselves that we are at peace" when nations secretly gird for a "war of annihilation."

Cardinal Spellman said that the promised peace that would have consoled nations for their sacrifice was "not written upon the curtain that ended the drama of war."

"For the atomic bomb seems to have brought but a grim interlude of contradiction in our decade of despair, when science is appraised not for the uses of peace but for its protection against new wars," he said.

More than 100,000 visitors were estimated to be here for the final day of the congress in which masses were scheduled starting after midnight in order to accommodate the crowds.

Thousands spent the night in Lansdown Park sleeping on the ground and on benches as they waited to attend masses and were unable to find rooms in the crowded city. Scores were overcome by the unseasonal heat during the day.

Cardinal Spellman delivered the English sermon after James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto, personal representative of the Pope, intoned the mass.

The New York cardinal said Pope Pius' pleas for peace seem little heeded "even as the day of Armageddon threatens."

" . . . The four horsemen churn in their saddles, ready to stomp across an earth alive with war's ghoulish ghosts of yesteryear! God grant that the vibrant voice of our noble . . . Pontiff ringing in men's ears will find reflection in their minds, echo concord in their hearts," he said.

Shohan Back, Survived Syria Plane Crash

Dr. Charles J. Shohan, 38, only American passenger on the airliner which crash-landed in Syria last Thursday, killing 14, returned to Washington yesterday—by plane—apparently undaunted by the experience.

Shohan, State Department adviser on U. N. foodstuff allocation, whose home is at 2417 Good Hope rd. se., was warmly greeted at National Airport by his wife and two children, Robert, 6, and Emily Jo, 3. They were accompanied by Mrs. Shohan's sister, Mrs. A. K. Olson of Arlington, Va.

Seated in the starboard side of the plane, on a level with the righ wing, he must have been dozing when the trouble started in the two left engines, he said, as he was unaware of what was happening until shortly before the crash. Other survivors said the outer engine went out and later the other caught fire.

Escaped by Rear Door

Shohan, who was returning from an international rice conference sponsored by the U. N. in India, said yesterday he got out by the regular rear passenger door of the plane, as did the other 21 survivors, he believed.

The fire was sweeping back from the engines, he said, and some parts of the plane had buckled in the landing, but he did not believe it had "split in two," as described by others.

There was no explosion, he added, and the terrain there was "flat as a billiard table."

Two days after the crash, which killed 7 ofthe 10 American crew members and 7 of the 26 passengers, Shohan climbed aboard another Pan American Clipper in Istanbul, Turkey, to complete his journey to the United States.

Crash-Landing Praised

Meanwhile, in Turkey, Capt. Michael Graham, 25, of London, a pilot who was riding as a passenger on the ill-fated trip, said the pilot had guided the big Constellation in for a perfect crash landing despite the blazing left wing and two dead engines.

Graham said that after the landing, one port engine apparently dug into the ground, causing the plane to groundloop violently and break in two in a mass of flames. One engine had been jettisoned before the landing, he said, and the propeller of another had been feathered.

Pope Raises 3 to Sainthood

Vatican City, June 22 (U.P.).—Pope Pius XII today elevated three beatified ecclesiastics to the rank of sainthood. Thousands of pilgrims attended the four-hour ceremony in the spacious basilica of St. Peter's.

The new saints were: Jesuit Father Joa de Britto, a Portuguese marytyr who died in India in 1693; Italian Jesuit Bernardino Realino, who died in 1616, and Blessed Father Giuseppe Cafasso of Turin, who died in 1860.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, silver trumpets sounded as signal for the bellringers to ring out the news on the bronze bells of St. Peter's that three new saints had been proclaimed. The bells of Rome's 500 other churches joined in.

Pope Pius has now proclaimed a total of seven saints.

300 Delegates To Urge Passage Of Housing Bill

A "Fight for Housing Day" will bring some 300 representatives of "public interest organizations" to Washington Wednesday, to urge congressional enactment of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill.

This was announced yesterday by the Rev. Thomas Keehn, chairman of the committee for the event. He said Senators Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), Robert F. Wagner (D., N. Y.) and Allen J. Ellender (D., La.) will confer with the delegates at 9:30 a. m. in the Senate Office Building, room 318.

Later in the day, it was announced, Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., will address the delegates in a roundup session.

Chinese Reds Hold 3-2 Edge In Manchuria, Estimates Say

By Miles W. Vaughn

Nanking, June 22 (U.P.).—Neutral sources estimated today that 200,000 Nationalist troops in Manchuria were up against 300,000 well-armed Communists.

They said that unless the Nationalists manage to get out of some isolated pockets quickly, they may lose most of their American equipment.

China's capital is more gloomy than it was in 1931, when the Japanese Kwantung army gained effective control of Manchuria's three provinces within a few months. The Communists are said to have gained control of 85 per cent of it.

According to Central government sources, the Communists are using mostly equipment they got directly or indirectly from the Japanese and an entirely new strategy that appears to have given them the upper hand.

In this fifth offensive of the year, government sources said the Communists intended to:

1. Drive the Nationalists into a small section of southern Manchuria near the Great Wall.

2. Annihilate the cream of the Nationalists' American-trained and American-equipped divisions.

3. Wreck or deprive the government of what remains of industrial and mining installations in Manchuria after Russian removals.

4. Gain full control of Manchuria as a future base of operations against the Nationalist in north-China.

Government circles were especially gloomy over international complications of the Manchurian situation; that is, that Koreans from the Russian-occupied half of that country are fighting with the Chinese Communists. Foreign sources have not confirmed these reports.

The most recent dispatches from Manchuria indicated the Nationalists were cut up into two main isolated pockets and one salient, with communications back to China proper, in a sad state. These two pockets are north and east of Mukden. The northern pocket is the more important, since Changchun is its center. The eastern pocket is said to be small, actually only a small garrison holding Mukden.

Foreign sources said there were indications that the government realizes holding on to Changchun means the isolation and probable annihilation of all its garrisons, including the new First Army that fought in Burma under Gen. Joseph Stilwell. Official quarters refused to confirm or deny reports that a strong force already had pulled out of Changchun and was fighting its way south.

These reports said that the rest of the garrison would remain in Changchun and had orders to fight to the last man.

Government dispatches from Mukden said that counter-attacking Nationalist forces had driven most of the Communists out of the hotly-contested Szepingkai area. Szepingkai is of the utmost strategic importance to both sides because it controls the railroad to Changchun.

Sudden Raids on Fascist Lairs Net Hundreds in Italy, Sicily

Rome, June 22 (U.P.).—Police struck with dramatic swiftness at the rebirth of fascism in Italy today, arresting the former Fascist boss of Rome and hundreds of other sympathizers in long-planned raids in scores of cities and towns throughout Italy and Sicily.

The top man seized was Giuseppe Pizzirani, former Fascist boss of Rome who allegedly has maintained contact with Carlo Scorza and Augusto Turati, former Fascist Party secretaries who have been sought as war criminals since the war ended.

Pizzirani was arrested with a dozen lieutenants at a secret meeting in Fascist underground quarters in Rome's notorious Piazza Colonna, black market quarter. All carried Fascist identity cards and quantities of small arms.

Authorities said the rebirth of Fascism had assumed serious proportions, and that the arms seized had been hidden secretly during the war for an expected comeback attempt.

The raiders struck simultaneously throughout the peninsula. Hundreds were arrested at underground Fascist headquarters in Milan, Padua, Venice, Vicenza, Mantova, Siena, Parma, Brescia, Verona, Bari, Naples and lesser cities. A score of arrests were made at Palermo in Sicily.

Poland's Wheat Crop Outlook Encouraging

Warsaw, June 22 (AP).—Gorvenment informants predicted today this year's crop yield will at least equal the four million tons of wheat, rye and barley harvested in 1946, but said Poland would need food imports until next year.

The informants said 26 million acres were sown compared with 17 million acres in 1946.

and simply Terrific

SLIP into this one — and you'll have to hang on tight to keep your spirits from soaring right out of this world.

There's no trimmer, tidier, fresher bit of automotive styling anywhere in sight, and never in your life have you had more of the makings of fun and adventure right at your finger tips.

You handle a wheel that seems moved more by your wishes than your muscle.

You boss a big Fireball straight-eight whose mission in life is taming tall mountains and making the miles cry "Uncle!"

You take your ease on broad, soft Deepflex cushions — flick the proper control, and the door windows run up to serve as windscreens, the top swings into place against a sudden storm, or the front seat adjusts itself to your perfect comfort.

All the while there's a good steady feel of Buick solidity beneath you. There's the fluent, easy stride of wheels cushioned all around by gentle coil springs. There's size — and room — and levelness — and that mastery of good roads and bad found only in a performer that's built to star in any company.

A buy? But naturally! Nowhere but in Buick will you find all this smartness — nowhere but in a Convertible do Buick power, size, comfort and steadiness pay off so handsomely in sheer joy in going places.

So count yourself lucky if your order's in. Or, if it isn't, count yourself smart if you nail one down without further urging.

For while we'll take your order any time, with or without a car to trade, only you can make sure (by placing your order) that no one else is going to get ahead of you.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

Rinehart Chef Hangs Self In Jail Cell

Bar Harbor, Me., June 22 (U.P.).—A crazed Filipino chef, unsuccessful in his attmpt to murder Crime Novelist Mary Roberts Rinehart, hanged himself in his jail cell here today.

Blas Reyes, 65, fashioned a noose from his clothing and police found his body dangling from his cell door shortly after breakfast.

The elderly retainer yesterday tried to shoot and stab the noted mystery writer for whom he had worked 25 years. His attack failed only because his fully loaded pistol miraculously missed fire twice at point-blank range.

Mrs. Rhinehart, recovering from shock, said she was "mystified and bewildered by the attack." She said both Reyes and his wife had been "excellent servants."

Attributed to Insanity

"We have to attribute the entire episode to insanity," said Police Chief George Abbott. "Though the chef made a full confession, he was unable to give or refused to give any coherent motive."

The real-life thriller began when the chef interrupted a conversation between Mrs. Rinehart and her butler in the library of her summer show place, Eaglesgate.

"Get out," Reyes snarled at the butler, who left hurriedly to summon Chauffeur Theodore Falkenstrom and Miss Margaret Muckian, a downstairs maid.

The crazed man fired at Mrs. Rinehart twice, but the bullets missed fire.

The butler, the chauffeur and the maid grabbed Reyes, and Falkenstrom got the pistol, but the wiry Filipino twisted away and pursued Mrs. Rinehart into the pantry, where he seized three knives and lunged at her. She deflected the first swipe, and then Falkenstrom caught Reyes and finally disarmed him.

Russians' Jazz Ace Twits U. S.

Utyesov goes on:

"This is a false voice, but then the United States is a young country and it is well known that voices change when one is growing up. It is also a country of great research in problems of hybridization. They take an old British conservative and crossbreed him with an American reactionary—and the result is half fascist and half fascist."

This one gets loud applause.

Can't Get Greeks

Another skit has Utyesov using a spiritualist to try to get in touch with ancient composers for inspiration. But when he tries to get through the celestial switchboard to the Greeks he can only get Americans—politicians, directors of General Motors, and similar figures.

In another skit a bragging American journalist explains why American teams lost the international chess matches to the Russians.

"Our chess players couldn't train properly," the American explains. "You see, in America we can't have black and white men on the same square."

Then Utyesov's daughter, Edith, sings a ballad that brings tears to the eyes of the Soviet audience. Costumed in blackface, she sings a lullaby telling her baby not to cry because her daddy and his buddy "are hanging from that strange tree."

"He fought in the war, because then he was not a nigger," the ballad goes. "But then he came home and tried to stand up for his rights, and now he's hanging from that strange tree."

At Least 10 Die In Flash Flood

into "hundreds of thousands of dollars."

E. L. Bradshaw, Red Cross worker at the scene, declared the death toll may reach 15 or 20.

The Second Air Force in Omaha arranged to fly to Cambridge 1500 units of tetanus injections, 1300 units of typhoid injections and 15 Lister bags asked by Red Cross workers at Cambridge.

Medicine Creek is a tributary of the Republican River, on which a 1935 flood took more than 200 lives. The Republican was rising only slightly today, Robinson said.

Communications in the area were paralyzed. Only one telephone line into Cambridge, via McCook, was in service.

Identities of the dead here were not available nor was an accurate count of the dead.

Overnight rainfall estimated at four inches caused the high water here while other Nebraska areas also were receiving torrential rains and scattered windstorms.

Came Without Warning

"It came without warning," said Robinson. "About 5 a. m. the water began to rise on Medicine Creek. Inside of two hours it had reached a crest.

"Many people were caught in their homes, still in bed. Others were aroused and went outside only to be caught in the water and swept away."

Houses were turned about and a trailer camp in the area was "washed away," Robinson reported.

Boats were used to evacuate stranded persons at the outset but a fleet of Reclamation Bureau trucks from Indianola arrived later to assist in evacuation efforts.

No Drinking Water

Broken hydrants and washed-out water mains left the city without drinking water and this was causing some immediate concern, Robinson said.

By early afternoon, water had receded from most main streets but was still standing in lowland residential areas.

The flash flood here followed several weeks of unusually wet Nebraska weather which already had caused floods leaving heavy damage to farm fields, delayed growth of crops and numerous highway and railroad washouts.

Torrential rains in the Medicine Creek watershed caused the new flash flood.

Elsewhere in Nebraska, high winds accompanying the eastward-moving thunder and rain storm injured at least nine persons.

Seven persons were hospitalized at Holdredge for injuries received when a tornado demolished one farm place and damaged others at nearby Loomis, Nebr. Near Gothenburg in central Nebraska, two motorists were injured when wind picked up their car and tossed it into a ditch.

At Bartley, a few miles east of Cambridge, several buildings were destroyed by wind.

Turkin Latest Gangland Victim

Los Angeles, June 22 (INS).—Gang guns roared again today killing Sol Turkin, mysterious 40-year-old former convict underworld figure, 24 hours after Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel was shot to death in a swank Beverly Hills mansion.

Detectives were investigating a report that Turkin had been employed at Las Vegas, Nev. in Siegel's five-million-dollar Flamingo Hotel gambling casino, favorite rendezvous for Hollywood's high salaried film stars.

Turkin was pistol-whipped and slain in his luxurious apartment a few hours before he was to have married his school teacher sweetheart.

Police said Turkin used 19 aliases and that in addition to "doing time" for forgery and embezzlement he had served three years in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth Kans., for impersonating a Government officer.

Mixed With Celebrities

Siegel, 42-year-old self-styled "sportsman" who mixed with celebrities such as George Raft and Countess Dorothy DiFrasso, was shot twice in the head Friday midnight.

The triggerman fired nine shots from an army carbine through the window of the Moorish mansion which Virginia Hill, wealthy Alabama divorcee now in Paris, had leased from Juan Romero, one-time owner of the Rudolph Valentino estate.

In Siegel's pockets police found a gold key to the mansion and $400 cash. He had flown to Beverly Hills Friday from Las Vegas.

Fear Open Warfare

Police feared open gang warfare. Many of Siegel's henchmen were in hiding.

Investigators studied possible motives for the slaying of Siegel, one-time purchaser of huge quantities of "dope" from "Lucky" Luciano.

The motives were: 1. That Siegel was "rubbed out" by Las Vegas gambling kings angered when he "muscled in" on their lush profits, and 2. That Siegel's interest in the Flamingo had drained his resources to the extent he had threatened Los Angeles bookmakers with "concrete caskets" unless they subscribed to his international horse racing information service.

5 Crash Survivors Reach N. Y.

New York, June 22 (AP).—Five of the 22 survivors of the crash in Syria of the Pan American clipper Eclipse arrived here today aboard another clipper with high praise for the pilot of the Eclipse, Capt. Joseph Hall Hart, jr., of Greenwich, Conn., who was killed in the crash.

The clipper crashed Thursday, killing 14 persons.

William Shaw, an Englishman, who came here on business, said he was sitting on the port side in the rear of the plane when he saw a sheet of flame.

"It was a magnificent feat on the part of the pilot and the crew to get us down at all," Shaw said. "No one thought that they could do it."

Other survivors arriving included Charles J. Sholan of the International Resources Division of the State Department, of 2417 Good Hope rd. se., Washington, who escaped serious injury, and Anthony Wolpe, 30, of New York, purser on the Eclipse.

One Killed in Tornado

Norton, Kans., June 22 (U.P.).—A farm woman was killed and three other persons were injured last night in a tornado that leveled six or more farm homes in this northwestern Kansas county before it swept into Nebraska.

Street Baseball

The position of Washington police with respect to young baseball addicts must be the acme of frustration. On the one hand, police are interested in preventing juvenile delinquency, lest they have to deal with its more serious consequences later. Sandlot ball games are a pretty good preventive of mischief. On the other hand, police are charged with protecting property. When boys and girls play baseball in streets or alleys, there is always a chance that some unpredictable foul will break a window. Consequently, police have been ordered—against their sympathies, we surmise—to break up such games and warn the players, and to apprehend repeaters. As a result, we have the ugly spectacle of as many as 50 children arrested each week for crimes no more dastardly than swatting a few balls in front of their homes.

No one can blame police for doing their duty. The answer to the dilemma, of course, is more playgrounds, especially in the areas where they are now lacking. That fact was made unmistakably clear in the first of Dorothea Andrews' series of articles on Washington playgrounds in The Post on Sunday. The story is one of hard work and ambitious plans, but of insufficient money to carry them out. We think Washingtonians who deplore what police are forced to do should take the advice of one police official and demand more playgrounds. More recreation space probably would not end all ball games in the streets, but it would relieve police at least in some degree of their dilemma. If we put half as much money into constructive outlets for youthful energy as we lose through the depredations of criminals, we might find it an amazingly profitable investment.

Union Welfare Funds

The need for protective legislation to prevent dissipation, waste or misuse of union welfare funds is underlined by a recommendation of the executive board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union calling for a ban on the spending of sickness, vacation and other welfare funds for any purposes except those specifically authorized. The aim is to prevent the use of ILGWU welfare funds to pay strike benefits or finance any general union operations. The garment workers' employers are now contributing about 25 million dollars each year to local welfare funds. Hence, David Dubinsky, president of the ILGWU, rightly thinks it highly important that some over-all policy should be incorporated in the union constitution to regulate and safeguard the use of these vast sums, and he intends to press for action at the organization's annual convention that is being held this week in Cleveland.

Section 302 of the Taft-Hartley labor bill imposes various safeguarding restrictions on the handling of welfare funds, including provisions requiring equal representation of employers on boards administering such trust funds and specifying the purposes for which funds may be used. The ILGWU would not be subject to these restrictions, since they do not apply to trust funds established prior to 1946. Hence the union's efforts at self-reform cannot be ascribed to a desire to anticipate legislative prohibitions that would compel a change of policy if the labor bill becomes law. The action taken by the ILGWU heads is, however, a tacit admission that loose practices are encouraged by the present lack of regulation.

The ILGWU is opposed to a general requirement that employers have equal representation with workers in administering welfare funds. Pointing out that some local welfare funds of the ILGWU are administered jointly while others are managed by the union alone, Mr. Dubinsky cites evidence to show that employer representatives are sometimes more disposed to indulge in loose practices than union representatives. Nevertheless, the presence of employers on welfare fund boards would unquestionably militate against the diversion of such funds to build up union "war chests" or pay allowances to strikers.

Mr. Dubinsky concedes the importance of establishing additional safeguards against mismanagement or diversion of funds for purposes not contemplated by the contributors. However, he proposes merely to rely upon voluntary action to curb abuses instead of invoking the restrictive forces of law. Unfortunately many unions cannot be depended upon to effect reforms without being coerced. The major purpose of section 302 is simply to make sure that the money contributed by union members to provide for sickness and death benefits, hospital care, etc., shall be used only for such purposes; in short the general objective is in accord with the aims of Mr. Dubinsky and his colleagues. Far from being an anti-labor measure, section 302 is, in our opinion, a pro-labor measure that the rank and file of union labor ought to welcome as a means of conserving welfare trust funds that belong to them.

Veto Before The Senate

The filibuster against the labor bill fizzled without bringing either credit or hope of victory to its sponsors. It was a last desperate effort to stave off a vote until the country rallied to the support of President Truman's veto. But all the sentiment that could be mustered against the bill had already been extensively voiced. In the circumstances, the filibuster did little more than to advertise the uncomfortable minority position in which opponents of the bill found themselves. We have no doubt that Senators Morse, Taylor, Pepper and others overplayed their hand, as filibusterers usually do. Their tactics, plus President Truman's carelessness in interpreting the bill, may well have the effect of solidifying the ranks of its supporters when the final test comes in the Senate today at 3 p. m.

It is doubtless true that the one chance President Truman had of defeating the bill was to raise an emotional storm. But resort to that tactic carried with it unmistakable dangers which should also have been realized. But making an all-out attack upon the bill, emphasizing every defect and grossly exaggerating some of them while ignoring its many virtues and the conditions that have made the enactment of labor legislation necessary, the President erased all hope that effective labor legislation could be enacted with the consent of his Administration. He gave the vast majority in Congress who favor adjustment of the relations between Government and labor nothing to cling to in the event that the Taft-Hartley bill should be defeated. In addition, his message left the impression that he had not studied many provisions of the bill with the care and impartiality that legislation of such a momentous character demands.

Even though the final product is far from being perfect, Congress has worked with great diligence on this bill. The vast improvement in the final bill, as compared with the measure originally passed by the House, also indicates that the Congress exercised a considerable measure of restraint. The finished bill, in spite of some defects, has the support of a large group of moderates who wish to see organized labor maintain its present strength with the obvious abuses of its power corrected. Wholesale denunciation of the bill by the President could scarcely be expected to appeal to the Congress which had passed it with so much toil and reasonable compromising. It should surprise no one, therefore, if the Senate follows the House in overriding the veto.

Post-Machine Age

One of the inconsistencies about America that has consistently confused foreigners has been our proclivity for broad pronouncements about democracy while we tolerate its antithesis under our noses in the form of noisome city political machines. However, recent events, such as the "retirement" of Mayor Hague in Jersey City in favor of his nephew, suggest that the old-time political machine founded on chicanery may be undergoing a metamorphosis, though not, of course, in Memphis and apparently not in Kansas City. We agree with that eminent machine authority, Edward J. Flynn, that the result probably will not be to eliminate party bosses and tightly knit party organizations. But the new phase is more likely to be built around "respectable" efforts to induce solid party loyalty and get out a bloc vote than around the tidy tricks of the past, including lavish charity for indigent widows, padding registration rolls with bought stooges, and outright election steals.

The fact is that some of the material with which the old graft-ridden machine worked no longer exists. Immigration has slowed relatively to a trickle. Today's voters, though they are still bamboozled, are not bamboozled quite so easily as were unschooled foreigners who were shepherded off to perform party chores in return for jobs and perquisites and aid in orientation. Moreover, while patronage is still effective, the spread of social security has eliminated a great deal of the perpetual gratitude of impoverished families that used to be bought with a timely breadbasket. Finally, it is becoming apparent that as voters become more mature politically they tend to resent the age-old machine paternalism.

All of which leads to the problem of President Truman's connection with the Kansas City scandals. The infamous Pendergast machine in Kansas City has been tottering ever since old Boss Tom went to prison. The present unsavory disclosures of the crude frauds employed by his nephew and heir are more an indication of weakness than of strength. However, as long as the President's tie with the Pendergast gang remains unsevered, he inevitably will be associated with the corruption that is coming to light. For his own reputation as well as for the country's good, it is incumbent on the President to make a public disavowal of the Pendergast heirs. At the very least he should see that the prosecution is pushed to the limit, however embarrassing that may be to his past political loyalties.

Gifts From Greece

Thousands of parcels containing tons of foodstuffs have been shipped to this country from Greece during the past six months, according to the Collector of Customs at New York. This revelation will come as a stunning surprise to the American people who have just been called upon to provide 300 million dollars for the economic and political rehabilitation of that distressed country and have already contributed huge sums to provide food and clothing for the starving and the destitute in Greece.

There could be no better evidence of the chaotic conditions prevailing in Greece and the widespread ignorance of the extent of our bounty than is afforded by this inflow of food gifts from one of the poorest to the richest nation of the world. It points to the existence of comparative plenty for some in the midst of harsh privation for the many; it also indicates an appalling lack of official supervision over the distribution and utilization of the country's inadequate food supplies. Whether the "relief for Americans" campaign is the result of an underground political plot to discredit the United States in the eyes of the Greeks or a cleverly conceived commercial device for extracting profits from deluded people is not known. Whatever may be the cause, however, the remedy is obvious: prompt action to acquaint the Greek people with the facts and equally prompt action to prevent further shipments of food out of Greece.

Had it not been for the inquiries launched by the Bureau of Animal Industry because of a case of foot-and-mouth disease traced to a parcel of meat shipped from Greece, our customs authorities might have continued to permit the entry of individual food parcels from Greece, in accordance with customary practice. Now meat products, at least, will be banned unless they conform to the regulations applicable to commercial importations. In our opinion American customs officials have laid themselves open to censure for their failure to publicize the facts about these shipments. Had they done so, the Government undoubtedly would long ago have taken steps to induce the Greek authorities to put a stop to the nefarious schemes of the unknown scoundrels who have been preying upon Greek gift-givers by convincing them that their friends and relatives in the United States are in dire want.

Break For Austria

Although it is a mockery to speak of Austria as a liberated country so long as four occupying armies remain on Austrian soil, the economic burden of that occupation will be greatly lightened by the decision of the United States Army to pay in dollars for our occupation costs. The proposal is an earnest of our desire to treat Austria as if she were really liberated, and will make continued occupation—forced on us by the inability of the former Allies to agree upon peace terms—an economic gain instead of a liability. For with the dollars derived from our payments, estimated at 16 millions, during the next year, Austria will be able to finance imports of needed food, fuel and raw materials. That is a more important consideration than the welcome reduction in budgetary outlays resulting from relieving the Austrian government of all our occupation costs.

Under the new arrangement, the American occupying forces will, it is said, become the equivalent of about 15,000 tourists whose expenditures will be a source of foreign exchange. As a matter of fact, our troops will be an unusual and exceptionally desirable kind of tourists, because unlike ordinary tourists they will not have to be fed by the country where they are stationed. It is often forgotten that visitors to impoverished nations like Austria may actually aggravate the distress of the native population by consuming scanty foods. Austria will also benefit from the release of some of the dwellings and buildings appropriated for the Army and attached civilian personnel, as well as from the dollars paid to the government for rental of such accommodations as are retained for use. In short, this new dollar payment plan more nearly resembles a gift than tourist outlays since what we get in return will not entail any undue strain on the Austrian economy, while what we give will be a substantial addition to dollar funds that can be used to sustain the Austrian economy.

Two-Faced Enemy

The House Administration Committee has reported out the resolution to publish Fascism in Action as a companion piece to the already published Communism in Action, both of which were compiled by the Legislative Reference Service. We hope the legislators will decide upon publication. The House Committee was pusillanimous enough to refrain from making any recommendation. What is it afraid of? Representative Busbey had the silliness to suggest that publication should be withheld because Fascism in Action doesn't say a word about communism! If this one-sidedness keeps up, we shall lay ourselves open to the charge of being fellow travelers of fascism. The House as the citadel of democracy should let the public have the story of both isms because they are equally destructive of our free institutions.

Marine Raiders

The Post of June 1 contained an article by Murrey Marder about the late Brig. Gen. Evans Carlson, USMC (ret.), in which you stated that the First Marine Raider Battalion was "first in number but not in date of organization," or words to that effect, which implied that Colonel Carlson's Second Raider Battalion was in fact organized earlier and had served as the prototype unit of this sort in the Marine Corps.

The facts, however, are as follows:

The First Battalion, Fifth Marines, commanded by Lieut. Col. (now Brig. Gen.) Merritt A. Edson, USMC, was selected for this type of mission (after having carried on experimental work along these lines at intervals since 1939), and was redesignated on January 6, 1942, as the First Separate Battalion, FMF. On February 16, 1942, this designation was revoked, and the unit received its final title as the First Marine Raider Battalion, FMF.

On February 5, 1942 (one month after the initial redesignation of Colonel Edson's battalion), the First Separate Battalion, Second Marine Division, FMF, was organized under Major Carlson's command, was redesignated a week later as the Second Separate Battalion, FMF; and, on February 19, 1942, was finally redesignated as the Second Marine Raider Battalion, FMF.

Thus you will see that the First Raider Battalion (so-called "Edson's Raiders") antedated the Second Raider Battalion (so-called "Carlson's Raiders") by an appreciable period, and was the first of the two not only in name but in fact—and without benefit of "Gung Ho." In addition, I might add that the First Raider Battalion actually transferred one fully organized company (Company A) plus a machine-gun platoon and a mortar platoon to the West Coast in order to expedite organization of the Second Raider Battalion.

Might not a correction be in order? JAMES R. STOCKMAN,
Captain, U. S. M. C.
Washington.

In the story referred to, there was no intent to question the fact that the Marine Corps experimented with commando-type units long before Carlson's Raiders entered the scene. The First Raiders grew out of that experimentation under General Edson. The Marine Corps, as in every official action involving the late Evans F. Carlson, is scrupulously correct. There was three days' difference in naming the raider units.

General Edson states that the tables of organization he drew up for raider units were sent to Carlson as a basis for his unit. However, General Edson says that "Carlson did not follow this all the way—we both had wide latitude. He built his organization around the single concept of raiding. Mine was a unit which could raid, but also had other functions. Thus there were some basic differences."
M. MARDER.

FCC Post

President Truman, in a moment of self-searching, once complained that he just couldn't find the right men to take public office. I sympathize with the President . . . but when he does get a right man, he sidetracks him for some individual whose qualifications, to say the least, are in doubt.

Specifically, I refer to the President's withdrawal of Commissioner Ray Wakefield's name and substituting that of Robert F. Jones, a somewhat obscure member of the House of Representatives whose only qualification for the post as Federal Communications Commissioner is the fact that Mr. Jones doesn't seem to like the present Democratic Administration.

It would be nice if President Truman would make up his mind and decide whether he is a Democrat or a Republican. But that is a digression. What is most important is the fact that Commissioner Wakefield has proven himself one of the most capable men on the FCC. Surely that entitles him to renomination. And if it doesn't, what does? AL. SHERMAN.

Federal School Aid

In my lifetime the little red schoolhouses have been abandoned, the 3 R's sugar-coated for consumption, the teachers drilled in methods and techniques to the subordination of content, and the emphasis placed upon materials to the neglect of moral values and real learning.

Years ago, when attending summer school at Columbia, for courses in "methods," I discussed these tendencies with the dean of the Brooklyn Law School. He told me of the tremendous wealth of Columbia University—its need to show a deficit to justify further endowment, and the featuring of theories that called for extensive equipment. Could it be that this emphasis upon techniques and materials has spread a corrupting influence throughout the country so that school ratings are based largely upon equipment and teacher-training in education?

With these facts in mind, no wonder there is the tendency to expect Federal aid to maintain such expensive plants. Sensible people know that real learning takes place where the teacher, who is filled with the gospel of content, sits with a small group of pupils—whether it be log cabin or luxurious building.

Federal assistance and Federal control go hand-in-hand. Wise are the people who realize this fact, and strong are the Virginians for resisting it.

HELEN W. JENKINS.

Soviet Interference in Bulgaria

Soviet interference in the internal affairs of Bulgaria began with the armistice. As early as November 1944, it had progressed to the point of imposing the demand of my resignation as the leader of the Agrarian Party, followed by my arrest in April 1945, and the schemes for my "liquidation" as well as the trial and conviction of practically all consistent and firm Agrarian leaders.

A great many terroristic activities on the part of the Communists have materialized since then which have not attracted sufficient attention abroad. As the ratification of the treaties approached, their efforts were accelerated to the point of arrogance. Invasion of the immunities of members of the Constituent Assembly began two months ago with the arrest of the Agrarian deputy, Peter Koev. The recent arrest of Nicola Petkov, who succeeded me as secretary general of the Agrarian Party, and the arbitrary and anticonstitutional expulsion of 23 Agrarian members of Parliament, are but steps toward the realization of the Soviet plan for the crushing of the Agrarian and other democratic movements because of their opposition to the bolshevization of Bulgaria.

The notorious secretary of the Comintern, George Dimitrov, not only has not protested against this atrocious interference in the internal affairs of the country, but he himself, as Prime Minister of Bulgaria, is the highest placed agent of this brazen interference. Ever since the armistice Bulgaria has been governed and its policies formulated by the Soviet Union and the Comintern (which has been dissolved only on paper).

In view of the international position of Bulgaria it is a matter of extreme audacity on the part of this stooge of international communism to dismiss as "foreign interference" the representations of the Allied Powers concerning the treatment accorded to Nicola Petkov as leader of the parliamentary opposition. This professional conspirator and highest placed international agent of the Soviets, who has been the instigator in the "liquidation" of more than 50,000 progressive Bulgarian citizens, has the gall to cover his blind subservience to the Soviets by accusing the Agrarian Union and its leaders of conspiracy. This crude justification is offered after he himself has publicly declared that the opposition either has to become consistently subservient to the schemes of Soviet imperialism or is not to be allowed to perform its constitutional functions.

Moreover, evidently the internationally known fact that the Agrarian Union is a progressive democratic organization which represents the mass of the Bulgarian people and therefore stands in no need of conspiracies to come to power has escaped his attention in his zeal to carry out as efficiently as possible the orders of Moscow. He is unsuccessful in his attempt to obscure the fact that the sole aim of the Agrarian Union has been merely to obtain the free elections which were stipulated in practically all international agreements of the Allied powers and which the Soviets and their stooges have persistently violated.

What is taking place not only in Bulgaria but also in Yugoslavia, Romania, Poland, Hungary, etc., are but the steps in a systematic plan of the Communist conspiracy to crush the organizations of the overwhelming peasant majorities which block the way of Red totalitarianism and its aim of bolshevization of the whole European continent.

Protesting most energetically against the treacherous seizure of Nicola Petkov, the expulsion of the 23 Agrarian deputies, the infamous terrorism against all Agrarian and other democratic leaders and organizations, I appeal to the democratic conscience of the world and call the attention of the United Nations to what is taking place on the Balkans and what is yet to come in the chain of conspiracies against the vital interests of the civilized world. Bulgaria and the Balkans are the necessary bridgeheads in the bolshevization of Europe, which is the first step of imposing Red totalitarianism on the democratic world.

DR. GEORGE H. DIMITROV,
Former Secretary General, Bulgarian Agrarian Party.
Washington.

Posting The Books

By J. M. Lalley

Hall Of The Pharisees

MOON GAFFNEY, by Harry Sylvester. (Holt, $2.75.)

"To tell the truth," exclaims the hero of Mr. Sylvester's novel; "to tell the truth, I have had a bellyful of the Irish today and I'm pretty sick of them." This confession, which occurs on page 255, very well describes my own sensation at that point. I got to Mr. Sylvester's book somewhat late and mainly by way of vulgar curiosity, for, as I dare say you know, it has already been the occasion of a considerable journalistic tempest. As everyone has said, Mr. Sylvester had great courage to write it; and it proves at least how far the world of publishing has come since the not very distant day when a great metropolitan journal thought wise to forbid its sports writers to designate the St. Louis National League Baseball Club by the name of Cardinals, lest the use of the word in so frivolous a context give offense to the local Eminence. It is not on this account, however, that I have chosen to discuss the book; it is rather because I think it affords as fair an example as any of what I consider to be wrong, with a good many contemporary American novels, and incidentally what is wrong with a good deal of American criticism.

The chief trouble, I think, is that Mr. Sylvester, like so many writers nowadays, is a very angry man. I dare say his anger is of a sort that does him credit as a Christian, but it is also of an intensity which, while it might be highly advantageous to a pulpit orator or pamphleteer, is very inconvenient in a novelist. Anger, however righteous, precludes, as it seems to me, the virtue that the writer of fiction should seek above all others to cultivate, namely a tranquil and ironic compassion. What Mr. Sylvester is angry about is the social bigotry and spiritual sterility of the Tammany aristocracy of New York, those homines novi, two or three generations out of Castle Garden, who are already, it seems, giving themselves the airs and enduring some of the phobias of an hereditary ruling caste; but he is even angrier about what he considers the neurotic snobberies and malignant pruderies of their ecclesiastical guides or hangers-on. Thus the book is really a manifesto against an unholy collaboration of arrogant and stupid priests and ignorant politicians and gombeen men, which has perverted Catholicism and its doctrine of love into a form of clericalism, characterized by venomous class and racial hatreds.

The narrative and characters are cut to this pattern. The milieu is evidently the later 1920s, the heyday of the late Mayor Walker. The protagonist, from whom the novel takes its title, is a young law-school graduate, son of a deputy fire commissioner, who is beginning his climb in politics with every circumstance favoring rapid ascent. He soon destroys his opportunity, however, by becoming involved, partly by chance, partly by awakening of conscience, with a lay group of Catholic zealots who combine a primitive Franciscanism of life with a militancy in social action. This group, as Mr. Sylvester strives to show us, represents the true catholicism; but its members are considered by the clerics and the Tammany set to be merely ill-disguised Communists and ipso facto enemies of God and church.

Most of the criticism of Mr. Sylvester's book has turned upon the credibility of certain incidents, as for example that of the priest who, asked to recite the rosary at a funeral wake prefaces the Five Sorrowful Mysteries by an oration against Communists and Jews, or of the priests who seek to talk a girl into a distasteful marriage by the argument that although the man might be a drunkard, he is also rich and the son of a Papal knight, or of the girl who is forced by relatives to leave her husband for no better reason than that he has become counsel for a labor union. Such criticisms strike me as altogether irrelevent. A novel is by definition a work of the imagination and the novelist is under no obligation to document his incidents; he may, if he chooses, invent them out of nothing. All that is necessary, though it is a good deal to be sure, is that the incident or action should seem to result naturally from the combination of character and situation.

But it is precisely here, as it seems to me, that Mr. Sylvester has gone about his business backwards. He has begun not as a novelist like M. Mauriac approaching a similar theme might have done, with a character or group of characters, but rather, as I said, with a manifesto. Having decided that clerical anti-Semitism is a vicious and mean spirited thing, which indeed it is, he searches his memory or his imagination for an illustrative incident; having found it he must provide a character to suit. The inevitable result of this method is that the character is not a person but merely a personified attitude. Nor is it enough that the incidents of the story should speak for themselves, as a naturalistic novelist like Mr. James T. Farrell might have allowed them to do; a running commentary also is necessary, and Mr. Sylvester provides it in the thought or speech of now one character, now of another, giving to the whole a curious and disturbing effect of ventriloquism. In short, the question for the literary reviewer is not whether Mr. Sylvester's angry indictment of bourgeoise Catholicism is objectively justified by the facts; but merely whether he has been able to translate it into an intellectually persuasive and emotionally satisfying work of fiction. My opinion is that, despite his unmistakable gifts, he has not.

Sea-Air Case

A Communication

The Post of June 8 printed a story entitled "Ocean Air Transport Is Prize in Two Fights Knotting Congress" which described the status of sea-air legislation and legislation to create a single American flag international air carrier now under consideration by Congress.

Knowing The Post prides itself on its high standards of reportorial accuracy, I was rather surprised to read in this otherwise excellent article the statement that in the hearings on the sea-air legislation before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee "CAB Chairman Landis took no part, all of the hearings on the question having been heard before he became a member."

This statement is quite contrary to the facts. Mr. Landis has been outspoken on his views on the sea-air question, both in the formal opinion issued by the Civil Aeronautics Board in the sea-air case and before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

CHAIRMAN Landits has described the sea-air case as a "story of cumulative error." Of course, where so many errors have been made, you may feel that one additional error more or less may be of no consequence. But I feel that because of his position and his reputation as a lawyer the views of Dean Landis on this subject certainly deserve accurate comment in any article on the question, particularly as it involves fundamentally the interpretation of the Civil Aeronautics Act and the "intent of Congress in passing that act."

The sea-air case is a simple one. American steamship companies are seeking the right to operate aircraft as an adjunct to their shipping operations over the ocean trade routes which they have pioneered and developed. But simply because steamship lines are surface carriers they have been virtually proscribed by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Until recently the CAB held that the law excluding steamship lines from the operation of airlines, basing its finding on dictum rather than a clear-cut opinion which would have enabled the shiplines to test this conclusion in the courts. In the sea-air case, the board retreated from this position but at the same time it found that the law contains administrative or statutory standards which have the same practical effect, so that the position of the steamship lines actually remains unchanged.

CONTRARY to your article, Chairman Landis did participate in this opinion, filing what he afterward described to the House Interstate Committee as ". . . my so-called concurrence which is actually a dissent." In this opinion, Chairman Landis disagreed completely with the findings of the three members of the board who signed the majority opinion. The chairman said that the board ". . . is in the position of having read a great and momentous policy by way of dictum into the Civil Aeronautics Act."

"For it is a momentous policy decision," he continued, "to conclude broadly that no surface carrier should be permitted to engage in air transportation except as an auxiliary to its own surface operations. In the past when Congress has come to such a momentous conclusion, it has not hesitated to express itself unequivocally on the subject, as in Section II of the Panama Canal Act of 1912, but in the long legislative history of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938—a history extending over three years—there is not a shred of evidence to indicate that any one can ever see Section 408 as having the broad implications it is now said to have, Such evidence as exists is all to the contrary."

In another part of his opinion, Chairman Landis stated: "An exhaustive examination of the debates, the hearings on the various bills that were forerunners of the Civil Aeronautics Act and the report of the Federal Aviation Commission give no indication that Congress possessed any such 'intent' to bar surface carriers from all except auxiliary air transportation."

THIS IS precisely the contention of American steamship lines and is the reason why, after years spent in exhausting every administrative resource, they are now before Congress seeking legislation which would enable them to obtain equal treatment before the Civil Aeronautics Board on their applications for foreign and overseas air routes.

The steamship companies in appealing to Congress are not asking for any special treatment nor any exclusive rights. They are not asking for any promises or commitments in advance from either the Congress or the Civil Aeronautics Board. They are asking only for the simple justice of equal treatment.

Appearing before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce in opposition to the so-called "chosen instrument bill," Chairman Landis was questioned by different members of the committee about his views on pending sea-air legislation, particularly the bill introduced by the late Representative Fred Bradley of Michigan, which provides that the Civil Aeronautics Board shall consider applications of steamship companies for air routes on the same basis as other applications. At that time Mr. Landis expressed his opinion that the Bradley bill made it unmistakably clear that Congress did not intend that steamship companies should be prohibited from operating air lines.

Whereupon the chairman of the House committee, Representative Charles A. Wolverton of New Jersey, said: "The reason I am interested in your opinion is, first, it is premised upon the fact that you are recognized as an outstanding attorney, and second, to be sure in the event that the committee should take that action, that our intent would not again be misinterpreted. We thought we had made the intent of Congress clear in the first instance; and now if we try to do it again, I am certainly anxious that we will not again be met with a situation in which we are told that that was not the intent of Congress."

That is what the American steamship lines are anxious about too.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Politics And The Labor Bill Veto

BANG, BANG, CR-RR-Rash! That is the sound of the Republican Party, virtually the entire American press and at least part of the Democratic Party coming down on the man in the White House for his veto of the Labor bill.

Childs

Given White House strategy on the labor bill, President Truman had very little choice in the matter. You can argue that the strategy was wrong and events may prove it was mistaken. But once the Ives-Taft-Hartley bill came to his desk, he had to veto it.

He had to veto it because he had deliberately refrained from working with Congress to get the kind of bill he might have approved. That was Administration policy from top to bottom. The expectation was that, given enough rope, the extremist Republicans would write a bill so crudely restrictive that no President could sign it.

Senator Ives of New York got in the way of that strategy. On his insistence, the final bill was more moderate than the intentions of Senators Taft and Ball. And, equally important, it was made to sound far more "reasonable" than in reality it was. The President's veto message pointed to many obstacles in the way of fair and free collective bargaining under the bill. They are obstacles that, in many instances, have the look of calculated booby traps laid for organized labor.

THE CHARGE of politics brought against the President was inevitable. Anyone who is frank about it must admit that the whole procedure on every side, from beginning to end, was riddled with the politics of a preelection year.

Looking at it objectively, however, you must conclude that if politics had been the primary consideration, it would have been smarter to have signed or to have let it become law without a signature. The President could have written a message pointing out the weaknesses of the omnibus bill and expressing his doubts as to its workability. Then he might have added that because this was the will of the majority, he was reluctantly permitting it to become law.

It is true that the extreme left of labor was waiting hopefully for such a move. They would have taken it as the signal for a third-party move. Moscow has given the nod for such a move, and fellow travelers are its most active promoters, hoping to mobilize those who are genuinely disillusioned with the two old parties.

But a veto of the labor bill is not likely to win this crowd to active support of Mr. Truman. Their touchstone is foreign policy. The real aim of a third party formed under the auspices of those who now seem likely to back it will be to prevent the carrying out of a constructive foreign policy such as Secretary Marshall has advocated.

Nor is the President likely to win many recruits from the right of labor in the AFL. That camp is dominated by John L. Lewis and there are more and more indications that Lewis has made a deal with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. In any event, the doughty Lewis will try to swing all the votes he can away from Truman.

BY APPROVING the bill, the President would have become the hero of a large section of the press. They would have acclaimed him for his "cooperation," and he would undoubtedly have found it easier to gain acceptance for his foreign program.

Certainly Mr. Truman has no reason to love the labor leaders who were beseeching him for a veto. He has repeatedly been harassed by strikes, and leaders such as A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen have denounced him in the most violent language.

He must, it seems to me, be given credit for expressing his sincere belief. Or, rather, he accepted the recommendations of his foremost experts in this field. Among those who urged a veto were Secretary of Labor Lewis Schwellenbach, Paul Herzog, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, and Secretary of Interior Julius Krug. They were ably seconded by the President's close adviser, Clark Clifford.

The weakness of the President's position is that he did not reaffirm his belief in the measures necessary to correct flagrant trade-union abuses and the basic inequities of the Wagner Act. He merely referred to the stand he has taken in the past. But no matter what he had said, the fierce winds of politics were certain to assail a veto.

Labor Bill: Next Round

THE LABOR BATTLE will by no means end when the Senate acts upon the President's veto. The Administration of any law is as important as its language. And when it comes to choosing administrators of the new labor law, any fool can foresee bitter disagreement between the President who prepared last week's powerful veto message and the Senators who now seem determined to override that veto. The President will desire to appoint administrators sympathetic to the problems of organized labor. The Senators will be reluctant to confirm administrators suspected of any lack of sympathy with management. And thus the battle is likely to continue, perhaps with mounting force and bitterness.

JUDGING BY the President's record on the labor issue to date, the Senate must be prepared to combat an unusual measure of quiet doggedness, persistency, and methodical determination in the White House. The stages by which the President reached his decision to veto the result of five months of congressional travail may be said to cast a new light on his character and working habits.

As his message on the State of the Union disclosed, Truman was aware from the first that the labor issue was immeasurably the most important domestic issue that would confront him during this session. In the period of his inexperience, he had a way of dealing with such issues without much careful preparation.

On this occasion, however, he ordered his staff to commence a detailed analysis of the Hartley bill the day it was dropped into the hopper in the House, and to do the same for the Taft bill when it was offered in the Senate. These staff studies of the work of the House and Senate continued to be made throughout the whole period until the conference committee of the two chambers reached agreement, and the final form of the bill was known.

AT THIS POINT, again by the President's order, a much wider range of consultation was adopted. The bill as reported from the conference committee was sent to the Justice, Labor and Interior Departments and to the National Labor Relations Board for criticism in minute detail. The President's assertions, in his veto message, that the bill was unworkable and unfair to the labor unions were based on voluminous opinions from the Labor Department and NLRB. But these reports were by no means decisive.

Prior to the final decision, the Cabinet was consulted, as the President's newly established and important custom is. Contrary to earlier expectations a substantial majority of the Cabinet favored a veto. Indeed, the only Cabinet members who actively urged signing the bill were Secretaries Forrestal of the Navy and Snyder of the Treasury. All others either advocated a veto or, like Secretary of State Marshall, held aloof from an issue that did not concern them. Political factors were, of course, carefully weighed by the President himself and his political advisers. But the real clincher is understood to have been a warning to the President from Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug that signing the bill might precipitate, and certainly would not halt, a coal strike at the end of this month.

The President's view was that the country wanted a labor bill that would "stop strikes;" that the present bill had been peddled with this promise; and that if it would not prevent a coal strike, there was no excuse for it.

THUS THE PRESIDENT resolved his great dilemma in favor of the veto. Preparation of the veto message itself had meanwhile begun, in the office of the President's able legal counsel, Clark Clifford, even before the President's mind was fully made up. To this was added, by the President's desire, preparation of the speech to the country. Finally, the President concluded that he ought personally to intervene, to try to persuade the Senate to sustain him. Thus the call was issued for the White House lunch of Democratic Senators.

These activities have so occupied the President and his staff that it is reliably understood no thought has yet been given to the battle's next phase—the choice of men to implement the new law when the veto has been overridden. Two additional members of the Labor Board must then be chosen.

The bill moreover concentrates in the hands of the board's general counsel almost all but the board's strictly judicial powers. This official, who must also be named anew, will have the greatest single concentration of unchallenged authority over any sphere of American economic life of any man in the Government.

Chairman Paul Herzog and the other present board members plan to stay on. They have indicated that although they dislike the new law, they will try to make it work. It is even understood that they plan to reorganize, and perhaps to drop servants of the board like the director of the field division, Oscar S. Smith, who have aroused congressional hostility.

THE PRESIDENT may also seek to conciliate Congress by naming men of the type of Robert M. La Follette, jr., as board members, and reappointing the able, notably fairminded civil servant, Gerhard van Arkel, as general counsel.

Yet the industrial community will want more than this. They will want men sympathetic to management, and ready to administer the law as management, not labor, would prefer. They will put the heat on Congress to this end. And the Congress may be expected to respond. The cry will go up that no one with the faintest tinge of "New Deal" associations can possibly be confirmed. The President's nominations will be attacked on this basis. And then the fat will be in the fire. Perhaps this kind of development can be averted, but it is hard to see how.

Sen. Kilgore Says NAM Asked Advice on Lobbying Methods

By the United Press

Senator Harley M. Kilgore (D., W. Va.) charged yesterday that the National Association of Manufacturers recently asked several Congressmen whether letters or newspaper advertisements were the "most effective in bringing pressure to bear on Congress."

In a broadcast over West Virginia radio stations, he characterized the NAM as "one of the Nation's major lobbying organizations—an association which admittedly spends millions of dollars on prapaganda."

"This deplorable incident, shocking as it may sound, did not come as any surprise to Washington observers," he said. "Organized pressure groups have grown so bold that today they constitute one of the major evils confronting our Government.

"They pour out a seemingly endless stream of money to promote or kill proposed legislation. These organizations even write much of the legislation."

Kilgore said "a staggering sum" is spent on pressure campaigns, and that all too often "it is used to deliberately mislead the public."

"For example," he added, "a tremendous campaign is being waged today to place the entire blame for high prices on the farmer, the worker and the Government. Everyone seems to be responsible except the big manufacturers, who are making more money than ever before."

He recalled that last year the NAM said that, once OPA was killed, the law of supply and demand would operate to give United States consumers needed goods at reasonable prices.

"However, prices have gone up tremendously and now we are being told that the workers and farmers are responsible," he said. "All this despite the fact that in the case of practically every commodity the amount of money the farmer receives is small as compared with the cost of the commodity at retail level. The same is true of the cost of labor in comparison to the cost of most finished products."

Kilgore said that "the propaganda artists are strangely silent on the tremendous profits made last year and the first quarter of this year by many of the major manufacturers."

World Wool Output Down; Truman Studies Tariff Bill

By The Associated Press

The Agriculture Department yesterday reported world wool production at the lowest level since 1935 as President Truman studied the wool tariff and price support legislation.

The department, in its semi-annual summary, estimated 1947 production at 3,670,000,000 pounds. This is 2 per cent less than for 1946 and 7 per cent below the 1936-40 average.

However, the department said wool stocks accumulated during the war "still are unusually large, though 10 per cent smaller than a year ago."

The wool bill, which reached the White House Saturday, authorizes the President to increase wool tariffs or impose import limits when foreign wool shipments endanger the domestic price support program for wool. It also extends the support program through 1948.

Walter Morrow, president of the American Retail Federation, urged the President yesterday to veto the measure calling it "an iniquitous raid on the pocketbook of the American consumer." He made public a letter saying increased tariffs under the legislation would add "up to about $2" to the cost of men's suits.

Supporters of the bill contend it will not raise consumer prices, but the State Department has urged it would jeopardize efforts to work out trade agreements with other nations, particularly wool producing countries such as Australia.

Supreme Court Decisions Due Today

By The Associated Press

The Supreme Court may decide today who owns the oil tidelands and whether the so-called "anti-Petrillo Act" is constitutional.

These are among 20 cases remaining for decision, as the court winds up a momentous term. If all can be disposed of today, the nine justices plan to start on vacation. Some cases in which decisions are not reached may be set for reargument in the new term beginning in October.

The tidelands suit was brought by the Government to test California's title to the oil-rich lands off her coast between the high and low tides areas, but attorneys contend the rights of other coastal States also are involved.

The "Petrillo Act," also passed by Congress last year, prohibits compulsion on broadcasters to hire more workers than they need. Its sponsors said it was aimed at activities of James C. Petrillo and his AFL American Federation of Musicians. Among other cases which the court may decide today are two which raise the questions:

1. May a State prohibit the sale of magazines whose stories are devoted principally to "bloodshed, lust and crime?"

2. Do "blue ribbon juries"—from which persons of humble station in life are excluded—violate a defendant's rights under the Constitution? This issue was raised by Joseph S. Fay and James Bove, labor union officials of New York, who were convicted or extorting money from construction contractors.

The Post Poll

65% of Men, 34% of Women Follow Fortunes of the Nats

Thousands of Washingtonians watch the day-to-day progress of the Washington baseball team with great concern, a recent Post Poll reports.

Sixty-five per cent of the men and 34 per cent of the women told Post Pollers that they follow baseball with interest. An enthusiastic group of 25 per cent rate themselves as "very interested" in keeping up with the game.

And they are not just talking either. Last year 42 per cent of the men and 18 per cent of the women went to at least one professional baseball game. Of course, many went out to the ball park more often than that.

If they can't be there when the batter is up, the fans listen to radio broadcasts. Forty-six per cent of the men and 26 per cent of the women listen fairly regularly to the radio accounts of the games.

Thirty-one per cent of the fans would like to see the Nats hold more night games than the 39 scheduled for this year, but a majority of 56 per cent are satisfied with the way the schedule stands now.

The Post Poll results are based on personal interviews in homes with a representative cross-section of people living in the Greater Washington Area.

Local residents were asked:

"How interested are you in following baseball—very much interested, fairly interested, or not much interested?"

Here are the answers:

	All Groups	Men	Women
Very much interested	25%	35%	13%
Fairly interested	24	27	21
Not much interested	51	35	66

Those who expressed some interest in baseball were asked:

"How many professional games did you go to last year?"

Results of this question indicate that attendance of Washingtonians at baseball games is as follows:

	Per cent of t'l.	Per cent of all men	Per cent off all women
Not interested	51%	35%	66%
Interested, but did not go to a game	19	23	16
Attended at least one game	30	42	18
1 to 5 games	16	29	11
6 to 10 games	6	9	3
11 to 15 games	3	6	1
More than 15 games	5	7	3

Baseball followers were asked:

"The Nats have scheduled 39 night games for this year. Would you like to see them hold more night games, fewer night games, or about that number?"

Here are their answers:

	Total Interested	Very Interested	Fairly Interested
Satisfied	56%	51%	62%
Hold more night games	31	38	23
Hold fewer night games	8	9	6
Undecided	5	2	9

Those who attended the most professional games last year clamor hardest for more night games. Fifty-three per cent who attended more than 15 games last year would like to see more night games on the schedule, as compared with 27 per cent who attended one to five games last year.

Washington baseball fans have varying opinions of what's in store for the Nats this year.

They were asked:

"Where do you think the Nats will stand in the American League at the end of this year?"

Replies were as follows:

In the first division	50%
In the second division	28
Undecided	22

The average fan guessed that the Nats would end up in fourth place this year. Sixteen per cent said they would end in first or second place, and 34 per cent thought they would end in third or fourth place.

Arlington Builder S. P. Hough Goes on Trial Today at Alexandria in Mail Fraud Case

Trial of Stanley P. Hough, Arlington builder indicted for mail fraud, is scheduled to start today as the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia reconvenes in Alexandria.

Hough, who also faces charges in Prince Georges County, last year contracted to build houses for a group of veterans in Oxon Hill, Md. The houses are still in the first stages of construction.

Another case scheduled today before newly-appointed Judge Albert V. Bryan involves two men who allegedly took a drug so they would fail their physical examinations for military service.

In a case set for Tuesday, Ray L. Jenkins, cousel for George A. Gormley, who with Louis V. Dionne, is charged with fraud against the Government, has said he will ask for a further continuance.

Jenkins said a key defense witness, Frank W. Coogler, cannot be located. It is charged that Dionne, a former War Assets Administration employe, forged an invoice permitting Gormley to buy $96,000 worth of WAA materials for $24,000.

Pastor Honored for Aiding Dutch

Dr. J. Hillman Hollister, pastor of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, yesterday received a silver medal of gratitude from the Dutch government for aid to the war-stricken town of Hedel, Holland.

The presentation was made at the morning service by J. H. Daubanton, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary from the The Netherlands to the United States.

The award recognized that two years ago Dr. Hollister persuaded his flock to "adopt" the town of Hedel. Since then, the congregation has sent 113 parcels of food and clothing to Hedel, and funds to repair the war-damaged Dutch Reformed Church. The church members in a gesture of international goodwill, are corresponding with 150 residents of Hedel.

Author of DP Bill Debates Issue on Air

America's "prestige abroad" would be strengthened by her admission of displaced persons, Representative William G. Stratton (A. L., Ill.) declared yesterday.

The statement was challenged by Representative Ed Gossett (D., Tex.), who said "you can't buy friends."

The two Congressmen debated the merits of the Stratton displaced persons bill, H. R. 2910, over Ed Hart's WINX program, "Is Congress Doing Its Job?"

Representative Stratton, author of the proposed legislation, which would permit 100,000 displaced persons to enter the United States over a 4-year-period, called his bill the only "humane and sensible solution" to the problem.

Its passage would not, he said, lead to a "breach of immigration standards," nor would it open the gates to "subversive elements." Many persons in DP camps, he claimed, are afraid of "persecution" and consequently refuse to return to their native countries.

Representative Gossett, a leader in opposition to the Stratton bill, contended it "proposes to use this country as a dumping ground for refugees." He added:

"Our only hope of survival in a mad world is to keep this country virile and strong."

He claimed America has "no room for these people" and it would be "taking a chance" by admitting them because many come from areas "dominated by communism." Lots of them, Representative Gossett said, "have distorted points of view and alien philosophies" and thus would be "liabilities" rather than assets."

Laski Fears Politics May Mar Marshall Plan

London, June 22 (U.P.).—Harold Laski, former chairman of the Labor Party, today asked for assurance that the United States Congress would support Secretary of State George C. Marshall's plan for economic aid to Europe and that the plan would not become a political football in the 1948 Presidential campaign.

"The world cannot afford to let the future of Europe become a football of American politics," Laski said in an article in the newspaper Reynolds News. "It would be disaster if the great plan were agreed upon and, after angry debates in Congress, the plan was rejected."

R R Sickness Plan to Cover 16,000 in Area

Some 16,000 railroad employes in metropolitan Washington will be protected after July 1 by a new sickness insurance system voted by Congress last year.

Under this plan, established by amendments to the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, railroad employes will be covered for any kind of illness or injury, regardless of how or where it occurs, according to H. W. Murphy, field representative of the Railroad Retirement Board.

Murphy estimated that $280,000 in such benefits will be paid out during the coming year in the area including the District of Columbia and Alexandria, Arlington, Fairfax, Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

The new sickness benefits will be financed entirely by taxes paid by the railroads. To be eligible for insurance benefits after July 1, an employe must have earned at least $150 in railroad employment in 1946; must be unable to work for at least 7 days out of a 14-day period; and must mail in an application and doctor's statement showing he is unable to work, within 7 days after the first day for which he wants to make claim.

623.8 Miles an Hour!
A WORLD SPEED RECORD FOR AMERICA

The Lockheed P-80 Shooting Star which on June 19 set a new international speed record of — miles an hour at Muroc Lake, California, was powered by the new Allison Model 400 Jet Engine.

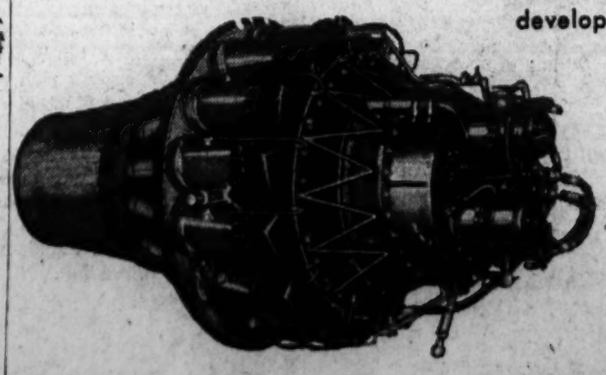
Thus the teamwork of the American aviation industry and the military services has again paid off in clear-cut leadership for American airplanes and American engines.

Since the end of World War II, Allison has concentrated on design and development of new and higher-powered jet engines.

Allison is proud of the engine which it developed for this record-breaking Lockheed P-80. It represents the latest and the finest of the 2000 jet engines built by Allison.

But no nation can ever afford to relax in its aircraft development. So Allison continues to apply to jet engines the experience which was accumulated in its production of 70,000 war-proven liquid-cooled V-1710 engines.

This continuing research will result in more new engines to maintain for America the Air Power which means Peace Power for our land.



THE MODEL 400 JET ENGINE made by Allison Division for the Lockheed P-80 Shooting Star. Allison has built more jet engines than any other company in the world.

Management Speaks to Labor

An address by Alexander Printz, president of the Printz-Biederman Company of Cleveland and chairman of the National Coat and Suit Industry Recovery Board, at the June 20th session of the 26th Convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union at the Public Auditorium in Cleveland:

IT IS, indeed, an honor to be invited to address this great convention. I look upon the invitation as tendered to me not as an individual employer, nor even as chairman of the National Coat and Suit Industry Recovery Board, but as symbolizing the admirable progress that has been made over the years in harmonious management-labor relationship in the industries with which your organization is identified.

As a Clevelander, who has been in the garment manufacturing business here for more than half a century, it is a source of particular pride to me that this city should be the scene of your triennial meeting. I want to join with other of my fellow citizens and the industry members of this city in bidding you welcome and in expressing the confidence that you will find Cleveland so satisfactory a meeting place that you will come here soon again.

I had the privilege of speaking at your convention in Atlantic City more than ten years ago and again at your noteworthy gathering in Boston in 1944.

Each time you have asked me to speak, I have accepted your courteous invitation, not because I felt that I could make any significant contribution to your deliberations but because it seemed to me that it was fitting and proper that a representative of management should, when afforded the opportunity, report to labor on matters of common concern.

The fact that there is a community of purpose between management and labor in the wholesome functioning of an industry was cogently expressed a number of years ago, at a time of grave depression, by the late Morris Hillquit, the able counsel to your Union and a truly distinguished figure of his time. He declared that labor was interested in the creation of proceeds by industry; that, without such proceeds, there would be nothing with which to give adequate remuneration to labor.

An Insight into Management's Role

It would, I sincerely believe, aid in the consistent improvement in worker-employer relationship for management to accord to labor an insight into management's role in the operation of an industry. Such an insight is made possible in the coat and suit industry through the National Coat and Suit Industry Recovery Board, which serves as a medium of common consideration of industry affairs by management and labor. The meetings of the Executive Committee of the Board, which comprises representatives of your Union and the employers' associations in the various coat and suit manufacturing centers throughout the nation, has been aptly described by your President, David Dubinsky, as the "Parliament of the Industry".

This is an attitude free of the isolationism that precipitates controversies and that causes the waste inherent in suspicion and in conflict. It is a form of relationship in which neither side surrenders its individuality nor dilutes its partisanship but which recognizes the sound precept that labor and management are not traditional enemies or ingrained adversaries.

It requires courage for Union leadership to take part in such a program as that represented by the Recovery Board. It is not as dramatic or colorful as are more belligerent forms of union activity; it does not have the popular appeal of fist-brandishing or sabre-rattling. It is a broad-visioned pattern for peaceful progress worthy of the widest possible emulation.

Constructive Interchange of Views

In those industries in which the worker-employer concord has not reached a point at which a program such as that of the Recovery Board can be introduced and developed, a beneficial purpose would, in my opinion, be served through joint conventions of representatives of labor and management. This would constitute a forum for the interchange of views and ideas, not under the stress of contract negotiation, but in the spirit of mutual enlightenment.

Not to presume upon your kindness in inviting me here today, I do, however, wish to dwell for a moment upon the true character of management's role as the marketing agent of the grist of the skill and effort of an industry's workers. An outline of management's duties in the apparel industry quickly discloses it to be a many-sided, arduous job that merits the respect, not of labor alone, but of the public as well.

It is management's task to utilize to the utmost its knowledge and ingenuity, not merely in intra-industry competition but in the broader inter-commodity rivalry.

Management in the apparel industry does not rest upon laurels of the past; it recognizes the fact that each season poses a separate challenge. Fabric and other resource markets must be exhaustively studied and conclusions concerning them must be supported by substantial investment. Management must direct extensive styling activities, hazarding a sizeable part of its capital in the preparation of its lines. Management must engage in intensive merchandising and distribution procedure and must underwrite and co-ordinate a great many other functions that make for lasting good will and for product improvement.

Stabilized Labor Conditions Essential

To enable management to center its attention upon the capable performance of its manifold duties, orderly and stabilized labor conditions are not merely desirable; they are unquestionably essential.

It is, indeed, my opinion that the weakening of constructive unionism would be as injurious to conscientious employers as it would be to labor itself. In an industry such as ours, made up of numerous comparatively small firms, a responsible labor organization is necessary to prevent an unreasonable and unfair minority of employers from undermining those who depend for survival upon the merit of their product and their service.

Advancement toward an equitable management-labor relationship in industry in general cannot be achieved through depriving conscientious labor groups of their effectiveness. It is true that jurisdictional disputes, secondary boycotts and similar actions have evoked much justified criticism but it would be everlastingly regrettable if, in attempting to curb these, the very life of wholesome unionism were to be endangered.

The fact that there has been some unsavory union leadership does not justify any generalizations that ignore the role of organized labor in our nation's march of progress.

Leadership of High Integrity

You of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union are to be congratulated upon the leadership of your organization—men of high integrity and proven ability. They give aggressive representation to your great organization and although we, as employers, disagree with them on many occasions, they have our sincere and enduring respect.

In closing, let me voice my belief that there is an awareness among reasonable and capable employers that strong unions, led by men of vision and probity, are indispensable to industrial orderliness and stability.

Speaking out of my own experience, I withstood the unionizing of my firm for a quarter of a century—from 1910 to 1935. Now, after twelve years of conducting a union plant, I feel that, despite the occasional problems and differences that are inevitable in any relationship, I would not want to revert to a non-union status and I would view with regret any developments that would place unionization in our industry as a whole upon a demoralizing defensive.

The task of making way for a better tomorrow in our nation is, properly, a joint endeavor of us all. It is the common goal of worker and employer—of management and labor. Drastic curbs upon either labor or management will not attain this eagerly desired objective.

Mutual confidence and good will, as exemplified by your extending to me the privileges of this platform, are the basic essentials for lasting betterment for ourselves and for the generations to come.

Massive, Powerful Whitewash

Master Film Craftsman Gives Soviet Version Of 'Ivan the Terrible'

By Richard L. Coe

SERGEI EISENSTEIN'S "Ivan the Terrible," at the Hippodrome, is undeniably the work of a master movie maker.

It has been directed and written by a man who knows exactly what he wishes to convey in pictures. It is massive, deliberate and powerful, purposefully stylized. And it is not, by any means, everybody's dish.

"Ivan the Terrible" is the first of three films Eisenstein has projected to depict the life of the sixteenth-century Russian despot. You may recall that after this first of he trilogy was released the Russian director was subject to strong political attack for not picturing Ivan even more sympahetically than he has. He is reported to be revising the second installment accordingly.

What the Soviet movie director is doing in "Ivan the Terrible" is exactly the thing which Hollywood does in its films about historical characters. Fundamentally it is not a whit different from the halo treatment given our own Founding Fathers, Peggy Eaton and Dolly Madison. The brand is different, but it's the same old whitewash.

For this is the semiofficial Soviet version of a Russian historical figure. It is as nationalistic as a picture can get. It has been and will continue to be called "propaganda," but it is far more intresting than just that. In its curiously naive way it is an explanation of Russia today. Its childlike self-pity is both revealing and a bit pathetic.

The Russian people, for whom it was made, and foreigners who see it are asked to believe that everybody's against Russia. Ivan was misunderstood and—the parallel is unmistakable—so is Russia.

The Ivan we see is a splendid man who strives only for the unity of his country. The Boyars, the conservative nobles, do everything they can to defeat him and neighboring nations strike against him without reason. Ivan is forced to be strong and finally to relinquish his case to the people who turn from his enemies to him and urge that he return to power in Moscow. There this installment ends, on a note of expectant triumph for a sorely tried man.

Sixteenth Century Warfare

The story is told with immense dignity and remarkable astute economy of event if not of time. The few sequences are potently developed, though the pacing would cause Cecil B. DeMille to cut his throat in despair.

To an impressive choral background of Prokofieff music we at Moscow. We see the ignored Boyars plotting against him. We see him destroy the Tartar city, Kazan, and here the details are fascinating: gunpowder against arrows; each man drops a coin in a basket before the fight to pick one out afterwards—the remainder accounting for the casualties.

We see Ivan dying and asking for united support of his baby son as his successor and, not getting it, rise to miraculous recovery. Finally we watch his despair at his wife's death mount into determination to carry his case to the people.

Prokofieff Music

All these scenes are developed with reckless slowness. Facial close-ups, eyes and shadows are constantly before the camera. The effect is heavy and reminiscent of the early German technique. But to Eisenstein they are as much a part as his individual handwriting.

The Prokofieff music is in the style one associates with Moussorgsky. He has drawn liberally from the massive choral music of the Russian liturgy, whether merely in the style or from actual manuscripts I do not know. But some of it, too, makes you think of Hollywood's heavenly voices at climactic moments.

No, "Ivan the Terrible" is not everybody's picture by a long shot, nor is it up to the Eisenstein of "Potemkin" and "Ten Days That Shook the World." But it is a revealing picture of a self-conscious and unsure nation and it is, undeniably, a film by a master craftsman.

BARBARA BEL GEDDES, one of the most promising of our younger actresses, is the heroine of this pretty picture. Her first two films are on their way—"The Long Night," with Henry Fonda, and "I Remember Mama," wherein she plays Irene Dunne's daughter. Barbara is the daughter of the famed industrial designer, Norman Bel Geddes

Comic's Card Tricks Wins Winnie's Okay

New York.—Harry Green, the veteran stage and screen comic, has been in England the past few years. His dexterity at card tricks so intrigued Winston Churchill that they became good friends, a fact which did no harm to Green's play in London. Churchill went to see the play three times, and the Queen celebrated her birthday by witnessing a performance. . . . On Churchill's 73rd birthday, Green sent him a wire: "I hope you live 27 years more." The ex-Prime Minister replied: "All I want is a dignified exit."

Winston Churchill

Last year Green wanted to enroll his two young sons at Harrow. He was told that because alumni usually enroll their sons at birth, the lists now were closed and the applications for the Green boys could be made for 1968. "They'll have long beards by 1968," Mr. Green reminded the Harrow officials. "I'm trying to enroll MY sons—not theirs." . . . Churchill sponsored their admission and David and Roland Green were accepted at Harrow. . . . David now is a house captain there. Roland, however, received 11 demerits in his first term. Mr. Green started to berate Roland for these 11 demerits. David came to his brother's defense and told their father: "There's a boy in the class who has more than 11 demerits. He has 16." . . . "That's right, father," said Roland. "He's my best friend."

At a cocktail party in Washington recently, Ruth Sheldon, the magazine writer, was introduced to Capt. Engineer Alexander F. Belikov, assistant naval attache at the Soviet Embassy . . . Miss Sheldon started the conversation by coyly inquiring: "Have you read 'I Chose Freedom,' by Kravchenko?" In pronouncing Kravchenko's name she placed the accent on the second syllable . . . "You mispronounced it," Capt. Belikov corrected. "The accent is on the first syllable" . . . "Have you read the book?" Miss Sheldon continued . . . "Kravchenko is a Trotskyist," Capt. Belikov recited. "His father was a Trotskyist. His grandfather was a Trotskyist." . . . "Have you read the book? Miss Sheldon persisted. Capt. Belikov replied: "No."

Jimmy Cromwell, ex-husband of Doris Duke, was operated on at Lenox Hill Hospital. . . . Anita Loos is writing an adaptation of "She Stoops to Conquer" in which Greer Garson may be starred. Irene Selznick probably will produce it. . . . Fred Allen and his sponsor have renewed their agreement for next season. The sponsor never has interefered with Allen. In fact, he has seen Allen only once in the last two years. This was the occasion when he brought his wife to a broadcast—because his wife was so anxious to meet Senator Claghorn. . . . One of America's greatest novelists has been taken to a sanitarium.

Gilbert Miller, who last year bought the Lyric Theater in London for his wife—explaining: "What else is there to buy, without ration coupons?"—may buy the Princess Theater there too. . . Leo C. Rosten, whose "Sleep, My Love," is being produced by Mary Pickford, has just completed a novel. It's called "Miracle in Pasadena."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Justice Burton's Few Opinions Hit

By Drew Pearson

In austere and dignified Supreme Court circles there is a situation which the justices don't talk about publicly, but which is causing mingled embarrassment, chuckles and resentment. It's the fact that one member of the court is soldiering on the job.

Burton

He is Justice Harold Burton of Ohio, who to date has written only three majority opinions during the entire year. This is the lowest output in several years of Supreme Court history, and court attaches whisper—behind their hands—that if Burton wasn't protected by the "Supreme Court Union" he would have been reprimanded or jostled off the bench long ago.

In contrast, Justice William O. Douglas, even though sick for two months, has written 26 majority opinions, while Justice Hugo Black also has written 26.

Justice Burton, on the other hand, seems to think that being on the Supreme Court is not for the purpose of handing down opinions but to enjoy a continued round of parties. There is scarcely a party of any importance in Washington where he does not appear—including some parties not so important.

Justice and Mrs. Burton were to be seen recently at the Afghanistan reception—a country some people scarcely know exists—and when Ambassador Jawdat of Iraq entertained in honor of His Majesty, King Faisal of Iraq, the justice turned up to drink a toast. Whether it be a reception in honor of Ohio Congressmen, in this case given by Burton himself, or a cocktail party to inspect a portrait of former Attorney General Francis Biddle, painted by his brother; or a tea party at the Czech Embassy, Justice Burton always seems to be there.

It's got to be more than a joke around Washington. It's come to the point that when Justice Hugo Black leaves a dinner party at 10 p. m. in order to go home and work on an opinion, guests pointedly remark that Black wouldn't have to burn the midnight oil if Burton would pull his full weight.

The illness of Justice Douglas also has been attributed by friends to overwork as the result of writing more than his share of the court's opinions.

Although Black and Douglas stand out as the most prodigious workers on the court, no other justice comes anywhere near Burton's low mark of only three majority opinions. Frankfurter and Rutledge wrote five and four majority opinions, but counterbalanced this by a very large number of dissents and concurring opinions—24 for Frankfurter and 19 for Rutledge. Burton, on the other hand, wrote only three dissents.

Justice Murphy is next highest to Black and Douglas with 13 majority opinions, followed by Reed, 11, with Jackson and Vinson 10 each.

Last year no one paid too much attention to Burton's low output, since he was a junior justice. Now, however he has been on the court for two full years, which for other justices is considered ample time to begin to earn their $20,000 a year.

Prof. 'Ike' Eisenhower

General Eisenhower was talking to friends the other day about his desire to be president of a university.

"This job," he said, referring to his present duty as Chief of Staff, "is a come-down, after being in Europe during the war. However, I felt that I owed it to the Army to help get appropriations through Congress. But I'm going to get out soon. There are several good men who could step in here and I owe it to them to make room for them."

In talking to the trustees of Columbia, Eisenhower indicated that one reason he was interested in becoming its president was because Columbia did not go in for racism, but was open to students of all religious faiths.

Civil Service Gestapo?

Meeting behind closed doors, the House Civil Service Committee is putting some sockeroo catches in the President's plan to check the loyalty of all Federal employes. Only one voice inside committee was raised against the Gestapo tactics—that of Los Angeles' Democratic Representative George P. Miller.

"Before we vote," Miller declared, "I want to make my position clear. I believe we are rushing into this program without appreciating the consequences. It is a serious violation of individual rights to take a man's job away from him. If a person has a grudge against an employe, he can bring false charges against him. It seems to me that the bill will brand the employe guilty until he can prove himself innocent. That is not the American way."

Worsham Bows Out of PGA, 3 and 2

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

JEROME HERMAN DEAN, who in public life is Dizzy Dean, retired pitcher and unretiring broadcaster of the Browns' games, had a word for it yesterday when Jeff Heath took a third strike with his bat on his shoulder.

POVICH

"Awful," was Dizzy's microphone message to his St. Louis listeners.

He didn't let go at that, though. Dean's radio fans get the full treatment when Dizzy is broadcasting, such as his apologies for his grammatical mistakes. "Never went fur in school," he says. "Didn't get out of the third grade, you know—didn't want to pass my father."

He was broadcasting yesterday from a box in the second tier behind third base in Griffith Stadium, and pelting third base Umpire Bill Summers with peanuts when his full attention to the game wasn't needed.

"Them guys what take third strikes don't deserve no sympathy," Dean was broadcasting. "I always said if they're close enough to call, they're close enough to swing at. 'Course that's the pitcher's point of view, and I'm for the pitchers."

HE TALKED about the ball game, the weather, the beer he advertises, and himself. "Too hot in Washington today," he told the St. Louis fans, "and Johnny O'Hara and me wish we wuz there with you, guzzling some of that old Falstaff which goes so smooth on these hot days."

The team of Dean and O'Hara, which travels with the Browns to do the "live" play-by-play broadcasts, is a study in contrasts. The meticulous O'Hara, a smooth-tongued grammarian who alternates with Dean, is given to smart polysyllables and is the perfect foil for Dizzy, who makes no scholarly claims for himself. "All you fans which ain't got college degrees can listen to me," he said, "and O'Hara can have the others."

When Stan Spence singled in the opening inning, O'Hara recalled how Spence for years had been fattening his average against St. Louis pitching, and commented, "It would be nice to see Washington dispense with Spence, right Dizzy?" Whereupon Dean leaned into the mike and said, "I don't know what that word 'dispense' means, but I'm in favor of it if it means we git him."

FROM HIS BROADCASTING booth, Dean looked out on the diamond and pointed to the pitcher's mound. "That's the place where the worst thing of my career happened to me," he recalled. "It was about this time 10 years ago that I ran into the worst luck of my career, right in this ball park, and probably from the same rubber they're now using."

He was talking about the time that Earl Averill of the Cleveland Indians banged a line drive into the pitcher's box and broke the toe on Dean's right foot in the 1937 All-Star game. "Didn't know how bad I was hurt when it happened, but I wasn't the same pitcher after that."

All his sore-arm troubles dated from that broken toe, Dean declares. "I couldn't take my same stride after that," he said. "I was favoring my foot, trying to keep my weight off it, and the first thing you know I wasn't using my natural motion, and the muscles in my shoulder and elbow began to act up. Never got my fast ball back. I was through as a big winner from that day on."

DIZZY ISN'T ABOVE speaking his piece, either, about the management of the Browns. "Never could understand why they let Tom Ferrick get away to Washington at the waiver price, or sold Chuck Stevens, a good first baseman, back to Toledo. They'd both look pretty good with the Browns now. Ferrick's the best relief pitcher in the business, and Stevens can outfield anybody on first base in this league."

The purchase of Ferrick at the $10,000 waiver price has, indeed, been a boon to the Nats.. The fact was that when he was claimed by the Nats, Manager Ossie Bluege was not daring to dream that the Browns would let him go.

Ferrick's rescue of Buck Newsom in the opening game yesterday was typical of his excellent work for the Nats this year. He has seen service in 12 games for Washington, and in the 26 1/3 innings he has pitched he has allowed only three runs, and has been a very handy guy.

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Detroit, Mich., June 22.—Gene Sarazen's achievement of winning the National Open and the PGA the same year—1922—is no longer in jeopardy—not this year, anyway.

The only player who had a chance to duplicate that performance, U. S. Open Champion Lew Worsham, lost his opportunity today when he was eliminated in the quarter-final round of the PGA Championship here at Plub Hollow golf course.

His conqueror was 35-year-old Vic Ghezzi, a tournament-tested veteran who won this same event in 1941 and who dominated today's proceedings by a 3 and 2 margin.

Ghezzi, a 6-foot 5-inch 260 pounder who plays out of Kansas City, Kans., overcame a 2-down deficit at the end of this morning's 18-hole round and put an end to the ambitious Washingtonian's quest on the thirty-fourth hole.

Joining Worsham in defeat in this, the most rugged tournament in which the play-for-pay boys compete, were Lloyd Mangrum, whom Worsham deposed a week ag otoday as National Open champion; Ky Laffoon, St. Andrews, Ill., pro who's been around for years, and Leland Gibson, of Kansas City, Mo.

Jim Ferrier, the former Australian ace, took care of Mangrum, 4 and 3, and meets Art Bell, an obscure Californian, in tomorrow's semifinal. Bell dropped Laffoon, 2 up, despite a magnificent comeback by Laffoon which saw him even the match on the 28th hole after being seven down at the end of 19.

In the other semifinal pairing, Ghezzi plays Chick Harbert, of nearby Northville, Mich. Harbert had a real struggle in eliminating Gibson, rallying to triumph, 2 up.

It wasn't so much a case of Worsham's bad play this afternoon that resulted in his explusion, but instead, Ghezzi's brilliant putting. Vic dropped a 15-footer on the nineteenth, a beaut of a 40-footer on the twentieth and followed that by canning a third 15-foot effort on the twenty-first. He halved the match with that tremendous putt on the short 208-yard twentieth and took a lead on the twenty-second which he held tenaciously and skilfully.

Ghezzi hit his stride after lunch. He went out in 33, three under and two better than Worsham, and was one under par on the thirty-fourth when Worsham narrowly missed a 20-foot putt for a birdie which would have kept him alive.

Neither Shines

Worsham did not sparkle on his morning excursion and Ghezzi was even less scintillating. Lew's 37, 36—73, one over par, was his worst round since man-to-man

Blackwell Misses Second No-Hitter in 9th

Cincinnati, June 21 (AP).—Ewell Blackwell, the Cincinnati Reds' six-five fireballing righthander, came within two putouts of pitching his second consecutive no-hit no-run game here today as the Reds edged the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4-0, before more than 35,000 fans.

Brooklyn won the second game, 9-8.

Carl Furillo belted a homer with the bags loaded in the fourth to highlight a six-run Dodger rally which sewed up the nightcap. The Reds gave the Brooks a scare by scoring six times in the last three innings to pull to within a tie.

With one out in the ninth of the opener, Ed Stanky drove a single through Blackwell's legs that rolled out of Eddie Miller's reach at shortstop.

It was the eleventh victory of the season and ninth in a row for Blackwell, who turned the major league's first 1947 no-hitter last Wednesday night as the Reds blanked the Boston Braves, 6-0.

Macks Divide With Chisox

Philadelphia, June 22 (AP).—Carl Scheib, the Philadelphia Athletics 20-year-old pitcher, won his third successive start and chalked up his second shutout today by defeating the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 0, in the second game of a double-header after the A's had dropped the opener on an unearned run in the tenth inning, 1 to 0.

A crowd of 28,852 saw Scheib limit the Pale Hose to four hits.

Bob Kennedy scored from second on a throwing error by Eddie Joost giving the White Sox the first game in the tenth inning.

Riggs Wins National Title

Forest Hills, N. Y., June 22 (AP).—Bobby Riggs of Ferndale, N. Y., won the National Professional Tennis Championship for the second straight year today when he outlasted Don Budge of Oakland, Calif., in the five-set singles final, 3—6, 6—3, 10—8, 4—6, 6—3.

Unlike last year, when he dropped only five games while whipping Budge for the pro title, Riggs had to go the limit today to turn back the challenge of the rangy red-head in the windup of the 20th annual tournament before a crowd estimated at 8000.

Budge grabbed the first set and came back to square the match in the fourth after Riggs had taken the second and third heats.

The deciding set was packed with action as first Riggs and then Budge broke through the other's service. Riggs got off to a 2-0 lead but Budge held his own service in the third and games followed service until the sixth when Riggs broke through as Budge netted a forehand shot.

In the final game, Budge wiped out an 0-40 deficit and worked the count to deuce twice more before going down by netting on the deciding point.

In the playoff for third place money, third-seeded Frank Kovacs, Oakland, Ca., who bowed to Riggs in the semifinals, defeated fifth-seeded Welby Van Horn, Chattanooga, Tenn., 6—4, 4—6, 6—4, in a best two out of three sets affair.

Nats Win, 3-2, Then Bow by 9-6, As Browns End Losing Streak

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

The Nats ran out of pitching late yesterday afternoon in contrast to the earlier hours when they licked the Browns, 3 to 2, in the eopening game of a doubleheader.

In the second game, the Browns won, 9 to 6, proving you can't lose 'em all. They had just lost eight in a row.

An on-edge crowd of 21,863 saw the Nats pile into Jack Kramer's pitching for three runs in the second inning of the opener and win the game on six hits, thanks to an excellent bit of relief pitching by Tom Ferrick. Buck Newsom gave way to Ferrick in a sixth-inning jam, after the Browns put the tying run on third with one out.

The second game was a messy one for the Nats' pitchers. Sid Hudson was the first of five who gave up 11 hits to the Browns. Like Newsom, he didn't last out the sixth. The Browns walloped Hudson for a 4-0 lead in the third inning, and the Nats never did catch up, though they knocked Sam Zoldak from the box in the eighth.

The Nats performed something of a feat in winning that first game with a mere six hits while the Browns were collecting nine, eight of them off Newsom. They made only one hit off Kramer after the second inning.

Gerry Priddy and Mark Christman struck the big blows of the first contest after Vernon walked and Spence followed with a single to right in the second inning. Priddy doubled to right to score Vernon, and Christmas singled to left for the second and third runs of the inning.

Newsom, given that nice lead, clowned a bit in the third, throwing bloopers until Al Zarilla drew a walk. Lehner's single and Jeff Heath's double to right with two out cut the Nats' lead to 3-1.

In the sixth, Newsom walked

Yanks Hand Tigers Ninth Loss in Row

New York, June 22 (AP).—Rookie Catcher Larry (Yogi) Berra highlighted a five-run first inning by homering with the bases loaded today and the New York Yankees went on to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 6-5, to extend a Detroit losing streak to nine games.

The Tigers had scored three runs in the first to drive Starter Randy Gumpert from the hill, but the Yanks struck back quickly in their half at the expense of big Al Benton and tallied what proved to be the winning run in the fifth when George McQuinn tripled and dashed home on Billy Johnson's ground-out.

Bosox, Tribe Split Games

Boston, June 22 (AP).—Before the season's largest crowd at Fenway Park, 34,863 paid, the second place Red Sox and the Cleveland Indians today divided a double-header, the Indians taking the opener 8-2 behind the Veteran Mel Harder and the defending American League champions winning the second contest 6-3 in back of Rookie Harry (Fritz) Dorish.

The Indians had little trouble in the opener, driving Dave Ferriss out with a four-run attack in the first three innings.

The victory was the fourth in a row this season for the veteran harder and the 221st of his American League career.

Joe Gordon, Indian second baseman belted his eleventh homer of the year in the seventh inning, equaling his total output of round trippers in 1946.

Braves Hold League Lead With Wild 8-7 Victory Over Cubs

Bennings

DEAR FOLKS:

Mrs. Ann O. Reid, besides being an accomplished rider and trainer, has a keen sense of humor. The other morning I was asking her about Broiler, her 11-year-old. Broiler was given to Mrs. Reid by Frank Christman for a hunter, but she decided to give the veteran a chance to run on the flat. After being patched up, Broiler more than earned his way both on the small and large ovals. Old age is catching up with Broiler now, but Mrs. Reid, wife of the well-known steeplechase rider, isn't allowing him to be abused. "If he can win, O. K.," she says, "but I'm not going to see him suffer." I happened to remark, "I'll bet he knows you well." Mrs. Reid smiled and replied, "Why he gets up early and cooks my breakfast and does the dishes. If it is cold at night, he comes around to see if I have plenty of blankets." I couldn't help saying, "I guess he goes around to the store and buys the groceries, too." She came back with, "Not any more. He kept stopping by the bank and signing a lot of notes and never making payments." But all kidding aside, Broiler is a grand old horse—and in excellent hands. Jockey Willie Kelly, who was handed a 10-day suspension last week, met with some more hard luck when he was injured Saturday morning while working the pacer Gold Jack. He was taken to the Charles Town General Hospital.

Boston Wins In 11th on Culler's Hit

Chicago, June 22 (AP).—The Boston Braves retained their leadership in the National League race today by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 8 to 7, in a wild 11-inning contest before a crowd of 38,438. Dick Culler singled to drive Phil Masi across with the winning run off Johnny Schmitz.

Frank McCormick singled to deep short off Schmitz, fifth Cub hurler, in the eleventh. Masi was safe on his sacrifice when Stan Hack threw late to second. Connie Ryan bunted into a force out at third and then Culler dropped a pop fly single behind first to send Masi home. Johnny Sain, third Boston pitcher, thereby racked up his ninth win.

Bill Nicholson and Clyde McCullough slammed homers for the Cubs, who trailed 3-2 going into the eighth. They then routed Bill Voiselle, former New York Giant, making his first start for the Braves, with a three-run rally that sent them into a 5-3 lead. Bob Elliott and Frank McCormick homered with two out in the ninth off Emil Kush to tie up the game.

In the tenth "Bama" Rowell doubled to score two for the Braves only to have the Cubs come back with a pair on "Peanuts" Lowrey's single, Nicholson's triple and another single by Dom D'Allessandro.

N. Y. Halts Card's 9 Game Streak; Phils Clip Bucs in 13 Innings, 8-7

Second Game Called in 4th

Pittsburgh, June 22 (AP).—Skipper Newsome's single with two out scored Andy Seminick with the winning tally in the thirteenth inning today as the Philadelphia Phillies eked out a 4-to-3 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the marathon opener of their doubleheader.

Kirby Higbe, who took over the pitching chores in the twelfth, was the losing pitcher. Ali Jurisich was the winner.

A second game was called after four innings because of a Sunday law. The Phillies led, 8-6.

Manor Star Outsteadies Veteran Foe

By Al Costello
Post Reporter

Outsteadying his veteran opponent with a sure-handed touch, Bobby Brownell, 23-year-old Manor star, yesterday won the Maryland Amateur golf championship, defeating Spencer Overton of Rolling rd., Baltimore, 3 and 2.

It was the third major victory this year for the slender, brown-haired youngster who, in defeating the tested veteran 20 years his senior added the Maryland Amateur to the Middle Atlantic and District Amateur titles he had captured earlier.

Brownell seldom was in trouble. His tee shots were usually right down the middle. His iron play was sure and his putter red-hot. Not once in the final 18 of the 36-hole test did the Manor star three-putt.

In contrast, the usually steady Overton was erratic, especially off the tees and, although uncorking brilliant recovery shots to save himself time and again, it was his inconsistencies that finally led to his downfall.

Fittingly enough, Brownell ended the grind on the short, 154-yard sixteenth with something of a flourish. Leading two up with three to play, the Manor star popped his tee shot 15 feet of the pin. Overton's was too strong and to the left, dropping into a trap.

When Overton blasted out to within a foot of the cup for a sure three which might have prolonged the match, Brownell calmly stepped up and rammed his 15 footer into the hole to end the scrap.

The hole that may have broken Overton's back was the 416-yard fourteenth when his tee shot again betrayed him. It landed in a sand trap some 200 yards away. Then, to the amazement of the good-sized gallery which had seen him recover in sensational fashion all day, he flubbed his second.

His third was another beauty, a 200-yard iron that fetched him out of the trap and onto the edge of the green. Brownell, meanwhile, was down the middle with his drive and whaled a beautiful iron shot some 200 yards that came to rest only 10 feet from the cup.

Overton's bold bid to sink his long putt failed as the ball agonizingly stopped on the lip of the cup. Brownell played it safe and sure, putting to within inches for a certain four to take a 2-up lead.

Previous to Overton's miscues on the fourteenth and sixteenth final, the match was a sizzler, with never more than two holes separating the rivals. Brownell won the sixteenth and eighteenth of the morning round to take a 2-up lead by lunch.

Overton led only once, and that was on the seventh of the morning round when his birdie three gave him a 1-up lead. But Brownell squared things on the eighth, and from there on never was in arrears.

Starting the final 18, they traded three holes and halved three on the first nine. On the tenth, Overton cut Brownell's lead to 1-up when Brownell, for one of the few times, found a trap and lost a costly stroke and the hole to Overton's par four.

McKenly, Dillard Set World Marks

Salt Lake City, June 22 (AP).—Two great negro stars surpassed world speed records last night as Illinois captured its second straight N. C. A. A. track and field championship with 59 2/3 points.

Herb McKenley of Illinois for the second time in his career raced the 440-yard dash in the phenomenal time of 46.2 seconds for a new NCAA mark, bettering the recognized world record of 46.4 seconds.

Harrison Dillard, brilliant hurdler from Baldwin-Wallace, raced the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.3 seconds for a brand new meet record. This surpassed the recognized world standard of 22.5 seconds.

Bill Star Takes Timonium Tri-Color

By Mary H. Cadwalader

Timonium, Md., June 22.—Fourteen championships were awarded this afternoon as the four-day Maryland horse show ended before a crowd of 8000 spectators, and it was a fight to the finish in two of them before the multi-colored championship ribbons found their way to the right bridles.

Llangollen Stables' Safety Call and Mr. and Mrs. James D. McKinnon's Bill Star, two stunning four-year-old green hunters were tied at fifteen points each, but when the judges lined them up for a final choice on a conformation basis, the bay gelding Bill Star won by a whisker.

Morton W. "Cappy" Smith, of Middleburg, Va., who rode this consistent performer, received the challenge trophy for the second consecutive year.

Portmaker Wins

Because of a disqualification in yesterday's hunter stake, Dr. Alvin I. Kay's Portmaker was trailing Mrs. Amory Lawrence's Highlander in points toward the conformation hunter championship today, until a solid win in the Corinthian class gave him the necessary points and assured him a year's possession of the Elkridge-Harford Hunt challenge trophy.

The gray Count Stefan, owned and ridden by Miss Betty Bosley, had a busy afternoon in the winner's circle, collecting a championship in the working hunter section and a reserve in the Maryland hunter section.

Balkonian, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William D. Amoss of Belair, amassed three points more than Count Stefan and topped the gray in the Maryland division.

Sheik of Albrurae Wins

No. doubt existed in the jumper division as Sheik of Albrurae, from the Albrurae Farm in Connecticut, went way out in front to take the jumper championship.

In six events, this bay skyscraper was only out of the blue ribbons once, when reserve champion Pabst Brew, owned by Miss Edythe Clark Bailey, outjumped him by inches.

Most intricate event of the show was the modified Olympic three-day competition, in which courses similar to those held in the international Olympic games were arranged to test a variety of equine abilities. Four horses were selected, the championship going to Springsbury Farm's Cavalcade, followed by Jane C. Pohl's Fitzrada, L. H. Burton's Chester, and Josephine Hornberger's Our-Sox.

Senator Morse Show Winner

Senator Wayne B. Morse ended his filibustering in time to attend the Arlington Lions Club Horse Show held yesterday at the Ballston (Va.) Stadium and win the coveted gaited championship with his handsome high-stepping stallion Spice of Life.

Spice, shown and ridden by the Senator, took the model, placed in the five-gaited saddle class and was third in the fine harness event. Earl Plummer's well-known champion Mr. B. was in the reserve spot, both horses having scored 9 points, with Spice edging out Mr. B. on conformation judging.

Al Earnest's consistent Dickie Boy added another tricolor to his collection by besting the jumpers with a total of 9 points. W. C. Vlar's Hi-Jack left the winning circle at the Maryland show in Timonium to compete at home and took the reserve with 5 points.

MODEL SADDLE — Won by Wayne B. Morse's Spice of Life; second, Howard England's Chief of Holt's Farm; third, Earl Plummers' Mr. B; fourth, Jack Wilson's Weather Prophet.

WARM-UP—Won by Robert C. Lee's Bonne Fille; second, Maj. R. A. Morgan's Red Rebel; third, A. C. Earnest's Dickie Boy; fourth, Blanche Johnson's Valvo.

Worsham Out of PGA

competition started Friday. But even at that he was four strokes lower than Ghezzi who required 77 blows, including a 40 going out, for the forenoon 18-hole journey.

The Open champion owned a two-up lead at recess time and it was Ghezzi's bad playing, not Worsham's good playing, that was responsible for this advantage.

Lew had four one-putt greens for the round, but still used 32 strokes on the greens, not a championship exhibition by any means. Ghezzi had 33, including two three-putters.

Drives in Front

Lew outdrove his much-more-seasoned foe all day, being from 30 to 50 yards in front of him consistently. In the morning round, this factor largely contributed to his lead as Ghezzi was putting poorly.

But Ghezzi was a different man on the greens when he returned from lunch—which Worsham bought, incidentally—and he lost no time demonstrating his rediscovered putting magic.

Worsham played par golf on the nineteenth and twentieth, but lost both holes and his lead as Ghezzi birdied the same two holes. Lew's five on 19 could have been a four, but he blasted out of trap weakly.

On the twenty-second hole Ghezzi went to the front to stay with a par against Lew's five. Worsham belted a 300-yard tee shot, but overclubbed on his second and overshot the green. Ghezzi made it two up on the next hole as Lew three-putted for a bogey four from 20 feet.

Lew Pounds One

With defeat staring him in the face,, Worsham hit his best drive on what proved to be his last hole—the thirty-ninth. He was at least 320 yards down the fairway on the 432-yard hole and 40 yards in front of Ghezzi. Both were on safely in two, Worsham 20 feet from the flag, Ghezzi 30. Vic played it safe, putting to within 8 inches.

Worsham, realizing he must drop his or pack up, studied his lie for a full 2 minutes and then went boldly for the cup. It rimmed the cup and a second later Lew walked over and shook hands, conceding Ghezzi his short putt.

21,836 See Nats Split Twin Bill With Browns

Heath, pitched a single to Judnich and another to former Nat Billy Hitchcock, to give the Browns another run and leave the tying run on third with only one out. Judnich reached that bag on Hitchcock's single to center, plus a fumble by Spence. But Ferrick moved in to dispose of that threat by causing Moss to hit into a double play started by Christman.

Tom in Command

Ferrick was on the magnificent side, in fact. He didn't permit a man to reach base until Hitchcock singled with one out in the ninth. The threat ended when Moss filed out and pinch hitter Schultz popped up.

Hudson was scarcely squared away in the second game before the Browns reached him for four runs in the third inning of five hits. Singles by Hitchcock and Early, and a safe bunt by Zoldak filled the bases, and Dillinger drove two runs in with a double to left. Coleman produced two more with a single to left.

Rick Ferrell's double to left in the fourth got two runs back, but the Browns pounded Hudson for a 6-2 lead in the sixth on a walk to Heath, Stephens' double to right, and Hitchcock's single.

The Nats muffed a big inning in their own sixth, getting but one run after McBride's hit and a pair of walks by Zoldak filled the bases with none out. Christman fanned in this crisis, and the lone run scored on Ferrell's infield out.

Pitchers Parade

Marino Pieretti moved into the game in the seventh and the Browns reached him for a quick run on Dillinger's double and Heath's single. In the ninth, Milo Candini forced a run home with a walk to Zarilla after the Browns filled the bases.

Zoldak was in trouble in the eighth after getting two out, and the Nats filled the bases on hits by Priddy and Christman and a walk. Pinch Hitter Al Evans drove in two runs, but Ellis Kinder took over and fanned Pinch Hitter Travis. Vernon's triple led to a Washington run in the ninth, but by that time they needed at least four.

Art Herring Released By Pittsburgh Club

Pittsburgh, June 22 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates today unconditionally released Art Herring, veteran 40-year-old pitcher purchased from Brooklyn during the winter.

Herring had a record of one win and three losses in 10⅓ innings pitched for the Pirates this season. He won seven and lost two in relief roles with the Dodgers last year.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

RECALLS: Dismissal notices for many thousands of federal workers will become effective in this last week of June, but it now appears that several thousand notices—a small number in comparison—will be canceled within the next few days.

Kluttz

The Senate Appropriations Committee will act early this week on money bills for the Navy, State, Commerce and Justice departments. Tentatively, the committee has restored a few cuts made by the House, but these were offset somewhat by new Senate reductions.

By and large, the provisional Senate bills would provide a modest increase in personnel over those approved by the House. For example:

NAVY: The House bill would require it to make an over-all cut of 27,000 civilians. The tentative Senate bill would restore only 5000 jobs, which means a definite reduction of at least 22,000 jobs. On the other hand, the department would get all the military people it had requested.

The House ordered the department to cut off about 2500 employes at its headquarters in this city. The Senate action would keep the reduction somewhat below 1000, or about 1500 more jobs here than were allowed by the House.

An oversight was made in the House bill which threatens a reduction of about 600 employes in Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics. The Senate group corrected it to provide payment of salaries out of construction funds. But even so, the bureau would have to reduce staff under the Senate bill.

STATE: The House-approved bill would force a layoff of about 4000 employes which includes the 3100-man staff of the overseas information program. The Senate group tentatively approved 12 million dollars for the program which would carry on the jobs of about 1000 employes.

About 500 employes in this city are assigned to the information program. All have been given 30-day notices. About half of them would be retained if the Senate plan is approved.

But the jobs of about 500 or more State employes here would be saved if the department is given the $1,500,000 additional as proposed by the Senate Subcommittee. This House slash was made in all State offices here except foreign service and overseas information.

CENSUS: House cuts forced this agency to give layoff notices to about 1100 employes and to prepare to transfer its foreign trade statistical office of about 250 employes to New York.

The Senate committee has agreed tentatively to give this bureau an additional $845,000 for current statistics on population, labor forces, etc. Also, the foreign trade office—a center of controversy for 25 years—would not have to be moved to New York.

If the Senate plan goes through, Census could recall several hundred employes to work.

OTS: The Office of Technical Services would be given $790,000 by the Senate. The House to make an appropriation for this agency. OTS's German operation would be continued, but a sizable personnel reduction would have to be made in its offices here even under the Senate bill.

CAA: Civil Aeronautics has been given a big money cut by the Senate group, but it appears the agency would be able to hire additional employes. The money cut was for new construction and very few jobs are involved in it. But $1,500,000 was added for maintenance which could be used to hire new people for safety work, etc.

The committee however, plans to take a crack at CAA's supervisory and administrative personnel.

STANDARDS: The Bureau of Standards was given an additional $450,000 to install a new lighting system. Very few jobs are involved in the increase.

JUDGES: The Senate group voted to restore $1,900,000 to the judicial appropriation bill to permit Federal judges to keep their law clerks and secretaries. The House knocked out this fund.

MARITIME: A heavy black cloud of uncertainty hangs over this commission and both its officials and employes are jittery and jumpy. Since the agency can't know what the Congress will do, it will give out more than 3000 dismissal notices—about 1300 to employes here—but it hopes to recall a good portion of them eventually.

Maritime already has given final and definite notices to about 500 employes in its shipping operations. Those notices will become effective this week. But the agency's legal authority to operate ships expires a week from today and it was taken for granted that Congress would extend it. Nothing has happened, however.

Now Maritime has given out provisional notices to the remaining 1500 employes in that work—600 of whom are here—and the employes will get only a week's notice if the Congress fails to act.

As a result, all these employes will be on a forced and payless holiday through June 30 unless the Congress relents in the meantime.

Clergy Hits Breakdown Of Morals In America

Woodside Pastor Blames Backwash Of War; Spiritual Vandalism Deplored

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

Greater Washington area clergy yesterday deplored from pulpits a breakdown in American morals.

The Rev. Philip C. Edwards, pastor of Woodside Methodist Church in Silver Spring, attributed the moral breakdown to the backwash of war.

"Without realizing just how much our moral stamina has been affected by the repeated buffetings, we have come upon what might seem like calmer days," he said, but added:

"Foundations Weakened"

"Danger is that our foundations may have been weakened, our strength sapped to the point where in the backwash of war our individual living or social structures will give way. The silent undertow may sweep us off.

"One of the foundation stones of our American democracy has been the public recognition of the importance of the thing for which the Sabbath stands—reverence for God, and a regular time and place to refresh our wearied spirits and recharge our spiritual batteries. These are needed as much in the easier times of readjustment to peace as they were in the strenuous days of war."

Warns of 'Vandalism'

Dr. Albert J. McCartney warned that "moral and spiritual vandalism is invading the sacred temple of our Christian society and the culture which it has taken centuries to build up and establish."

Dr. McCartney

Guest speaker at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 9th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw., Dr. McCartney criticized "our tendency to Hollywoodize our whole way of life and keep hacking away with our hammers and hatchets until we bring down the pillars that support our cherished institutions to involve our entire people in confused destruction."

"What strikes many of us as a national calamity," he stated, "is the wholesale collapse of good manners and the substitution of the cheap, the tawdry, and blatant behavior in public places."

Dr. McCartney is director of the Chicago Sunday Evening Club, a laymen's organization that conducts services in the Loop, and is former pastor of the National (Covenant - First) Presbyterian Church here. He and Mrs. McCartney are spending part of the summer here.

Indifference Assailed

"Americans have become appallingly indifferent to the moral level on which we live," the Rev. Joseph Johnson said in a temperance sermon at Arlington Methodist Church, 8th st. and South Glebe rd.

"Alcoholic beverage is today one of the most rampant and obvious deterrences to the full development of the healthy, well-balanced and mature personality we know to be the purpose of Christian living," the Rev. Mr. Johnson stated. He said that most Americans are unwilling to admit that alcohol is a problem that must be solved.

Sees Sex Exploited

The Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor of Chevy Chase Baptist Church, said "predatory interests" exploiting sex on the screen and in literature and in radio are demoralizing our American way of life.

Rev. Clark

Preaching at a "Wedding Bells" reunion service for couples married during his ministry at Chevy Chase, the Rev. Mr. Clark warned that "we must come to grips with all the hostile forces of home and family life."

"Whatever criticism may be made against the home today may with equal force be made against our whole civilization," he said.

'Standards Never Lower'

"The moral standards of the Nation were never lower," the Rev. Charles H. Frick told his congregation at Mount Rainier Christian Church, and pleaded for more character building.

Frick

The Rev. Mr. Frick, a former Army chaplain, quoted Gen. Douglas MacArthur as once saying that "this is our last chance to build a world on moral and spiritual foundations."

Christian Homes Needed

The need of Christian homes as bulwarks against a morally decaying society was emphasized by the Rev. F. E. Remaly, guest speaker at Beverley Hills Community Church, Old Dominion rd. and Tennessee ave., Alexandria, Va.

200 Pennsylvanians 'Beard' Congressmen on Capitol Hill

Some 200 human beavers bristled up the south steps of the Capitol yesterday, the brilliant morning sunlight glinting a dozen shades from their facial mats.

The beards, members of the Waynesboro (Pa.) Whiskers Club, were welcomed at the Capitol by their equally but falsely decorated Congressman, Representative Chester H. Gross (R., Pa.) and smooth-shaven House Speaker Joseph W. Martin (R., Mass.).

The delegation members were some of the 400 males of the Pennsylvania town who decided in February to let their whiskers grow for Waynesboro's 150th anniversary celebration, planned for July 6-11.

They did so, and Capitol visitors yesterday saw the most varied and carefully-groomed collection of whiskers seen there since the days when hirsute decorations were the standard mark of substantial statesmen.

There were full beards and beavers galore, not to speak of Van Dykes, goatees, Beneral Burnsides, Abe Lincolns and mere mustaches, bushy, pointed and curled. And there were costumes to match, representing styles from colonial days to the early 1900s.

Representative Gross, wearing false red actor's whiskers for the occasion, presented Waynesboro's goateed Mayor Harry C. Funk with a huge "key to the Capitol." In so doing he declared it was "one of the biggest days I've had in the eight years I've been your representative." Speaker Martin wished them a successful anniversary and asked them to go back as "even sturdier Americans, helping us to keep this country as it has been for those 150 years."

The bushy-faced visitors, following a response from their mayor, swept through the Capitol on a tour conducted by the two House members. The visit included a short speech by Representative Gross from the rostrum of the House, with his constituents seated in the chamber like the ghosts of the bearded Congressmen of other years.

Boston Pastor Accepts Call to D. C. Church

Dr. Kopf to Succeed Rev. Anderson at First Congregational

Dr. Carl Heath Kopf, minister of Boston's Mount Vernon Congregational Church, has accepted a call to the pulpit of historic First Congregational Church, 19th and G sts. nw. It will be effective November 1.

He will succeed Dr. Howard Stone Anderson, who resigned to become minister of the United Congregational Church, Bridgeport, Conn.

Dr. Kopf, 45, is a native of Buffalo, New York. He is a graduate of Princeton University, class of 1925, where he studied political science with the intent of a legal career. He did graduate work at Princeton Theological Seminary and Boston University School of Theology.

He was assistant pastor of Eliot Church, Roxbury, Mass., 1926 to 1928, and minister of the Crombie Congregational Church, Salem, Mass., 1928 until 1933, when he became associated with Mount Vernon Church in Boston.

Dr. Kopf has conducted a radio program, entitled "From a Window in Beacon Street," over WEEI, since 1938, and has written several religious books. In 1946 he visited the Philippines as vice president of the American Board of Commissioners of Foreign Missions. He and Mrs. Kopf have three children—David Heath, 13; John Randolph, 11, and Anne Elizabeth, 6. assistant pastor of First Congrega-

The Rev. Hubert S. Beckwith, tional Church, announced Dr. Kopf's acceptance at yesterday's services.

Student Vote Honors Briton Teaching Here

When Roland Purdy, 32-year-old exchange teacher at Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, returns to his school in Yorkshire, England, he will take with him a signal honor.

Purdy

Students at Bethesda school, where Purdy has taught modern European history and economic geography for the past year, have voted him one of the two "most popular teachers."

The other teacher to win the popularity contest on student ballots is Mrs. Massey Black, public speaking instructor.

Exchanged With Miss Greaney

When the personable bachelor from Pudsey Grammar School, near Leeds, Yorkshire, England, was assigned to Bethesda-Chevy Chase last fall, Miss Katherine Greaney, head of the local high school's English department, reported to Pudsey.

After a year of teaching American youngsters, the Britisher reports that American kids are just about the same as English kids. "They are all children," he says, adding "if you were to take the lipstick off American girl students you could hardly distinguish them from English girls."

During this, the first postwar year of the exchange teacher plan with England, Purdy has also been favorably impressed with America's informality.

"In fact, I'm curious what will happen when I go back and speak to someone without first being introduced," he says.

One of 74 English exchange teachers in the United States, Purdy thinks the exchange idea is a wonderful one and he thinks it will contribute to greater understanding between the two countries.

He would like to stay on another year, he says, but it is one of the rules of the exchange plan that the teachers must return to their school for at least a year.

Seventh-Day Adventist Rally Hears Alcohol Called 'Curse'

Alcohol was labeled a "curse" for abstainers as well as those who drink in an address yesterday before a Seventh-day Adventist temperance rally in Takoma Park.

The rally was held in Sligo Church, Carroll and Flower aves., in connection with the Adventists' annual Potomac Conference camp meeting.

The speaker was Elder Carlyle B. Hayes, secretary of the council on industrial relations of the seventh-day Adventist general conference.

He cited statistics and various reports which, he said, showed alcohol a major factor in mental and physical degeneration, telling nearly 1000 isteners total abstainers must help pay for care of these victims as wel las for other alcohol-caused wreckage.

The rally was sponsored by the Anti-Cigarette Alliance and American Temperance Society.

Earlier yesterday, addressing Potomac Conference delegates, Haynes asserted Christ did not teach the brotherhood of man, as commonly taught, but that some men "belong to the family of Satan, and some belong to the family of God."

"Christ makes it plain in His revealed words," the churchman said, "that most human beings are children of their father, the devil."

The conference enters its fifth day today. Evangelist Philip Knox of Los Angeles, will be the principal speaker at sessions tonight through Thursday, speaking on the general theme, "God's Power Proved by Science."

Catholic Parishes In Virginia Raise $4000 for Charity

Approximately $4000 was raised yesterday in 11 Catholic parishes of nearby Virginia, as a $20,000 drive began for establishment and support of Catholic charities.

Addison B. Clohosey, campaign chairman, in announcing the results of the first day's efforts, said drive leaders "were assured" that the quota would be reached by June 30.

The campaign is being carried on among parishes in Northern Virginia, beginning with the city of Alexandria and Arlington and Fairfax counties.

The Edward Douglas White and the Fitzgerald Councils of the Knights of Columbus will solicit business firms in Arlington and Alexandria this week.

Boys Register For Course In Citizenship

100 to Take 4-Day Citizenship Course At American U.

More than 100 outstanding boys from Washington, Maryland and Virginia registered at American University for a four-day course in citizenship.

Today, classes will begin in the "University of Citizenship," sponsored by the Optimist Clubs. Following chapel services and an address of welcome, the boys will assemble for a lecture and discussion session at 9:45 a. m. in the Metropolitan Methodist Church, Nebraska and New Mexico aves. nw.

At 10:45, they will participate in a discussion on the subject: "Is American Youth Dodging Its Responsibilities for Leadership?" They will play baseball in the afternoon and in the evening attend a night game at Griffith Stadium.

Participants from the greater Washington area include: George Collins, 3620 O st. nw.; Charles Postom, 1204 30th st. nw.; Calvin Bryant, 2410 Pennsylvania ave. nw.; James Scrivener, 2520 L st. nw.; Brian Sursfield, 3515-A S. Stratford st., Arlington; Patrick Kelliher, 1224 29th st. nw.; Conrad Tuohey, 2140 N st. nw.; Ken Newman, 1133 24th st. nw.; Martin Manley, 814 22d st. nw.; Teddy Augsburg, 436 15th st. ne.; Tarleton Rippy, 1613 Isherwood st. ne.; Jerry Hickey, 2417 Minnesota ave. se.; Albert Molenof, 1541 A st. se.; Charles Stover, 25 16th st. se.; Tommy Swann, 920 M st. se.; Sidney Duling, 1018 E st. ne.; James Morrison, Hyattsville, Md.; William Morrison, Hyattsville; Julian Tavenner, 18 Ridge rd. ne.; Kenneth Everly, 32 W. Sea Scouts Prepare for 1500-Mile Cruise

GETTING THINGS SHIP SHAPE—Youthful members of the crew of the Sea Scout ship Lexington give their craft a final going over before they sail for New London, Conn., on a 20-day, 1500-mile cruise July 1. It will be the longest cruise ever undertaken by the Sea Scouts of this area play. How else explain the mast that was painted below a seaman above?

With a 20-day, 1500 mile cruise in the offing, the deck of the Sea Scout Ship Lexington, berthed off Maine Avenue, was alive with activity yesterday afternoon.

Youthful crewman swarmed over the 75-foot former Navy YP getting her into shape to weigh anchor for what is believed to be the longest cruise ever undertaken by a Sea Scout vessel in this area, a cruise that will take 16 seamen and their four officers to New London, Conn., with stops at ports en route.

Though there was purposefulness in the work carried out under the watchful eye of Skipper Morris Springer, 3405 Martha Custis dr., Alexandria, there was also horse-

A patient "bawling out," a "belay there!" or two, and then Springer explained that the Lex, with her crew of four officers and 16 seamen, will sail about 5 p. m. July 1, returning to Washington July 20.

At New London the crew will visit the Navy submarine base, the United States Coast Guard Academy and the old whaling vessels and marine museum on the Thames River.

Sailing only during daylight, the boys will put into port at night and go on liberty. Quantico, Va., Atlantic City, N. J., where the Fourth will be observed, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Del., and Annapolis are among the ports of call. A trip up the Hudson to Bear Mountain will be a scenic side trip.

The Lexington, acquired in September, 1945, under a 1929 Federal law permitting the Navy to give airplane craft to the Sea Scouts, is powered by two 225-horsepower Diesels, and has a cruising speed of 13 knots.

In addition to Skipper Springer, she is officered by Earl K. Jones, 30, 324 18th st. ne., engineer officer; John Early, 22, of 1457 Girard st. nw., deck officer, and Edward Schneider, 28, of 333 Parkland pl. se., chief yeoman.

Officers and teen-aged crew pay for all food and for operating expenses, and do their own cooking.

Mental Case Clinics Urged In Virginia

Richmond, Va., June 22 (AP).—The Mental Hygiene Monthly, publication of the State hospital board, has suggested establishment of a State-wide system of mental hygiene clinics to help relieve the burden on existing mental hospitals and seek out mental cases in their early, curable stages.

Tentative plans envision the State divided into 13 mental hygiene service areas, each served by at least one clinic team composed of a director-psychiatrist, a psychologist, and at least one psychiatric social worker. Within the various areas some 75 clinic locations would be designated for regular visits by the clinic teams.

On the basis of about 15 clinic teams, costs would run to about $500,000, of which as much as two thirds might be obtained from Federal funds under the National Mental Health Act. The clinics would be built gradually over a period of years.

The mental hygiene survey said: "This would be spending money for prevention in a big way, but the time has arrived when the attack on our welfare and health problems must be directed at the source of the difficulty. We continue to spend mounting millions for buildings to house the ever-increasing number of insane, feebleminded, alcoholics, delinquents and criminals."

As proposed headquarters for the various clinic areas, the plan lists Norfolk, Portsmouth, Williamsburg, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Lynchburg, Roanoke, Radford, Bristol, Staunton, Winchester and Arlington-Alexandria-Fairfax.

Retired Rail Conductors? They Travel

What do Pullman car conductors do after they retire?

Most of 12 retired members of Washington Division No. 718, Order of Railway Conductors, made up of Pullman conductors, travel.

The 12 were honorees Saturday night at a dinner at Hay-Adams House. Five were unable to attend.

"I am resting up and seeing the country," said 83-year-old E. P. Moore, 114 5th st. ne., who retired in 1935 after 30 years of service. He is the oldest retired member of the organization.

Since his retirement, he has been all over the country, even to California, and out of the country to Mexico City. He naturally likes to travel, he says.

W. A. Brooks, 4320 N. Pershing dr., Arlington, who retired January 1 after 42 years of Pullman conducting, also keeps on traveling, having spent six months in Florida.

Another "unretired" retired traveler was W. H. Marr, 10 Worthington dr., Westmoreland Hills, Md., who retired in 1941 to travel about the country in his automobile. He spent the past winter, like Brooks, in Florida.

Besides Moore, Brooks and Marr, the retired members are: Marshall Hilleary, 1430 Rhode Island ave. nw.; R. M. Durland, 3461 Eads st. ne.; F. B. Green, 1329 Valley pl. se.; W. A. Johnstone, 420 7th st. ne.; T. O. Taylor, 1363 Columbia rd. nw.; D. E. Hardester, 751 New Jersey ave. nw.; J. M. Powers, New Haven apartments; W. A. McKenzie, Hyattsville, Md.; and J. J. Anthony, now a patient at a Washington hospital.

Automobile Crashes Kill 5 in Md., Va.

Four motorists died in a single Maryland traffic accident yesterday while earlier another traffic death resulted from a crash near Alexandria, Va.

Maryland State Police said four resident of Trappe in a model A Ford were killed when the car and a school bus collided at 1 a. m. near Trappe, on the Eastern Shore.

Instantly killed were Joseph Brown, 71; Tennyson Turner, 43, and Pearl Bromwell, 47. Bessie Bailey, 59, died later in Easton Hospital.

Trooper Donald Graham said bus driver Earl E. Cox, 29, Cambridge, was knocked unconscious when his head struck the windshield. The car was demolished.

Owner Emerson Matthews said the Matthews Line bus was returning empty from Easton after transporting Easton players from Cambridge after a baseball game. The collision occurred a quarter of a mile south of Trappe on Route 213 near the Choptank River bridge.

Vernie Ray Elliott, 50, Franconia, Fairfax County, carpenter, was killed a few minutes after midnight Sunday, when his car struck an embarkment on Franconia rd. about 3½ miles west of Alexandria, according to Fairfax County police.

Police said Elliott apparently died instantly when he lost control while traveling along a straight stretch of roadway and crashed into an 8-foot embarkment. A defective tie rod was believed responsible.

Jewish Aid Collections Are Received By Churches

Congregations Urged By Ministers To Support Drive For Relief Funds

Collections for the United Jewish Appeal were received in many Washington area Christian churches yesterday as ministers urged their congregations to support the cause.

Meanwhile, Arthur S. Flemming, Civil Service Commissioner and president of the Washington Federation of Churches, issued a statement urging support of the drive, through which the Christian Committee for Washington of the UJA hopes to raise $200,000 toward the local quota of two million dollars. The national quota is 170 millions.

"I certainly hope that the Christian churches will raise this amount," said Flemming, "for I feel that it is important that we give as much support as we can to this most worthy cause."

Churches Asked to Aid

The federation has asked the 200 member churches to aid the United Jewish Appeal.

"As th Holy Land goes, so goes the world," said the Rev. Herbert E. Eberhardt, superintendent of the Central Union Mission, 613 C st. nw., as he asked support of the drive at mission services.

"It is urgent that we Christians reach out our hands across the sea to our suffering brethren of other religions," stated Mr. Eberhardt.

Persecution Is Cited

Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder told his congregation at Reformation Lutheran Church, 212 East Capitol st.:

"We of the Christian churches must give our support and encouragement to minority groups such as the Jews in many parts of the world. Toward that end, we must help make the United Jewish Appear an overwhelming success."

Possibly no group of world citizens in our day has so bravely endured persecution and deprivation as the Jewish people," the Rev. Daniel W. Justice said in his appeal at Trinity Methodist Church, 5th st. and Seward sq. se.

"My experience as a minister is that the Jewish people are always enthusiastic and generous in all responses for human need," he added. "I therefore hope that people of the District of Columbia will give generously toward the $200,000 quota of the Washington Christian Committee for the United Jewish Appeal."

Va. Trooper Urges Early Auto Checks

"Have your car inspected early," State Toorper R. H. Lester, supervisor of automobile inspections in the northern Virginia area, warned yesterday as he released a list of 46 official area inspection stations.

Trooper Lester said resumption of inspections July 1 probably would create a rush for auto parts, "which are still somewhat scarce, so that those who get their cars inspected first will have a head start."

Allowed One Week

Persons receiving rejection stickers will be permitted one week in which to complete repairs, Lester said. After that period, city, county and State police are authorized to hale the owners into court.

The inspection, for which each garage may charge 25 cents, will include windshield visibility, wipers, horns, lights, steering mechanism, mirrors and brakes. Closing date for the tests is August 31.

Official Stations Listed

The following service stations and garages have been designated as official inspection agencies in the northern Virginia area:

Three Hearings Set On Va. Medical Care

Richmond, Va., June 22 (AP).—Public opinion on a wage-hour law for State employes and on medical care needs will be sought in hearings to be held this week by committees of the Virginia Advisory Legislative Council.

Whether the State should adopt minimum wage, minimum hour and overtime legislation for its employes will be the question presented by one hearing at 10 a. m. Tuesday in the Senate chamber at the Capitol.

What should be done about making better hospital and medical care available to Virginians, particularly in rural areas, is the topic of three hearings Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Roanoke, Front Royal and Richmond, respectively.

State Senator James Hoge Tyler 3d, of Norfolk, heads the wage-hour study, and Dr. J. D. Hagood, Senator-physician from Clover, is chairman of the medical care group.

Gallery to Be Dedicated

Richmond, Va., June 22 (AP).—The Memorial Art Gallery of portraits of State troopers who lost their lives in the line of duty to their State or country will be unveiled and dedicated in ceremonies to be held at the State police headquarters on U. S. Route 60, just west of Richmond, at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Capt. W. C. Thomas, executive officer of the department, will preside over the program, to be broadcast over Station WRVA, Richmond.

Presentation of the portraits to the Commonwealth will be made by Dean Raymond B. Pinchbeck of the University of Richmond and will be accepted by Governor Tuck, who will place them in custody of the State police department. Col. C. W. Woodson, jr., superintendent of State police, will accept custody of the portraits.

Randolph to Speak

Indian Head, Md., June 22.—Jennings Randolph, assistant to the president of Capital Air Lines, and former Congressman, will address the local Lions Club tomorrow evening at the annual ladies' night and installation program.

New club officers are: R. C. Stahl, president; W. S. Duke, first vice president; W. C. Cagle, second vice president; H. M. Coster, third vice president; P. R. Keller, secretary-treasurer, and A. G. Mayer, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Future Farmers Meet

Blacksburg, Va., June 22.—More than 600 delegates will assemble here tomorrow for the opening session of the four-day convention of the Virginia Association of the Future Farmers of America.

About 115 candidates for the honorary State farmer degree will be nominated and elected. The program will include awards to FFA contest winners, speeches, additional contests and an election of officers. The speakers include Dr. Walter S. Newman, acting president of Virginia Tech and one of the founders of the FFA.

Playgrounds to Open

Salisbury, Md., June 22 (AP).—A coordinated system of summer playgrounds for both rural and town children will be open for business tomorrow, marking a new experiment in recreation.

Eleven well-equipped playgrounds will be available, Playground Supervisor Benn Maggs said, which provides one playground for each 3000 Wicomico Countians.

Crash Area Guarded

Leesburg, Va., June 22.—The scene of the Capital-Pennsylvania Central Air Lines crash near here June 13, is still under 24-hour guard by members of the State Guard company from this area under command of Maj. Edgar M. Sites of Martinsburg.

The volunteer guards are working in seven-man shifts of 12 hours each, to control the stream of visitors and safeguard the wreckage on the crash scene for investigation.

Rape Attempt Admitted

Fredericksburg, Va., June 22.—Supt. of Police A. G. Kendall said today that Charles Lee Washington, had signed a confession that he attempt to rape a 50-year-old woman in her home.

The woman reported a man broke into her apartment in the 400 block of Dixon st., took $5 from her purse and threatened to choke her if she did not submit to him. She said her screams frightened him away. A cap found under a window was the clew which led to Washington's arrest, Kendall said.

Debt Payment Urged

Blacksburg, Va., June 22.—Pay your debts while farm product returns are high, L. B. Dietrick, director of the Virginia Agricultural Extension Service, today cautioned State farmers. He advised against "plunging headlong into debt for the expansion of farm operations."

"A farm mortgage," the director pointed out, "can now be paid off with less than one-fourth as much corn, beef or hogs, one-third as many eggs or chickens, and one-half as much milk as in the depression years. If prices fall, more of these commodities will naturaly be required to meet the same obligations."

Legion Post Elects

Fredericksburg, Va., June 22. Nils H. Nilsson has been elected commander of the Stafford County post of the American Legion. Other new officers are W. D. Lambert, first vice commander; Fleming Monroe, second vice commander; Hubert D. Minnis, adjutant; A. B. Cloe, finance officer; Austin T. Boutchyard, chaplain; Robert T. Resio, sergeant at arms, and James Ashby, jr., service officer.

Salvage Depot on Sale

Frederick, Md., June 22.—Bids for purchase of the Government salvage depot land and buildings on South Jefferson st. here are being asked by the War Assets Administration. Bids will be received from today to July 21.

The area includes approximately 31.55 acres of land with two cinder-block buildings containing 20,850 square feet of open-shed storage and 3372 square feet of closed-shed storage. During the last year of World War II and for several months after, thousands of tons of Axis military weapons and equipment were processed and salvaged by the Army at the local depot.

Labor Importation to End

Importation of Jamaican or Bahaman labor for Maryland farms will cease July 1, Paul E. Nystrom, deputy director of the University of Maryland extension service, announced yesterday. Workers now here, he said, may continue until their contracts expire.

Efforts are being made to have Mexican laborers shifted from the Western part of the country to meet emergency needs, Nystrom said. If this is done, the laborers will only be available where they can be utilized in fairly large groups and quartered in central camps. He said the Department of Agriculture ordered discontinuance of West Indies labor because of lack of funds.

Fair Group to Meet

Leonardtown, Md., June 22.—The St. Mary's County Fair Association will meet in the county court house here at 8 p. m. Tuesday to consider a proposed constitution and by-laws. The county fair will be held at Camp Calvert near here the last of September, County Agent J. J. Johnson said today.

Army Honors Civilian

Aberdeen, Md., June 22 (AP).—Ralph C. Gerdom, ordnance engineer at Aberdeen Proving Ground where he has been employed 30 years, has been awarded the "Exceptional Civilian Service Medal," highest citation the Army makes to civilian personnel.

The medal was presented to Gerdom by Brig. Gen. A. B. Quinton, jr., commanding general at Aberdeen, for "exceptional skill and knowledge in the field of mechanics, his practical theories on dssign improvments and . . . his inventive ability."

205 on College Roll

Fredericksburg, Va., June 22: Only 205 students, including 25 men, have registered for summer school at Mary Washington College. It is the smallest summer enrollment at the school in years.

One of the chief reasons for the decline is the fact that the college is being converted to a liberal arts school and no longer gives degrees in education, which formerly attracted many Virginia teachers.

Russian Pastor to Talk

Crisfield, Md., June 22 (AP).—Pastor Basile A. Malof, founder of the first Russian Protestant church at St. Petersburg, and president of the Russian Bible Society of Washington, D. C., will speak at the Methodist Church here Tuesday on "Russia and Christianity."

Annexation Favored

Martinsburg, W. Va., June 22.—The city council voted unanimously yesterday in favor of an ordinance launching action toward annexation of the Rosemont section, north and west of the present city lines. Final action will be taken at a meeting July 3. The area includes about 50 acres and an estimated population of 600.

$135,500 Now Pledged

Frederick, Md., June 22.—Approximately $135,500 has been pledged thus far to the $600,000 building fund of Frederick Memorial Hospital, it has been announced. Largest contribution to date was $65,000 pledged by the medical staff of the hospital.

Individual contributions in the form of memorials total $33,500, and 16 Frederick business concerns subscribed $31,000 on an estimate of service normally required by their employes. The Alumnae Association of the Nurses' Training School pledged $6000.

Career of Sewing Teacher Started With Hobble Skirts

AFTER LONG SERVICE—Miss Katherine F. Bell, teacher at Eastern High School, is one of 20 teachers in the District public schools who is retiring

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

When Miss Katharine F. Bell first began to teach home economics in the District schools, her pupils in sewing were making hobble skirts. That was nearly 30 years ago.

Down through the intervening years skirt lengths have fluctuated but not the desire of students to clothe themselves in the extremes of fashion.

"I always tell a girl what is right for her, but she only learns by making mistakes," Miss Bell said. "Then when she remakes the dress or suit she knows."

Retires This Month

This bright-eyed teacher with silver-gray hair is one of 20 teachers in the public schools retiring this month after long service.

Students, she thinks, are not as good as they once were. They lack the "will to work" of their mothers and they do not accomplish as much. Classes that are too large and the many distractions of today's home life are the reasons, she believes.

Miss Bell was born in Scott County, Ky., the daughter of a Confederate veteran. She was taught to sew by her mother and still enjoys making her own clothing.

Once Taught Millinery

During the past 30 years Miss Bell has taught all of the home economics subjects including cooking and in recent years has branched out into such subjects as retail selling and textiles. She once taught millinery but students "just aren't interested in learning to make hats anymore."

With retirement Miss Bell will devote her time to her church, National Baptist Memorial, where she assists the librarian, and to her home at 1673 Columbia rd. nw.

3 Seek Mayor Post Today In Brentwood

A three-cornered mayoralty fight will mark one of two town elections to be held in Prince Georges County today.

Mayor James R. Sampson of Brentwood is opposed by two former occupants of that office, while all candidates in University Park's election are unopposed.

Polls will be open in both towns from 1 to 8 p. m. Brentwood citizens will vote at the town firehouse. University Park voters will cast their ballots at the Elementary School there.

Contesting Mayor Sampson's reelection are Councilman William B. Mahaffey and former Mayor James R. Russell. Another contest is in the Second Ward, where Councilman Charles E. Yeager is opposed for that office by J. Milton Stanford. Running without opposition are Councilman George J. Boyce, in the First Ward, and Town Treasurer William F. Bischoff.

Mayor Sampson previously served two terms as mayor, beginning in 1929, and was a member of the town council before being elected mayor by that body two years ago upon the resignation of Warren McVey. Mayor Sampson also served as chief of the Brentwood Volunteer Fire Department and is a former president of the Prince Georges County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Councilman Mahaffey served as mayor from 1935 to 1941. Russell served for three years as a council member and was mayor for part of a term before resigning in 1942 to enter the Navy.

In University Park, citizens will ballot for three unopposed incumbent councilmen, William Bowie, Second Ward; Albert B. Heagy, Fourth Ward, and Dr. Charles E. White, Fifth Ward.

The terms of Mayor T. Earle Bourne, Councilmen Harry D. Eisenhauer and Howard F. Mooney, and Treasurer Henry R. Walls, have a year to run. Mayor Bourne and Councilman Bowie have held office since the town's incorporation in 1936.

Jumping Branch Farm

Charlottesville, Va., June 22.—C. Ray Phillips, retired president of the LaSalle National Bank of Chicago, has purchased from Mrs. Grover C. Dula the Jumping Branch Farm, located on the Garth rd. near the Farmington Country Club.

The price was not disclosed, but the property had been listed for sale at $95,000. Stevens & Co., brokers, who handled negotiations, stated that the owner will take possession on or before December 1. The farm consists of 107 acres of grazing and meadow land, watered by Jumping Branch, on which the farm abuts for over 1000 feet.

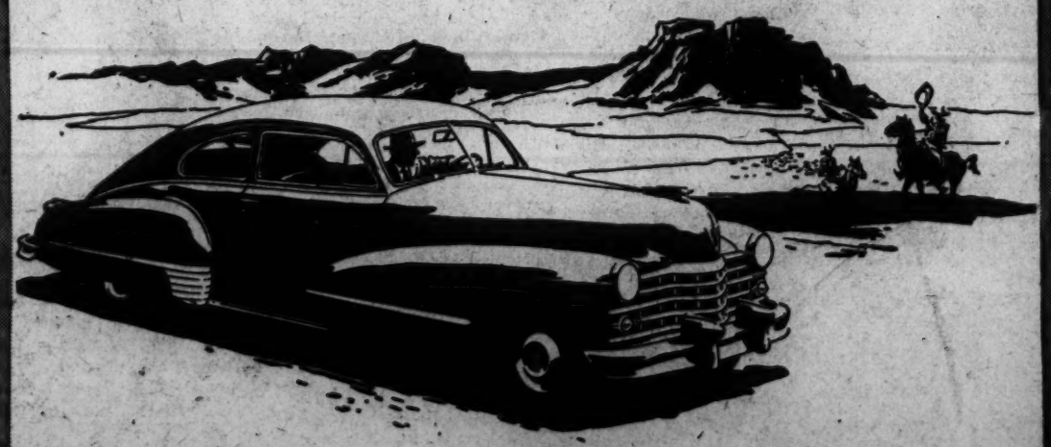
Cadillac

EXCELLENCE

Because Cadillac's objective is quality—first and always—it is not necessary to compromise with any element of Cadillac goodness. There are no restrictions on those who design and build Cadillacs—save to provide the finest personal transportation it is practical to produce. Consequently, Cadillac excels in all the things which make a motor car a joy to possess and a pleasure to drive.



If you are waiting for a new Cadillac—please be assured that every effort is being made to further production. Demand is so great, however, that some delay in delivery is still inevitable. But hold to your purpose! There is no substitute for a Cadillac.

MRS. HERBERT KAUFMANN
. . . To live here

Beth-El Temple was the scene of the marriage on June 15 of Miss Rose Hauptmann, daughter of Mrs. Hilda Hauptmann of Washington and the late Georg Hauptmann, to Herbert Kaufmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Siegfried Kaufmann, also of this city. Rabbi Aaron Volkman officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Edmund I. Kaufmann, was gowned in champagne silk and carried pale yellow roses. Her maid of honor, Miss Stella Rosemann, wore a dress of aqua and her bouquet was of Talisman roses. Gerard Kaufmann, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Following a reception at the Temple, Mr. and Mrs. Kaufmann left on a honeymoon trip to Lake Placid, N. Y., and Canada. Upon their return, they will live in Washington.

The bride attended the University of Vienna, in Austria. The groom served for two years overseas with the U. S. Army Intelligence Service.

Zmolek—Richardson

Miss Patricia Richardson, daughter of Brig. Gen. William Lloyd Richardson, USA, and Mrs. Richardson of Arlington, Va., Saturday became the bride of Herman J. Zmolek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven H. Zmolek, Ontario, Calif. Chaplain George L. Cameron officiated at the ceremony in the chapel at Bolling Field.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white marquisette with fitted bodice, bishop sleeves and bouffant skirt ending in a circular train. Her finger-tip veil was attached to a halo of embroidered white pina and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses, orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Peggy Schaaff, a former schoolmate of the bride, was her only attendant and also sang before the wedding. She was costumed in yellow net with matching hat and mitts and carried white daisies and blue delphinium. William L. Richardson, jr., acted as best man, and ushers were Col. J. K. Brown, Col. D. D. Martin, Col. C. L. Elder and Maj. K. N. Retzer.

Mr. Zmolek and his bride will fly to California and will spend their honeymoon at Laguna Beach.

The bride attended Chaffey College in Ontario and George Washington University. Her husband, a graduate of Chaffey College, will continue his studies at Santa Barbara University.

Block—Jones

Miss Faith F. Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Marshall Jones of Boston, Mass., became the bride of Theodore Lind Block of Washington on June 14 at All Souls Memorial Episcopal Church.

The Rev. H. H. D. Sterrett officiated at the ceremony. The bride wore a family wedding dress of ivory satin, with a veil of lace.

AAUW to Fete New Zealand's Envoy Tuesday

Sir Carl Berendsen, Minister of New Zealand, and Lady Berendsen, will be guests of honor at the University Women's Club, American Association of University Women, Tuesday.

Sir Carl will speak in the club lounge at 7:30 p. m. on the subject of the Veto.

The AAUW's club also has scheduled a tea and reception yesterday, 4 to 7 p. m., at the clubhouse in honor of Mrs. Lyman Beecher Swormsteda, a member of the D. C. branch since 1890. She served as president three times.

Mrs. Swormsteda, wrote the history of the first 30 years of the branch for the sixtieth Anniversary Celebration.

For 27 years she has served as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Public Library. Commissioner Brownlow appointed her a member of the group which had the arduous and responsible task of revising the laws governing women and children in the District of Columbia. She was made vice chairman, then chairman of this group.

A gift from the members of the Washington Branch was presented to Mrs. Swormsteda by Mrs. G. R. Wilhelm, president.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Couple Are Separated Since Man's Mother Ordered His Wife Out; He Stayed On With Parents, Who Now Offer an Upstairs Flat

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband was discharged from the Army last year after four years' service, one year overseas. We went to board with his folks. This was to be a temporary arrangement until we could find an apartment for ourselves.

His dad is wonderful; we get along fine. But his mother has caused me plenty of tears. From the first she let me know I was an outsider, giving me sarcastic digs in a charming voice to let me know she wanted her son but not me. Little by little she butted in on all that concerned us.

I did my best to be a good wife and daughter. I worked to help meet our expenses and helped his mother with the housework in general, always remembering I was a guest in the house. Finally she became so nasty I couldn't stand any more. In fact, she practically ordered me out. So I came home to my mother.

I told Jim when he learned to stand on his own feet, defend his wife and help me get a home for us, I would live with him; but never again with his mother.

Wife Says Man's Tied to Mother

WE'VE BEEN separated just six months and last week Jim said his folks had suggested that we take their upper rooms, install a stove, sink, etc., pay them rent, share the fuel bill, etc., and then we could be together.

It sounds tempting, when we have no home in view. I love my husband; his only fault is that he is tied to his "Mom,"—as he calls her. She has his spirit broken to her will. I want a home badly and worst of all, I think I'm pregnant—though I haven't told my husband yet. But I also want the right to make my own decisions.

If I go back there I am afraid his mother will start her meanness all over and he won't try to stop her. I'd be caught in the middle again and I couldn't stand any more of that. I don't want trouble with her at this time. Separation is hard on both of us—Jim and me—but don't you think I'm justified in wanting a home for ourselves away from his parents?

Don't you think we should keep on looking until we find such a place? My husband knows I am asking your advice and says he'll abide by it. If my attitude is wrong, please tell me. D. S.

Mother-in-Law's A Typical 'Mom'

DEAR D. S.: "No house is big enough for two women," an old saying goes; and doubtless women of your mother-in-law's type are responsible for it.

Your insistence on a home of your own, apart from in-laws, is perfectly sound; and would be even if you hadn't already got a raw deal from Jim's mother.

What you suffered in the first round—or honeymoon phase—of trying to live with her is only a mild foretaste of the hell that would follow if you settled in there and bore a child—whose care and training she would of course dictate and demoralize to the last detail.

My advice is, pregnant or not, don't go back to share her house. Even if pregnant, stay away. Produce the child in a charity ward if necessary, without a penny's help from them—in preference to living in arm's reach of her again.

Queen-Bee Mother A Ruthless Rival

JIM'S MOTHER is the primitive, jealous, son-loving sort who has brought the word "Mom" into disrepute. She is the queen-bee producer of offspring, who undertakes to sting to death any love between her son and another woman,—because she wants his devotion all for herself.

You say that Jim is "tied" to her; that she has broken his spirit to her will. Well, his mother-guided flop performance in the role of husband this past year certainly points to that. When, as a climax to months of "stinging" you, she practically ordered you out of the house, Jim should have followed, too.

After all, this was the shelter he had provided; and as a married man, his first duty was to companion his wife "for better or for worse." If you were unwelcome there, he should have marched out at your side. The fact that he didn't makes me wonder if he can be a man. Maybe he can't. Maybe his backbone is already paralyzed by the poison sentiment his mother feeds him to enslave him.

It is said, "Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide, in the strife of Truth with Falsehood, for the good or evil side." Jim's hour of decision has arrived. If he aspires to be a man, and has the starting strength to become one, he will cut loose from his mother's apron strings—beginning now,—rustle another home for you and go firmly forward to a grown-up life. M. H.

Summer Slimming Schedule

Strike Against Fats Starts Today

This is the first of a series of 10 articles on summer slimming.

By Ida Jean Kain

LET'S see, how many summers have you been intending to do something about those excess pounds that keep piling on with the birthdays? Remember how last summer you started thinking about slimming almost the first warm day? At lunch time, taking a second helping of the potato salad, you resolved to diet, at dinner. And feeling very happy about the plan, you enthusiastically finished up the potato salad . . . no sense in wasting it.

At dinner it was surprisingly easy to eat sparingly . . . Too bad nobody else in the family has such strength of character. The second morning started with black coffee only, in order to "save" calories for the bridge luncheon that noon.

But everything served was frightfully fattening and you were so-o hungry. And certainly the girls were no help. . . .

"Whatever are you dieting for, Helene? With that generous frame you wouldn't look well thin . . . Do have one of those hot popovers; they're nothing but air."

THE third member of the club, having long ago given up hopes of ever getting her figure back, reached for another popover, saying airly that she certainly wasn't going to diet, and added that her husband loved her just the way she was, which somehow seemed to imply that perhaps yours didn't.

That evening at dinner, the subject was brought up again, and as usual, he advised against any strenuous dieting. He was taking no chances—you looked fine, just fine, he assured you.

Sighing with relief, you decided that maybe your figure wasn't so bad. And the summer days slipped lazily away and by fall three more pounds cluttered up the scales.

If you are overweight and really in earnest about getting rid of some the burdensome fat, don't ask your husband if he thinks you should reduce, and don't announce the plans to friends.

Talk it over with the doctor. If he says yes, 10 or 20 pounds off will definitely improve your health, then send for the new Summer Slimming menus, inclosing a long, stamped addressed envelope to Ida Jean Kain, Room 408, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C.

These menus contain 1100 calories and good food.

Your Questions on Homemaking

I wonder if you would print where one may obtain powdered pepsin. I've tried several drug stores, but couldn't get it. D. C. R.

Write to any chemical supply house for the pepsin. There is a drug store on Pennsylvania ave. which handles it.

Can you tell me how I can remove under-arm perspiration stains from dresses? Same will not come out when dry cleaned. N. I.

Dampen the stains with water and hold them over the fumes from an open ammonia bottle. Old stains may be alkaline, so if above treatment doesn't work, sponge with vinegar. However, colors changed by perspiration cannot always be restored, particularly if the stain is an old one.

Will you please give directions for cleaning brown suede shoes? M. A. M.

Brush the shoes frequently and to bring up the nap and give them that velvety appearance, buff them occasionally with a sponge rubber pad. There are special suede finishes on the market which you can use occasionally to help restore the color. Follow the directions on the package.

Please tell me how to remove spots from a white virgin wool rug that were caused by the fading of a red rug against it. The rug has been cleaned several times by professional cleaners with no results. B. W.

Since the professional cleaners didn't take out the dye stains, there isn't much hope that home methods will. However, you might try sponging the spot with a solution of 1 teaspoon sodium perborate added to 1 pint of hydrogen peroxide. It must be used as soon as mixed for it soon loses its strength. Rinse thoroughly in water.

Mlle. Gisele Chautemps To Wed Dr. Tayloe Perry

By Marie McNair

Camille Chautemps, former Premier of France, and Mme. Chautemps, have sent out cards for a party next Sunday afternoon "for the engagement of their daughter, Gisele, to Dr. T. Tayloe Perry" at their home in Chevy Chase, Md.

The news comes as a surprise to a good many friends of the pretty bride-to-be, as there has been no previous announcement of the betrothal.

Political exiles from France since 1941, M. Chautemps, four times Premier of his country, and his family came to Washington after fleeing France. His daughter, Gisele, attended the Maret School, was graduated from the Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia, and is now teaching the first grade at Sidwell Friends School.

On the boat bringing the Chautemps to the country, Gisele met young Edouard Guirola, born in El Salvador, but who had spent most of his life in France. They were married in Washington five years ago. The marriage was not successful and following her divorce Gisele resumed her maiden name.

Dr. Perry studied at the Mayo Clinic and was in the service during the war. After their wedding in mid-August Dr. Perry and his bride will live in Washington. They already have an apartment, on Massachusetts ave., which Mme. Chautemps was fortunate enough to find for them.

A member of a gifted family, Mlle. Chautemps is a linguist; her mother a noted concert pianist, and her younger sister, Antoniette who is now six, could if she would, be a likely successor to Shirley Temple.

TOWN TOPICS: Anne Morgan, honorary president of American Friends of France sailed on Saturday aboard the Wisconsin for a trip to France. She'll inspect the social service centers founded under her auspices.

On the same ship is Mme. Berard, wife of the Counselor of the French Embassy, bound for a visit home.

In Chile there's a pretty custom of sending flowers to the bride on her wedding day. Elena and Gabriela Mora, daughter of the former Chilean Ambassador, Marcial Mora, received hundreds of bouquets for their double wedding June 1. The flowers are arranged in special bridal baskets.

IN THE MAIL:

A card from Mrs. Leigh Wade back in Havana where she lived during part of the war years and visiting Colonel and Mrs. Glenn. "Having a wonderful time," too.

"It's a girl" for Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Goodbody of Madison, N. J., according to the pink and blue announcement card which came yesterday. The baby's mother is the former Bamble McKenna, and the baby has been named for her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Helen Hendrick McKenna.

Mrs. Spencer Waters pens a note from her summer home at Southampton, Long Island: "I've been laid up with a sprained arm. Have been working in my garden, but the cool weather has retarded all my flowers. Ralph Forster is coming up for the Fourth of July, and also Mrs. George Haven of New York."

Rings on Their Fingers

MISS ANN FARLEY
. . . Bride-elect

Underwood & Underwood
MISS MARGOT PARSONS
. . . Fiance at Yale

Former Postmaster General and Mrs. James A. Farley today announce the engagement of their daughter, Ann Ellen, to Edward J. Hickey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Hickey of Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Miss Farley attended Marymount School and Miss Hewitt's classes and was graduated this month from Wellesley College. She made her debut in January, 1944. Mr. Hickey is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame in the 1942 class and served as a lieutenant in the United States Navy for three years with the Amphibious Forces in the South Pacific. The wedding will take place in the late fall.

The engagement of Miss Farley's elder sister, Elizabeth, to Glenn D. Montgomery, was announced in May.

Capt. Robert P. Parsons (MC) USN, and Mrs. Parsons of this city, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margot, of New York City, to Richard Lincoln Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Rice, North Haven, Conn.

Miss Parsons attended Mills College, Oakland, Calif., and was graduated from Mount Holyoke College in 1945. Mr. Rice was graduated from Hopkins Country Day School, New Haven, Conn., and after serving three years in Army Air Forces, is now in his senior year at Yale University.

To Atlantic City

Mrs. Alvin Newmyer has gone to Atlantic City, where she has taken an apartment at the Riviera for the summer months. Mr. Newmyer will join her there later.

Miss Willett Returns Home From Visits

Mr. and Mrs. E. Jean Willet have welcomed home their daughter, Miss Lillian Willett, who has been on a visit to the West Coast, stopping at various cities on her way out and again on her return.

Miss Willett was in Kansas City and Chicago and then went to New York to be with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Tyler Hathaway Willet in Rye. Miss Peggy Mary Whiteley joined her there last week, arriving in time for a small dinner party on Thursday evening. Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murray Sandergh, the latter formerly Miss Lucy Clagett Sasscer of Washington and Upper Marlboro, Md., were their guests at dinner.

The two girls stopped with Mrs. Edward W. Broder at Rainbow Farms, Ridgefield, Conn., before leaving for Washington. Miss Willett will serve as secretary to her father and brother, Bill Willett in their office in Arlington, Va.

Mary McCarthy To Join Parents

Miss Mary Elizabeth McCarthy has just completed her freshman year at the University of California at Berkeley, and will soon join her parents, Col. and Mrs. Thomas F. McCarthy at their home on Locust rd. Colonel McCarthy is chief of the Reserve Training Division of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. He is now in Miami as guest of the Reserve Officers Association at their annual convention.

Miss McCarthy was graduated from Georgetown Visitation Convent last year. She will spend part of the summer at Virginia Beach and return to Berkeley in September.

Miss Truesdell Graduates

Among those who received the Master of Arts from Yale University at the recent commencement exercises was Miss Miriam Helen Truesdell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leon E. Truesdell.

Miss Truesdell, a member of the class of 1941 at the National Cathedral School, was graduated, magna cum laude, from Mount Holyoke College last year, with a major in English, and has been continuing the study of this subject at Yale Graduate School.

Elizabeth De Courcy Married

Mr. and Mrs. Harold DeCourcy announce the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Rowland, to Robert James Annis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dean Annis of Detroit. The ceremony took place in Germany with the burgomaster of Pfungstadt officiating. After a reception at the Chateau Meaux, the couple left for a honeymoon down the Rhine to Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. Annis will live in Germany where both are members of the staff of Stars and Stripes.

The bride was formerly on the editorial staff of The Washington Post.

To New Jersey

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Baum and their family have left for Wildwood, N. J., where they will spend the summer.

The Service Set

By Bessie Hackett

THOSE National War College graduates, who got their diplomas Friday, are still giving graduation parties. Highlights of their week, of course, were the dance Wednesday night at the Army War College Officers' Club and the reception following commencement exercises Friday.

Friday night, too, Capt. (USN) and Mrs. Charles W. Wilkins entertained about 60 classmates and other friends at a cocktail party at their home in Falls Church, Va.

On Saturday evening Col. William J. Verbeck, who'll be joining the general staff at the Pentagon, and Mrs. Verbeck were hosts to a large group of guests at cocktails and buffet supper at their home on Lee Highway. Assisting their parents were Bill, jr., and Charles, home from Manlius School in upper New York State.

Among the colonel's fellow-graduate guests was tall, handsome Brigadier Richard Battin, who distinguished himself in the Near East campaign. The general was accompanied by cheery, blonde Mrs. Battin. The couple will leave this week for a tour of the Southern and New England States before sailing back to England from Halifax next month. Others there included Admiral and Mrs. Harry Hill, Group Capt. and Mrs. William R. MacBrien and Group Capt. H. V. Satterly, RAF.

Capt. (USN) and Mrs. H. S. Duckworth left the party fairly early to catch up on their packing. They'll be off tomorrow with their daughter, Kilby, and son, John, for Florida, where the captain will command the Naval Air Station at Jacksonville. First, however, they'll visit relatives in Missouri.

Participating in the festivities was the Verbecks' dignified 12-year-old Irish setter, Prince, who thumped his broken tail in greeting. A veteran of the K-9 Corps, Prince served valiantly with his master in the Aleutians, was wounded in action, received his own Purple Heart, and was decorated by Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner.

Visiting the Verbecks from West Point is Mrs. Robert Sink, whose husband, Colonel Sink, flew to France for the third anniversary celebration of the liberation of Carentan by the 101th Airborne Division.

Incidentally, that was quite a celebration staged the other day by the grateful townsfolk of Carentan, who decked their village with American flags and parachutes. Headed by Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, superintendent of the United States Military Academy, who commanded the 101st Airborne in the liberation, the paratroopers who crossed the Atlantic to participate in the festivities included Colonel Sink and Col. Allen Ginder, from West Point; Col. Joseph Harper, Fort Benning; Sergt. Frank H. McPherson, Florence, S. C.; Sergt. Frederick A. Rose, San Antonio, Tex.; Sergt. Chester Rose, Alexandria, Va., and Sergt. Orville McCurdy, Brewton, Ala.

SANDWICHING farewell parties between sessions of packing are Col. and Mrs. F. H. Schwable, who'll be leaving Saturday for El Toro, Calif. Saturday night they were honor guests at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Crawford at the Congressional Country Club. Those present included the hostess' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hansen, who are visiting here from Memphis, Tenn.; W. T. Boos of Wilson, N. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berry and Col. and Mrs. Walter J. Bayler.

Fliers Defy Fog for National Air Tour Week

By Charles J. Yarbrough
Post Reporter

Maryland's private fliers bored through the fog blanket over Catoctin's green ridges like angry moths Saturday to keep National Air Tour Week from conking out.

It was a high-speed family picnic.

The snappy little, multi-colored planes carrying mother, father and the kids, a honeymoon couple and a student pilot, who was flying a Christmas gift, pinched the Free State down to county size.

Weather was a sickly grin for a mass takeoff from Baltimore's Glen Burnie Airport at 9:30 a. m., but 31 planes scudded along under an 1800-foot ceiling for a midmorning stop at Frederick, lunch in Hagerstown and an early afternoon wingdip for nearby Congressional Airport.

By 2 p. m. the sun had burned off the overcast and the caravan, built up to 36 planes, flitted into Lee Airport at Annapolis, Easton's Municipal, Salisburg-Wicomico and set down at Rehoboth, Del., for a banquet.

It had covered some 330 miles. Catoctin's shrouded peak was the "Hump" and Chesapeake Bay from Annapolis to Kent Point and Claiborne was the "water jump." They finished without incident or accident—neat single files in and out of six airports.

The Maryland observation was sponsored by the Pegasus Flying Club of Baltimore's Glen Burnie Airport in cooperation with the United Pilots and Mechanics Association.

General chairman was Rudolph A. Drennan, of Baltimore, who brought his 14-year-old daughter, Bette, in their Piper Supercruiser.

Tempers were chafing when the tour landed in Frederick, but Airport Owner Howard L. Stevens' soft drinks cooled them off while waiting for a weather break on the ridge.

Stevens changed his clothes, picked up his six-year-old son, Howard L. II, wound up a new Aeronca and joined in after favorable weather reports from Howard Hasbrook, who, Drennan later admitted, "flew over the ridge and measured the ceiling—not in feet, but in inches."

Frank Staley, of Frederick, who has been flying DC-3s for Panagra in South America, stood on the taxi-strip and watched them take off. "Gotta get back to flying," he grinned.

Hagerstown's trim field, enhanced by the Fairchild plant and a new Packet cargo carrier on display for the air tourists, was the lunch stop. Even Dave Llewellyn, Airport Inn manager, drew a big hand.

Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Reynolds of Baltimore, married Friday night, had head table seats; shyly acknowledged the luncheon applause.

Family man of the day was Trophy Winner John Hinson of Baltimore, who brought along Mrs. Hinson, son, Jimmie, 5, and daughter, Carole Ann, 7. The "kids were brought home from the hospital in an airplane after they were born," Hinson explained. "They've been flying with me ever since."

Hinson rolled his Supercruiser sharply on the spot-landing line at Rehoboth to snare one of the four trophies—"with no backseat driving," he grinned.

At Easton's spot-landing contest, William E. Klohr of Baltimore won with a prewar Taylorcraft. The winner at Salisbury was Student Pilot John Grady, flying a Cessna his father gave him for Christmas.

The tour flies out for breakfast at Green Run Lodge below Ocean City today; then scatters for home.

VFW Names Buscher Md. Commander

Charles B. Buscher, general manager of the Liquor Control Board of Montgomery County, was elected Maryland department commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars yesterday.

Buscher

Buscher, veteran of World War II, was elected at Ocean City, Md., at the closing session of the VFW annual State convention, the Associated Press reported. He lives at 8520 Manchester rd., Silver Spring.

A member of the Silver Spring Memorial post for the past two years, the 31-year-old veteran served as a Navy lieutenant in the Pacific during the war. He is married and has a daughter, Marian, aged 19 months.

Dr. Floyd J. Carter of 4 Magnolia pkwy., Chevy Chase, a chiropodist, was elected departmental surgeon. Other officers elected were:

Richard F. Cullen of Salisbury, senior vice commander; George D. Ridenour of Hagerstown, junior vice commander; Reginald H. Murphy of Baltimore, quartermaster; Joseph McLaughlin of Baltimore, judge advocate; and the Rev. John O. Long, chaplain.

A number of district commanders also were elected:

Massie Appointed

Winchester, Va., June 22 (AP).—An order has been entered in Circuit Court here by Judge Elliott Marshall appointing Joseph A. Massie, jr., as Commonwealth's attorney for Frederick County.

Massie succeeds J. Sloan Kuykendall, wh oresigned recently to resume his private law practice.

State Police Destroy Snake, Arrest Two Virginia Cultists

Stone Creek, Va., June 22 (U.P.). State highway patrolmen, acting under a new Virginia law, pounded a 5-foot copperhead into pulp on the altar of a tiny chapel here last night and jailed two Holiness faith healer cultists who had fondled it.

The snake made a sudden appearance after three hours of singing and praying while patrolmen, on orders of Gov. William Tuck, moved through the 800-member crowd.

They quickly beat the snake to death with nightsticks and arrested Marcil Thompson, 40, Benedict (Va.) coal miner, and Mrs. Frances Belth, 70, of Pennington Gap, Va., for handling poisonous reptiles in a manner that would "endanger the public safety."

Thompson and Mrs. Belth were immediately hustled off to the Jonesville jail in a waiting patrol wagon. Inside, Thompson sat quietly smiling, his hands folded.

Suddenly he shouted, "Boy, hallelujah! I'd like to get my hands on some more. I don't go in for small things like grasshoppers—I'll go all the way."

Inside the small church which seats only 70, some 30 remaining cultists returned to their ceremonies, with seemingly renewed vigor.

Paul Dotson, leader of the snake-handlers, leaped to the altar, holding a flaming torch made of a milk bottle containing oil and a wick. Dotson waved the flames before the shouting cult and then held it to his face. He yelled that the fire couldn't harm him. Apparently it didn't.

The arrests climaxed weeks of private meetings held in homes of the sect members. They said they had prayed for protection from the deadly serpents and the Virginia State police. The Anti-Snake-Handling Act was enacted by the General Assembly last January.

Man Dresses For Church Then Kills Self

Edward Strickler Calbreath, 69, of 4528 7th st. nw., shot and killed himself with a .41-caliber revolver in the basement of his home about 9:30 a. m. yesterday.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of suicide in his death. Police said he left a note indicating despondency over ill-health.

According to police, Calbreath dressed for church, then went to the basement and shot himself in the head, while his wife, Mrs. Carrie Calbreath, was upstairs getting dressed.

Mrs. Calbreath did not hear the shot because she is deaf, police said. She did not find her husband until an hour later, when she went downstairs, noticed he was not on the first floor and searched the house, according to police.

Calbreath was a supervisor in the Labor Department, police said.

Union Protests Rep. Beall's Vote

Frostburg, Md., June 22 (AP).—Displaying signs declaring, "Beall voted Fascist," "Beall upholds slave labor," some 100 Allegany County union members staged a protest demonstration last night in front of the office of Representative Beall (R., Md.). They objected to the Congressman's vote for the Taft-Hartley labor bill.

Union members charged Beall broke an appointment to meet them, but Beall asserted, "I have never failed to meet any group when it comes in a peaceful and orderly manner."

Postal Supervisor Promotions Asked

Roanoke, Va., June 22 (AP).—A resolution requesting Congress to enact legislation giving postal supervisors five meritorious within-grade promotions of $150 each, for 18 months of supervising service, was adopted by the Virginia State Branch, National Association of Postal Supervisors.

Reelected at a one-day convention here yesterday were Ralph B. Hanna of Norfolk, president of the association for the ensuing year; E. Muse Foster of Norfolk secretary-treasurer; Charles J. Turrisi, Norfolk, legislative representative; Leslie J. Montague, Portsmouth; George O. Inge, Blackstone; Leslie C. Lane, Alexandria; Roy H. Bible, Roanoke, and C. W. Bonner, Richmond, vice presidents.

SAY, WHAT DO YOU TAKE ME FOR... A KID??
WELL, AREN'T YOU ACTING LIKE ONE?

DOTTY

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Here's a Brand-New Way To "Walk" Your Dog

STREET SCENE

Mrs. W. L. K., who's visiting Washington from Rowley, Mass., and staying at 2225 N st. nw., is hereby admitted to associate membership in the District Liners.

Mrs. K. was out for a stroll, when she spotted this item for us:

"At first it looked like the bulldog was on a leash, but there was nobody on the other end of the leash. Then I saw what was happening.

"The leash led back to an auto, which was slowly moving along the curbline and keeping pace with the dog. The pup stopped when and where he willed, sniffed and investigated as long as he wanted to, and then moved on—with the car moving with him.

"When obstructions (such as trees and poles) loomed, the dog cleverly maneuvered in such a way as to avoid entanglement, and that's the way dog and mistress slowly passed from my sight.

"There was a cooperation and understanding between them that was good to see."

MORE ABOUT STREETS

Samuel S. Snyder of 1202 Hamilton st. nw. tops our recent four-street intersection with this one:

Benning rd., Florida ave., 15th st., H st., Maryland ave. and Bladensburg rd.

You're right, Sam—and I've yet to arrive there when the traffic light for my street was green.

MONSTROSITIES

Recruits for the Lizzy Stone League for the Abolition of Long Skirts are now coming in pairs.

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Samburoff of 4606 Queensbury rd., Riverdale, Md., write: "We think that if the girls could see for themselves how unattractive they look in the new styles, they'd quit accepting these monstrosities."

Yeah, and what's worse, they don't just "accept" them. You and I pay for them, brother.

FOUND

The other Sunday morning, a brief case fell from an auto in Mount Rainier.

In the brief case were discharge papers for Marine Corpl. Paul V. McDonald, and other papers that are probably of importance to him.

Former Leatherneck McDonald can claim his stuff at WArfield 0741. The finder was Mrs. G. L. T. Hayes of 4700 30th st., Mount Rainier, Md.

MEMO TO AN HONEST MAN

The other night Sarah Hoffman of 1612 Monroe st. nw. was using the public phone in Smith's Pharmacy at 14th and Clifton sts. nw.

When she finished her call, she left—forgetting her wallet in the booth. The wallet contained $67.

A few minutes later a stranger stepped into the booth and immediately came back out again and approached Mrs. Smith.

"There's a wallet in there," he said. "I think you'd better open it and see if there's any identification."

While Mrs. Smith was looking for the wallet's owner, the stranger left. So this item is to let him know that Miss Hoffman got her money back—and says "thanks."

COMMUNICATION

An envelope containing $10.25 in cash and this letter has been received from the Cayedwellers at 1661 Park rd. nw.:

"Please don't use our names. We took up the enclosed collection to help send a needy child to a summer camp, and we hope you'll forward the money to any organization that can make good use of it."

Thank you. A check for $10.25 is being sent to Sergt. Forrest L. Binswanger, Room 4053, 300 Indiana ave. nw.

The money will be used at Camp Ernest W. Brown, summer camp of the Metropolitan Police Boys Club.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Pure white kittens, two months old"—MIchigan 5763.

FORE!

So long, everybody. I'm off for a three-week vacation, which will be spent in finding out whether golf is as simple a game as Lew Worsham makes it appear.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

The Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn

In today's box, spades were South's unlucky suit. West opened the six of spades, the only suit that would set the hand, and declarer won on the board with the queen.

South decided to set up the diamonds as offering the possibility of four tricks whereas the clubs would give him only three on the bidding. He led a low diamond to his queen, and West took the ace and returned the spade king to South's ace.

Declarer next led a low diamond, and when West followed small, he guessed the adverse situation correctly and put on the king, dropping East's jack. Declarer then ran three rounds of diamonds and followed with the ace and king of hearts, but that was all he took. If he continued a heart, East would win the jack and cash three spade tricks. If he led a club, West would take the ace and return a spade.

Either way, South goes down one trick at three no trump.

He realized that declarer would have won game easily with any other opening lead.

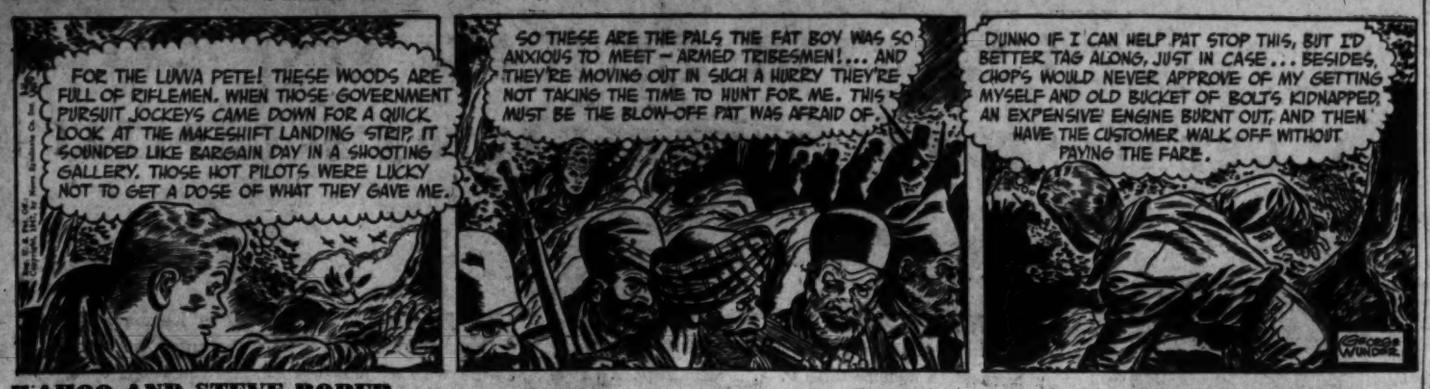
TERRY AND THE PIRATES



FOR THE LUWA PETE! THESE WOODS ARE FULL OF RIFLEMEN. WHEN THOSE GOVERNMENT PURSUIT JOCKEYS CAME DOWN FOR A QUICK LOOK AT THE MAKESHIFT LANDING STRIP, IT SOUNDED LIKE BARGAIN DAY IN A SHOOTING GALLERY. THOSE HOT PILOTS WERE LUCKY NOT TO GET A DOSE OF WHAT THEY GAVE ME.
SO THESE ARE THE PALS THE FAT BOY WAS SO ANXIOUS TO MEET — ARMED TRIBESMEN!... AND THEY'RE MOVING OUT IN SUCH A HURRY THEY'RE NOT TAKING THE TIME TO HUNT FOR ME. THIS MUST BE THE BLOW-OFF PAT WAS AFRAID OF.
DUNNO IF I CAN HELP PAT STOP THIS, BUT I'D BETTER TAG ALONG, JUST IN CASE... BESIDES, CHOPS WOULD NEVER APPROVE OF MY GETTING MYSELF AND OLD BUCKET OF BOLTS KIDNAPPED, AN EXPENSIVE ENGINE BURNT OUT, AND THEN HAVE THE CUSTOMER WALK OFF WITHOUT PAYING THE FARE.

Forgotten food

No matter how much food we buy . . . When we are at the store . . . We always find at mealtime that . . . We need one item more . . . It may be butter, milk or eggs . . . Or just a loaf of bread . . . But it is something we should have . . . To keep us fully fed . . . And so we have to hurry back . . . Or send the youngsters there . . . In order to avoid complaints . . . About our bill of fare . . Yes, even though we faithfully . . . Prepare a shopping list . . . Eventually there seems to be . . . Some item we have missed . . . And that is why at every meal . . . We look around and say . . . "Now what do you imagine we . . . Forgot to get today?"

A GREAT STORE IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL

Claude R. Wickard . . . Indiana farm boy who became Secretary of Agriculture . . . has been associated with the Department since 1933 . . . and is now Director of the Rural Electrification Administration.

INDIANA . . .

We wish to thank The Hecht Company for this opportunity to tell our friends from other states the story of Indiana . . . land of green and fertile plains broken by high, thickly wooded hills . . . "on the Banks of the Wabash" and "The Beautiful Ohio." The Hoosier State was first explored and settled by French traders in the early part of the 18th Century. Vincennes, one of their early trading posts, retains much of its historical color and French culture. Indiana is now a State of prosperous cities and highly cultivated farm lands . . . with the Calumet District, including Gary, Hammond, Whiting and East Chicago, an outstanding industrial area. Indianapolis, the State Capital, is the largest land-locked city in the world. We welcome our neighbors from the rest of the United States to visit our wonderful system of State parks, made easily accessible by our excellent system of highways. Indiana has always been progressive in education . . . established the first consolidated township school as one of her more recent achievements in this field. We are proud of our fine colleges and universities . . . with Purdue, Notre Dame, Indiana University, DePauw, and Butler, among our many institutions of higher learning. Hoosiers have given a rich heritage to American literature and music . . . and have been at the forefront in scientific progress. Indiana lies in what Meredith Nicholson has called "the Valley of Democracy." Our statesmen have served ably in the National Government in some of the most trying periods in the history of our country. We trust that the principles of democracy for which these men fought will be perpetuated in the hearts and by the deeds of all mankind.

Claude R. Wickard

Claude R. Wickard, President,
Indiana State Society

INDIANA . . . The Hoosier State . . . whose versatile people have made it a State great in manufacturing . . . in agriculture . . . and have made an abundant contribution to literature and the arts.

INDIANA . . . Home of Abraham Lincoln for fourteen years . . . in his most formative period. Arriving in Spencer County at the age of seven, he helped his father hew out logs for a three-sided cabin, their home for their first winter in Indiana. Here, by the flickering light from a crude fireplace, he acquired his early education.

INDIANA . . . Whose fifty-mile waterfront on Lake Michigan is one of the greatest industrial centers in the world turning out iron and steel and oil products. The State as a whole is ninth in United States manufacturing . . . with farm machinery, automobiles, aviation and railroad equipment . . . and has some of the largest hosiery and glove factories in America. Indiana is sixth in coal mining . . . third in soy bean production . . . fourth in corn . . . and produces two-thirds of United States peppermint and spearmint oil.

INDIANA . . . Where, at Kokomo, Elwood Haynes made the first successful American run with a "horseless carriage" powered by a gasoline motor . . . now boasts the world's biggest automobile race at the Indianapolis Speedway . . . the largest bricked speedway in the world . . . on each Memorial Day.

INDIANA . . . Land of highly diversified scenic beauty . . . from the sandy dunes along the shore of Lake Michigan to the rocky gorges of the Ohio River . . . State of a thousand lakes, left from the Glacier Age . . . with Wyandotte Cave, second largest U. S. cavern . . . and the mineral springs at West Baden and French Lick, health and recreational resorts.

INDIANA . . . State of authors, poets and composers . . . with authors Booth Tarkington . . . Edward Eggleston . . . Theodore Dreiser, and his brother, Paul Dreiser . . . Meredith Nicholson . . . Clarence Budington Kelland . . . James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier Poet . . . Lew Wallace . . . Gene Stratton-Porter . . . humorist George Ade . . . songsters Hoagy Carmichael and Cole Porter . . . and Ernie Pyle, the G-I's writer.
